Policy Critics "Misinformed"

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—President Eisenhower, disturbed nearly to the point of anger, Tuesday assailed what he said were several serious misunderstandings of U.S. policy in Latin America.

He singled out for sharp answers criticism that the United States slights this region in handing out economic assistance, plays along with dictators, and drives hard bargains for its own enrichment.

The President's remarks at a meeting of Americans in Chile in a downtown theater were part of a full day in which he addressed the Chilean Congress. He assured Congress that a strong United States is ready to come to the defense of any Latin American victims of aggression.

In off-the-cuff remarks to 1,200 Americans and members of Chilean-American groups, Eisenhower declared that "Before individuals who do not carry great responsibility in the world make decisions and spread information, or what they call information," they should make sure of the facts.

Answers Three Criticisms

In his speech prepared for the occasion he replied to three criticisms.

It was astounding, he said, to hear time after time that the United States is helping other areas of the world more than Latin America, and "nothing could be more erroneous."

A statement heard in several countries that the United States "crushes the economies of Latin America in order to enrich itself," he said, is a falsehood that "soon becomes apparent to any thoughtful person."

It was "ridiculous," he declared, to say that the United States supports dictators.

"We repudiate dictatorship in any form, right or left," he added.

An event which apparently disturbed the President was a letter he received from the Federation of Students of Chile, which claims a membership of 25,000. The majority are reported to be Social Christians of the moderate left, but there are some Communists among them.

Plan To Shoot Atlas 9,000 Miles Canceled

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Air Force plan to shoot an Atlas missile nearly 9,000 miles from Cape Canarvel, Fla., into the southern Indian Ocean was suddenly canceled Tuesday amid reports that "higher-ups" had halted it.

One report, unconfirmed at the White House, was that the plan had been referred to President Eisenhower on his tour of South America, and that he had turned thumbs down, at least for the time being.

Why was not stated. One speculation was that the shoot might be considered out of keeping with the President's peace and goodwill tour in the Southern Hemisphere.

Another was that no public notice had been given so that shipping could steer clear of the area. However, the Atlas was set to burn up in the atmosphere near the end of its long journey, so that if all went well it would have been no menace.

The State Department refused comment, but it was known that officials of the department had been in discussions with the Pentagon on the subject. The diplomatic officials were said to have raised the question about a public notice to shipping and were told by Pentagon officers that this was not necessary.

The shoot, if successful, would have carried the intercontinental ballistic missile some 2,000 miles farther than any U.S. rocket has yet traveled.

The Air Force is known to have had a beefed-up Atlas on the launching pad at Canaveral for some days. It was waiting for the right combination of technical and weather factors to send the missile eastward over the Atlantic Ocean, past the southern tip of Africa into an area near the Prince Edward Islands in the Indian Ocean.

'Icebox' Loses Its Reputation

FRASER, Colo. (AP) — The icebox of America isn't living up to its long reputation.

This tiny mountain community, 8,568 feet above sea level, for years has been labeled day in and day out as the coldest spot in the nation — winter or summer.

The mercury, well, it just isn't cooperating. And the 300 residents are downright disappointed. Take Tuesday for example. At noon, the temperature read 25—now get this, above zero. This is Fraser in reverse because usually on March 1 about 25 below zero is more like it. It dropped only to three below Monday night.

Mayor Charles Clayton said this "is the mildest winter in years. Only on rare occasions has the reading fallen to 25 degrees below zero this year. Usually, we count on a day or two of near the 40-below mark."

It's so mild, in fact, people think nothing at all of going outside in their shirt sleeves or housedresses.

Tidal Wave Hits Morocco Resort City

Hundreds Trapped; U.S. Navy Aircraft Aid Rescue Work

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP)—A death-dealing triple assault by two earthquakes and a great Atlantic tidal wave — followed by fire—turned the gay beach resort city of Agadir into a mass of entombing ruins Tuesday.

Moroccan officials said there were 1,000 dead — obviously a guess at the stage rescue operations had reached Tuesday night—and many more injured.

Hundreds of both living and dead were buried under debris. Spouting smoke and agonized screams from the injured who lay trapped measured the expanse of the disaster.

Tuesday night the entire city of 40,000 was being evacuated, the Moroccan radio said.

A French settler evacuated from the area said, "All I can remember is screaming and weeping and blood. I do not want to live there any more."

Rear Adm. Frank Akers, commander of the U.S. Fleet air arm in the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, toured the stricken city and reported a number of Americans were among the injured.

Hospital Destroyed

He said it was a great disaster and that Americans, Europeans and Moroccans in the wreckage were in pathetic condition, some having been trapped more than half a day. He reported the Agadir Hospital was destroyed.

Akers did not elaborate on the number of Americans. A Navy public information officer at Akers' headquarters in Naples, Italy, said he interpreted the admiral's message there to mean some Americans were among those still trapped.

Akers was at the U.S. Navy base at Port Lyautey, Morocco, on inspection at the time of the quake. He spent most of the day visiting Agadir with U.S. Ambassador Charles Yost.

The U.S. Navy said it had an unofficial report that 700 persons were killed at Agadir and there were 2,000 other casualties.

U. S. Planes Ferry Supplies

Ten U.S. Navy aircraft, including helicopters, were assigned to rescue work and ferrying medicine, tools, tents, clothing and other supplies from U.S. European and African bases. A Navy medical field team was sent from Naples.

Bulldozers dug mass graves for victims in Agadir while injured were being flown out to Casablanca, Rabat and other cities.

Dazed survivors told of a night of horror following the violent tremors that brought the first devastation around midnight.

One survivor said the tremors lasted about 20 seconds.

"There was a rumble like thunder, then the wall fell out," he said. "I saw our piano slide into the street with a crash. I crawled out of the wreckage of our home. Everything was pitch dark."

Jean Gambier, a French commercial pilot who flew over Agadir, said "Houses are collapsed like accordions. The Casbah (Moslem section) has simply disappeared and there is nothing left of the Moslem city.

West Delays Berlin Flight Notice To Russ

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Western Big Three Tuesday unexpectedly delayed notifying the Soviet Union of their intention of defying what they say is a Soviet-imposed 10,000-foot ceiling on supply flights to West Berlin.

Top officials gave no explanation for the delay. But they insisted it did not change the joint decision to resume such flights soon, regardless of Soviet objections.

For the second straight day, the State Department refused to confirm or deny reports of such an American-British-French plan.

A spokesman, however, told a news conference: "There is no altitude limitation whatsoever that we recognize."

Press officer Lincoln White, in making the comment, shrugged aside a warning from Soviet authorities in East Germany that such flights would "violate past practices."

A U. S. note was to have gone out Monday officially advising Moscow of the Allied intention to send high-flying planes through assigned air corridors to West Berlin.

As drafted, the note was general in nature and did not give the time when the first such flight would be. This information would have been provided later, before take-off, in keeping with the Allied custom of advising Soviet authorities in Berlin of all such supply flights, regardless of altitude.

The delay raised the possibility that the three governments might decide against a formal note putting the Soviet Union on notice. Some authorities are known to believe that advance notice at a local Berlin level instead of government-to-government level would be backing the American-sponsored move reluctantly. British objection played a big part in convincing the State Department to call off such flights last April after Soviet fighters had buzzed, but did not attack, two C130 turbojets used on the missions.

Training Manuals Probe Opens Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — An investigation into why the armed forces print training manuals on such things as communism in churches and how to wash a dog will start next Monday.

The investigation will be undertaken by a House Armed Services subcommittee headed by Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill).

Traffic Toll Up 4%

CHICAGO (UPI) —The National Safety Council said Tuesday the first month of the new year saw the traffic death toll jump four per cent over the same month a year ago.

The council said traffic fatalities totaled 2,870 this January as compared with 2,760 for the same period in 1959.

Southern Senators Protest "Torture"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern senators accused their civil rights foes Tuesday of political fakery and protested against the "physical torture" of around-the-clock sessions, but showed no sign of surrender.

There was no giving in, either, on the part of the backers of civil rights legislation.

In the deadlock, no one could say when the Senate might end the session which has been dragging on since Monday noon.

Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala), said the continuous session arrangement was clearly an attempt to "impose such physical torture that it will break down the opposition to this legislation."

Agreement came from Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), who said the Southerners were being forced to undergo "ordeal by torture."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill), the Senate's minority leader, commented that the Southerners could end the torture at any time, by agreeing to a date to vote on the pending legislation.

The charge of fakery was raised by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark). He said the Senate was placing political expediency ahead of pressing issues, in order to give the South an "election year castigation."

"Orderly processes of government are being sacrificed on this political altar," Fulbright said.

The pending legislation would provide for federal referees to help Southern Negroes vote and would make it a crime to use force or threats of force against court orders for desegregation of schools.

Nehru, Khrush Discuss China

The Soviet Premier and the Indian leader met for 45 minutes with only interpreters present. Nehru traveled from New Delhi to see him, and Khrushchev stopped off here especially for the meeting. He is on the way home from Indonesia via Afghanistan after talking with Nehru in New Delhi only two weeks ago.

Nehru has since agreed to meet with Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China for a discussion of the dispute between Peiping and New Delhi over 51,000 square miles of Himalayan border territory. There was speculation Khrushchev might have brought some word from Peiping on the dispute.

Khrushchev has cast himself as the voice of moderation in the dispute and tried to avoid taking sides.

Two Children Perish In West Va. Blaze

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A fire Tuesday raced through the small, frame dwelling near here of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Mullens. Two of their five children were burned to death.

Dead were Sandra Gail, 4, and Danney Edward Mullens, 8. Mr. and Mrs. Mullens, and three other small children, were able to escape without serious injuries.

England Regains "Silver Skillet" In Pancake Race

LIBERAL, Kan. (UPI)—An 18-year-old British shop clerk with a knack for flipping flapjacks on the dead run won the "Silver Skillet" for England Tuesday in the international pancake race—a Shrove Tuesday tradition that traces its origin back to the Middle Ages.

In Liberal, Kan., where the other half of the across-the-sea derby is held, Ann Hueter, a 24-year-old physical therapist, ran an identically laid out course in one minute 15.5 seconds. Miss Hueter was hampered by slush and cold weather.

The 5.5 seconds difference in time meant that the "Silver Skillet," emblematic of the competition, will return to Olney. Liberal won the race last year, evening the 10-year history of the race at 5-5.

Jury Gets Case After Dramatic Plea By Van Rie

BOSTON (AP)—Willem van Rie stood erect in the prisoner's box Tuesday for a final dramatic appeal to the jury entrusted with his life. He swore to his God that he did not murder Lynn Kauffman.

The case went to the jury at 5:42 p.m.

"I never did this," the 31-year-old Dutch ship's radio operator declared in a thin, wavering voice. The state earlier had said he did and demanded full measure of punishment, which could include death.

It was a scene of hushing impact seldom witnessed in an American courtroom as Van Rie arose to plead his cause for the last time. Harking back to an ancient legal formula, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts—as do a few other states—allows a prisoner who may be condemned to address the jury at the close of his trial.

"I have committed the sin of adultery with Mrs. Lynn Kauffman, and I know it was wrong," he began in a shaky voice. "My wife has forgiven me of punishment for this sin.

"But I never kicked, nor hit, nor beat Mrs. Lynn Kauffman. I never committed that sin. I never carried her over my shoulder or pushed her overboard. I never did this. It never came up in my mind."

With that, the slender, handsome seafarer—a Roman Catholic—staggered ever so slightly and sat down, eyes glistening. His wife, Nella, 31, sitting 20 feet away, seemed near collapse.

In his charge to the jury Judge Frank J. Murray said it could return one of six verdicts: Guilty of murder in the first degree, guilty of murder in the first degree with a recommendation the death penalty not be imposed, guilty of murder in the second degree, guilty of manslaughter, guilty of assault and battery or not guilty.

House Unit Approves Big Fund For Space Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Space Committee approved Tuesday a bill to authorize 915 million dollars for a national space program designed to help the United States overtake the Soviet Union.

The total is the full amount requested for fiscal 1961 by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, plus an additional 113 million dollars requested last month by President Eisenhower.

Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La), the committee chairman, said he expects the House to pass actual appropriations for the full sum.

Brooks, in announcing his committee's action, said he wished NASA had asked for even more money.

"I'm still disturbed that there is not enough feeling of urgency in this program," he said. "I want NASA to overtake and leapfrog Russia in this field."

In the related field of military rocketry, testimony by Air Force officers sketched plans for early step-ups in missile activities.

Maj. Gen. Robert J. Friedman outlined the faster missile tempo as he asked approval by the Senate Appropriations Committee for Air Force operations and maintenance funds of more than four million dollars. Although he avoided figures on exact numbers of missiles, Friedman made it clear that emphasis is on the new weapons.

Ice-Snow Storms, Record Cold Mark March's Debut

By The Associated Press

A treacherous potion of snow occasionally mixed with freezing rain turned highways into a motorist's nightmare from the Southern Plains eastward through the Lower Mississippi Valley into Alabama.

A sheath of ice made some roads impassable in north central Texas and scores of schools closed.

Freezing rain which started Monday night glazed streets, trees and houses in extreme southern Oklahoma. An accumulation of an inch of ice was expected. Schools closed at Madill and Colbert, north of the Texas border.

Light snow added to the snow cover of four to five inches still on the ground in northern Oklahoma.

A number of schools closed and hazardous driving warnings were issued as the storm dumped two inches of snow on central Arkansas with lesser amounts elsewhere in the state. Oaklawn Park at Hot Springs canceled the day's racing card.

Light snow fell in northern Alabama and some localities expected an accumulation of up to four inches. Temperatures generally remained in the 20s.

Arctic air pouring down from Canada gave some Midwestern cities their coldest weather of the winter and the lowest March 1 readings in history. They included: Madison, Wis., -14; Springfield, Ill., -9; Indianapolis, Ind., -4 and Grand Rapids, Mich., -1.

'Frisco Chief Hits Tanker: Cars Ablaze

Many Feared Dead; Victims Trapped In Burning Wreckage

BAKERSFIELD, Calif (AP) — A speeding, Chicago-bound Santa Fe passenger train slammed into a two-trailer oil truck Tuesday night, touching off a massive explosion that set three piled-up coaches afire.

Santa Fe officials said there were at least 15 dead. Other estimates ranged up to 30. Hospitals said they had received 55 injured.

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—A speeding Santa Fe passenger train collided at a crossing with an oil truck Tuesday. The truck exploded in flames. The railroad said 9 of 11 passenger cars plummeted in flames into a ditch.

A Santa Fe spokesman said there were reports of passengers pinned in the burning wreckage. But there was no immediate confirmation of casualties.

He said the train was the eastbound San Francisco Chief.

The collision occurred at the Rosedale and Allenwood crossing about 5:15 p.m.

Police and sheriff's officers issued emergency calls for aid.

25 To 30 Reported Dead

In an eyewitness broadcast, KGEE radio reporter Steve Arvin reported there were an estimated 25 to 30 dead, with no estimate yet of the injured.

He said people trapped in one car were still screaming as oxygen torches cut into the metal. Fifteen ambulances were taking the injured to Bakersfield.

Lester McPherson, photographere for the Bakersfield Californian, said the three diesel units burned so badly "they're half the size they started out at."

McPherson said after visiting the scene:

"The first three cars practically telescoped into each other. That's where the injured and dead are.

"I saw three dead being brought out of the first passenger car.

Smoke Seen Eight Miles Away

"I was eight miles away when I saw the smoke. When I got there all the passengers were calm. I was amazed; there was no screaming.

"The train had hit an oil truck and trailer. The trailer of the tanker was lying on its side in the middle of the crossing.

"The first two passenger cars went over on their side. The third stayed up. The next two were tilting over. People were sitting in them waiting for buses to come and get them. The next two remained upright."

Ambulances came from the nearby towns of Shafter, Wasco and Delano as well as Bakersfield. Helicopters also were being used to carry injured to hospitas.

Heavy-duty emergency generators were set up for all-night rescue operations.

BULLETIN

State Sen. Ralph Bean (D-Hardy) late last night announced he is withdrawing from the race for the Democatic nomination for governor of West Virginia.

The Associated Press said Sen. Bean gave his reason as lack of finances to carry on a vigorous campaign.

Ike Gets Mention As GOP Keynoter

CHICAGO (AP)—President Eisenhower was mentioned Tuesday as a probable keynote speaker for the Republican National Convention in Chicago in July.

Jaren L. Jones of Salt Lake City, Utah, vice chairman of convention arrangements, told newsmen many party leaders favor the President for the opening address and that his acceptance could be considered a probability.

The possibility of an incumbent president's appearance in a speaking role was brought up at a news conference when reporters asked if any innovations could be expected at the Lincoln centennial assembly of the party. The Republicans nominated Abraham Lincoln in Chicago in 1860.

There was no giving in, either, on the part of the backers of civil rights legislation.

In the deadlock, no one could say when the Senate might end the session which has been dragging on since Monday noon.

Sen. Lister Hill (D-Ala), said the continuous session arrangement was clearly an attempt to "impose such physical torture that it will break down the opposition to this legislation."

Agreement came from Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark), who said the Southerners were being forced to undergo "ordeal by torture."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill), the Senate's minority leader, commented that the Southerners could end the torture at any time, by agreeing to a date to vote on the pending legislation.

The charge of fakery was raised by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark). He said the Senate was placing political expediency ahead of pressing issues, in order to give the South an "election year castigation."

"Orderly processes of government are being sacrificed on this political altar," Fulbright said.

The pending legislation would provide for federal referees to help Southern Negroes vote and would make it a crime to use force or threats of force against court orders for desegregation of schools.

Nehru, Khrush Discuss China

The Soviet Premier and the Indian leader met for 45 minutes with only interpreters present. Nehru traveled from New Delhi to see him, and Khrushchev stopped off here especially for the meeting. He is on the way home from Indonesia via Afghanistan after talking with Nehru in New Delhi only two weeks ago.

Nehru has since agreed to meet with Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China for a discussion of the dispute between Peiping and New Delhi over 51,000 square miles of Himalayan border territory. There was speculation Khrushchev might have brought some word from Peiping on the dispute.

Khrushchev has cast himself as the voice of moderation in the dispute and tried to avoid taking sides.

England Regains "Silver Skillet" In Pancake Race

LIBERAL, Kan. (UPI)—An 18-year-old British shop clerk with a knack for flipping flapjacks on the dead run won the "Silver Skillet" for England Tuesday in the international pancake race—a Shrove Tuesday tradition that traces its origin back to the Middle Ages.

In Liberal, Kan., where the other half of the across-the-sea derby is held, Ann Hueter, a 24-year-old physical therapist, ran an identically laid out course in one minute 15.5 seconds. Miss Hueter was hampered by slush and cold weather.

The 5.5 seconds difference in time meant that the "Silver Skillet," emblematic of the competition, will return to Olney. Liberal won the race last year, evening the 10-year history of the race at 5-5.

Jury Gets Case After Dramatic Plea By Van Rie

BOSTON (AP)—Willem van Rie stood erect in the prisoner's box Tuesday for a final dramatic appeal to the jury entrusted with his life. He swore to his God that he did not murder Lynn Kauffman.

The case went to the jury at 5:42 p.m.

"I never did this," the 31-year-old Dutch ship's radio operator declared in a thin, wavering voice. The state earlier had said he did and demanded full measure of punishment, which could include death.

It was a scene of hushing impact seldom witnessed in an American courtroom as Van Rie arose to plead his cause for the last time. Harking back to an ancient legal formula, the Commonwealth of Massachusetts—as do a few other states—allows a prisoner who may be condemned to address the jury at the close of his trial.

"I have committed the sin of adultery with Mrs. Lynn Kauffman, and I know it was wrong," he began in a shaky voice. "My wife has forgiven me of punishment for this sin.

"But I never kicked, nor hit, nor beat Mrs. Lynn Kauffman. I never committed that sin. I never carried her over my shoulder or pushed her overboard. I never did this. It never came up in my mind."

With that, the slender, handsome seafarer—a Roman Catholic—staggered ever so slightly and sat down, eyes glistening. His wife, Nella, 31, sitting 20 feet away, seemed near collapse.

In his charge to the jury Judge Frank J. Murray said it could return one of six verdicts: Guilty of murder in the first degree, guilty of murder in the first degree with a recommendation the death penalty not be imposed, guilty of murder in the second degree, guilty of manslaughter, guilty of assault and battery or not guilty.

'Frisco Chief Hits Tanker: Cars Ablaze

Many Feared Dead; Victims Trapped In Burning Wreckage

BAKERSFIELD, Calif (AP) — A speeding, Chicago-bound Santa Fe passenger train slammed into a two-trailer oil truck Tuesday night, touching off a massive explosion that set three piled-up coaches afire.

Santa Fe officials said there were at least 15 dead. Other estimates ranged up to 30. Hospitals said they had received 55 injured.

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—A speeding Santa Fe passenger train collided at a crossing with an oil truck Tuesday. The truck exploded in flames. The railroad said 9 of 11 passenger cars plummeted in flames into a ditch.

A Santa Fe spokesman said there were reports of passengers pinned in the burning wreckage. But there was no immediate confirmation of casualties.

He said the train was the eastbound San Francisco Chief.

The collision occurred at the Rosedale and Allenwood crossing about 5:15 p.m.

Police and sheriff's officers issued emergency calls for aid.

25 To 30 Reported Dead

In an eyewitness broadcast, KGEE radio reporter Steve Arvin reported there were an estimated 25 to 30 dead, with no estimate yet of the injured.

He said people trapped in one car were still screaming as oxygen torches cut into the metal. Fifteen ambulances were taking the injured to Bakersfield.

Lester McPherson, photographer for the Bakersfield Californian, said the three diesel units burned so badly "they're half the size they started out at."

McPherson said after visiting the scene:

"The first three cars practically telescoped into each other. That's where the injured and dead are.

"I saw three dead being brought out of the first passenger car.

Smoke Seen Eight Miles Away

"I was eight miles away when I saw the smoke. When I got there all the passengers were calm. I was amazed; there was no screaming.

"The train had hit an oil truck and trailer. The trailer of the tanker was lying on its side in the middle of the crossing.

"The first two passenger cars went over on their side. The third stayed up. The next two were tilting over. People were sitting in them waiting for buses to come and get them. The next two remained upright."

Ambulances came from the nearby towns of Shafter, Wasco and Delano as well as Bakersfield. Helicopters also were being used to carry injured to hospitas.

Heavy-duty emergency generators were set up for all-night rescue operations.

Ice-Snow Storms, Record Cold Mark March's Debut

By The Associated Press

A treacherous potion of snow occasionally mixed with freezing rain turned highways into a motorist's nightmare from the Southern Plains eastward through the Lower Mississippi Valley into Alabama.

A sheath of ice made some roads impassable in north central Texas and scores of schools closed.

Freezing rain which started Monday night glazed streets, trees and houses in extreme southern Oklahoma. An accumulation of an inch of ice was expected. Schools closed at Madill and Colbert, north of the Texas border.

Light snow added to the snow cover of four to five inches still on the ground in northern Oklahoma.

A number of schools closed and hazardous driving warnings were issued as the storm dumped two inches of snow on central Arkansas with lesser amounts elsewhere in the state. Oaklawn Park at Hot Springs canceled the day's racing card.

Light snow fell in northern Alabama and some localities expected an accumulation of up to four inches. Temperatures generally remained in the 20s.

Arctic air pouring down from Canada gave some Midwestern cities their coldest weather of the winter and the lowest March 1 readings in history. They included: Madison, Wis., -14; Springfield, Ill., -9; Indianapolis, Ind., -4 and Grand Rapids, Mich., -1.

Two Children Perish In West Va. Blaze

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—A fire Tuesday raced through the small, frame dwelling near here of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Mullens. Two of their five children were burned to death.

Dead were Sandra Gail, 4, and Danney Edward Mullens, 8. Mr. and Mrs. Mullens, and three other small children, were able to escape without serious injuries.

House Unit Approves Big Fund For Space Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Space Committee approved Tuesday a bill to authorize 915 million dollars for a national space program designed to help the United States overtake the Soviet Union.

The total is the full amount requested for fiscal 1961 by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, plus an additional 113 million dollars requested last month by President Eisenhower.

Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La), the committee chairman, said he expects the House to pass actual appropriations for the full sum.

Brooks, in announcing his committee's action, said he wished NASA had asked for even more money.

"I'm still disturbed that there is not enough feeling of urgency in this program," he said. "I want NASA to overtake and leapfrog Russia in this field."

In the related field of military rocketry, testimony by Air Force officers sketched plans for early step-ups in missile activities.

Maj. Gen. Robert J. Friedman outlined the faster missile tempo as he asked approval by the Senate Appropriations Committee for Air Force operations and maintenance funds of more than four million dollars. Although he avoided figures on exact numbers of missiles, Friedman made it clear that emphasis is on the new weapons.

Ike Gets Mention As GOP Keynoter

CHICAGO (AP)—President Eisenhower was mentioned Tuesday as a probable keynote speaker for the Republican National Convention in Chicago in July.

Jaren L. Jones of Salt Lake City, Utah, vice chairman of convention arrangements, told newsmen many party leaders favor the President for the opening address and that his acceptance could be considered a probability.

The possibility of an incumbent president's appearance in a speaking role was brought up at a news conference when reporters asked if any innovations could be expected at the Lincoln centennial assembly of the party. The Republicans nominated Abraham Lincoln in Chicago in 1860.

Denture Identified As Slain Widow's

Dentist Testifies At Motherwell Trial

DOWNIEVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A jawbone and upper denture found near this mountain town last summer were positively identified Tuesday at the Larry Lord Motherwell murder trial as those of Mrs. Pearl L. Putney; well-to-do widow of Washington, D. C.

"That's my work," Dr. Victor V. Bele, Washington, D. C., dentist, testified as he held the denture. "This is Pearl Lyda Putney's."

He showed the jury how the jaw and denture matched.

Earlier in the 3-week-old trial Dr. Gerald Ridge, Los Angeles County pathologist, testified the jaw belonged to a skull and other remains found near a little used logging road 27 miles east of Downieville last Aug. 16.

Mrs. Putney, 72, was last reported seen alive Aug. 15, 1958 in Marysville, Calif., west of Downieville, in company of Motherwell.

While cross-examing Dr. Bele, defense attorney John T. Reges of Washington, D. C., accidentally dropped the denture onto a table. No harm was done but the attorney apologized:

"Excuse me, Pearl."

Other witnesses added to the state's circumstantial case.

Three from Detroit told of Motherwell carrying thousands of dollars in his wallet a few months after Mrs. Putney vanished. All three said he identified himself as "Arthur Rivers."

Taxi driver Edward Janke said "He had a lot of money with him" in a "fat wallet, see."

Warren Lawrence, a Detroit car sales manager, said Motherwell bought a $3,267 station wagon Oct. 27, 1958, and paid for it in cash.

Geraldine Hamilton, cashier of the auto firm, said he paid in 100s, 50s and 20s, and "possibly a $1,000 bill."

FBI Agent Carl W. Bucholz of Washington said he had checked all the 315 million names in the FBI file without finding a "D'Avious," the name of a man Motherwell said Mrs. Putney married when they separated in 1958.

Finch Defense Cites Provision Of Wife's Will

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dr. R. Bernard Finch sat with tears welling into his eyes Tuesday as his attorney told a hushed courtroom the wealthy surgeon's wife thought enough of him that her will named him guardian not only of their son but her daughter by an earlier marriage.

It was the first time during the 2½-month-old trial Dr. Finch has lost his composure — except for dramatic moments when in the climax of his own testimony he broke down as he described his socialite wife's last moments.

His attorney, Grant B. Cooper, said Barbara Jean Finch was faking when she told stories her husband attacked her. She did it, he said, because "she wanted to get him over a barrel" and get more divorce money.

Before her death, he said, she named her husband in her will as guardian of their son, Raymond, and her daughter, Patty.

The state says they coldly plotted the slaying to prevent Mrs. Finch from getting a big divorce settlement. The doctor says he shot his wife accidentally during a fight for a gun she pulled on him when he tried to talk to her about divorce.

The prosecution during the lengthy trial produced witnesses who testified Mrs. Finch feared her husband planned to kill her. They quoted her as saying he had assaulted and threatened her.

Fernandez, telling him that while some of his "critical claims are justified," others showed a "serious lack of comprehension of U.S. positions and responsibilities."

The President promised a more detailed reply after the students' letter is analyzed.

The President also met a direct challenge to U.S. policy when he appeared before a joint session of Congress.

Senate President Hernan Videla, in introducing Eisenhower, said the United States, as leader in the hemisphere, must come around to a definite attitude "of preferring your nearest neighbors, your truest friends, when the need arises for support and help."

"The reality of an America organically united already exists. Your nation should ratify it with the full intensity of its power," he went on.

Peace, he said depends not only on defensive military strength but also on economic security.

Eisenhower, in his speech to the legislators, recalled the Rio de Janeiro treaty of 1947 that binds all the American nations to consider an armed attack on one an attack on all.

The United States, he said, would fulfill that pledge "with strength and promptness and firmness."

On the question of aid, he said, "The principal impetus for any nation's economic development must be its own will — its own dedicated effort. Then financial and technical assistance from abroad can be extremely helpful."

He cited a number of instances of public and private investments and assistance being extended to Chile by the United States.

The President got a 40-second ovation as he finished speaking. This and the previous applause were unusual, for Chilean legislators seldom applaud a speech.

Amish Boycott School; 13 Fined

MORGANTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Thirteen Amish fathers were fined $2 and costs Monday night for refusing to send their children to a new junior high school.

Despite the fines and costs totaling $13 to $24, the Amishmen again Tuesday kept their 17 children out of the 2-million dollar Twin-Valley Junior-Senior High School.

The Amish, clinging to their austere 19th century mode of living, claim the new school is too worldly and too far away — 10 miles - for their offspring. They want their own school closer to home.

The fathers were supposed to have a hearing Tuesday night, but in a move that surprised even their New York attorney, they drove up to the home of Justice of the Peace W. O. Trindle in their horse - drawn carriages Monday night and pleaded no defense.

Trindle levied the fines and sent the fathers home. He told them to get their children — five boys and twelve girls ranging in age from 12 to 14 — back in school. Since fall, the Amish children have been attending school half a day a week under an Amish teacher.

Francis Wood, principal of the new school, said he planned to take out new warrants every three days against the parents for violating the state law on school attendance.

FCC Warns 4 Radio Stations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional payola hearings have brought a Federal Communications Commission warning to four Massachusetts radio stations.

The FCC notified the stations Tuesday that their license renewals are being held up and said it appears that public hearings on them will be necessary. Judging by precedent, this apparently does not mean the stations are in danger of being kicked off the air. But it does mean they have some explaining to do.

The stations are WMEX, WILD, and WORL of Boston and WHIL of Medford. They are up for their regular three-year license renewals, as are most stations in New England at this time.

The commission's action resulted from a Dec. 2 questionnaire sent to each broadcasting station in the country demanding a prompt sworn statement on whether the station had plugged products for pay without identifying the plugs as paid advertisement. This is referred to as payola.

The commission said that in view of testimony at the subsequent congressional inquiry, the replies from the four stations were "lacking in candor."

Elvis Flies Home Today To Swap Rifle For Guitar

FRIEDBERG, Germany (AP)—With a good-by to a 16-year-old American girl friend, Elvis Presley flies home Wednesday to lay down his Army rifle and pick up his guitar.

"I would like to write a book about my Army experience," said the 24-year-old rock 'n' roll singer who Monday received a citation for achievement as an outstanding soldier.

The idol of teen-agers told a news conference he had been dating pretty Priscilla Beaulieu, a high school student, for three or four months, and "I like her very much."

"I'm fond of him," Prisçilla said by telephone from her high school at Wiesbaden Air Base. Her father is Capt. Joseph P. Beaulieu Jr. of Austin, Tex., stationed at Wiesbaden.

But both Presley and Priscilla agreed the affair isn't serious.

Presley plans to leave aboard a military transport plane and likely will land at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey.

An Army spokesman said Presley could expect his discharge—as sergeant and scout platoon leader in the U. S. 3rd Armored Division—in 2 to 24 hours after reaching the United States.

"I think there are three movies planned with me for the time being," said Presley, who will visit his home in Memphis, Tenn., and appear on a national TV show May 1.

Excited London Crowds Acclaim Princess, Fiance

The princess and her fiance, Antony Armstrong-Jones, 29, photographer of Britain's elite, made their first public appearance together since the announcement of their engagement last Friday.

He and Margaret returned earlier in the day from a long weekend in seclusion at Windsor.

They arrived at the Covent Garden Opera House to watch Dame Margot Fonteyn dance and a crowd of more than 2,000—mostly women and young girls — set up a din of squeals and cheers. Squads of special police struggled to control the excited crowds.

As the royal car drew up to the opera house the crowd surged forward and forced the police back. Amid popping flashbulbs and the blinding glare of TV are lights, first Queen Mother Elizabeth and The princess, wearing a white fur then Princess Margaret stepped stole and a jeweled satin evening from their gleaming limousine, gown, looked serenely happy.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Agile, alert Lt. Col. Vernon L. Burge, 73, will visit a marker on a one-time drill field Wednesday to observe the start of flying at this huge military aviation center.

It was on this field, where Army officers drilled their horses, that 1st Lt. Benjamin D. Foulois flew a Wright brothers plane March 2, 1910.

Many credit his flight with the real start of U.S. military aviation, although a few Army officers were airborne earlier.

San Antonio later was to become the flying center of the nation with its Randolph Field, called "West Point of the air," and many other fields.

Burge was a mechanic for the plane. Only three others survive who participated in the flight a half century ago.

Burge enlisted in the Signal Corps in 1907 and was assigned to balloons. Later, when Wilbur and Orville Wright conducted demonstrations of their plane for the government, Burge watched.

Elvis Flies Home Today To Swap Rifle For Guitar

FRIEDBERG, Germany (AP)—With a good-by to a 16-year-old American girl friend, Elvis Presley flies home Wednesday to lay down his Army rifle and pick up his guitar.

"I would like to write a book about my Army experience," said the 24-year-old rock 'n' roll singer who Monday received a citation for achievement as an outstanding soldier.

The idol of teen-agers told a news conference he had been dating pretty Priscilla Beaulieu, a high school student, for three or four months, and "I like her very much."

"I'm fond of him," Priscilla said by telephone from her high school at Wiesbaden Air Base. Her father is Capt. Joseph P. Beaulieu Jr. of Austin, Tex., stationed at Wiesbaden.

But both Presley and Priscilla agreed the affair isn't serious.

Presley plans to leave aboard a military transport plane and likely will land at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey.

An Army spokesman said Presley could expect his discharge—as sergeant and scout platoon leader in the U. S. 3rd Armored Division—in 2 to 24 hours after reaching the United States.

"I think there are three movies planned with me for the time being," said Presley, who will visit his home in Memphis, Tenn., and appear on a national TV show May 1.

Excited London Crowds Acclaim Princess, Fiance

The princess and her fiance, Antony Armstrong-Jones, 29, photographer of Britain's elite, made their first public appearance together since the announcement of their engagement last Friday.

He and Margaret returned earlier in the day from a long weekend in seclusion at Windsor.

They arrived at the Covent Garden Opera House to watch Dame Margot Fonteyn dance and a crowd of more than 2,000—mostly women and young girls — set up a din of squeals and cheers. Squads of special police struggled to control the excited crowds.

As the royal car drew up to the opera house the crowd surged forward and forced the police back. Amid popping flashbulbs and the blinding glare of TV arc lights, first Queen Mother Elizabeth and then Princess Margaret stepped from their gleaming limousine. The princess, wearing a white fur stole and a jeweled satin evening gown, looked serenely happy.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Agile, alert Lt. Col. Vernon L. Burge, 73, will visit a marker on a one-time drill field Wednesday to observe the start of flying at this huge military aviation center.

It was on this field, where Army officers drilled their horses, that 1st Lt. Benjamin D. Foulois flew a Wright brothers plane March 2, 1910.

Many credit his flight with the real start of U.S. military aviation, although a few Army officers were airborne earlier.

San Antonio later was to become the flying center of the nation with its Randolph Field, called "West Point of the air," and many other fields.

Burge was a mechanic for the plane. Only three others survive who participated in the flight a half century ago.

Burge enlisted in the Signal Corps in 1907 and was assigned to balloons. Later, when Wilbur and Orville Wright conducted demonstrations of their plane for the government, Burge watched.

Mental Exam Set For Man Who Admitted, Then Denied Slayings

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP) —A young sawmill worker who blurted out that he killed the Carroll V. Jackson family—and later denied any implication in the slayings—will undergo a mental examination.

Police Chief Robert W. Coble said Tuesday the 21-year-old Fredericksburg resident would be examined by Dr. Harry J. Haymes of the Fredericksburg Area Mental Hygiene Clinic as soon as Dr. Haymes can work it into his schedule.

Dr. Haymes was out of town Tuesday.

Police working on the year-old slaying of the four-member Jackson family tended more and more to the view that the young man was virtually eliminated as a suspect. One high-ranking officer said the likelihood that he was involved "is becoming weaker and weaker."

A lie detector test at Culpeper was termed inconclusive.

The man was arrested here Sunday on charges of drunkenness, breach of the peace and destruction of private property. Police said that while being questioned at headquarters he blurted out that he had killed the Jacksons in January, 1959.

Later he denied the story and said he told it originally to get police questioners "off my back."

Police said the man lived in Spotsylvania County — about 30 miles from where the Jacksons were abducted—at the time of the abduction Jan. 11 last year. They said that for the last year he has worked at a sawmill in Fairfax County.

The Jacksons were taken from their car while returning to their home from a Sunday family visit. The bodies of Jackson and his younger daughter, Janet, 18 months, were found at an abandoned sawmill site near Fredericksburg last March. The bodies of Mrs. Jackson and the other daughter, Susan, 4, were found near another sawmill in Anne Arundel County, Md., the same month.

The man was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50 on the charges filed Sunday. Municipal Judge A. W. Embrey Jr. said the sentence would be suspended if payment was made for the property damage.

Salisbury Farmer Auto Crash Victim

One of two injured persons in another car was seriously hurt in the smashup on U.S. 50.

State Police said Pollitt was traveling north on Rockawalkin Road when he failed to stop for a stop sign and collided with a car driven by Mrs. Nannie L. Newcombe, 41, of Cambridge. The Newcombe car was eastbound on U.S. 50.

Mrs. Newcombe was in fair condition at Peninsula General Hospital and her husband Oliver, 57, a passenger, was in serious condition.

Pollitt's death marked the 88th traffic fatality of the year in Maryland, compared with 81 through March 1st last year.

Christopher Columbus died in Spain.

Beauty Salon Customer Wins $3,000 Damages

BALTIMORE (AP)—A Federal Court jury Tuesday awarded a Washington, D.C. woman $3,000 for a scalp inflammation which she claimed resulted from a beauty treatment.

Mrs. Margaret R. McDougle, 58, an employe of the Library of Congress, testified that a cold wave given at a Charles of the Ritz beauty salon in Bethesda-Chevy Chase Sept. 6, 1958, caused acute dermatitis and eruptions on her arms and legs.

The nervous shock from the ailment, she told the jury, also caused her to suffer a dislocated elbow in a fall a month later.

The defense contended there was no evidence that the inflammation resulted from the beauty treatment.

Battlefield Land Bill Up To Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Money for purchase of additional lands for the Gettysburg, Pa., battlefield park is now up to the Senate.

The Interior Department appropriation bill for the year starting July 1, which provides $200,000 for this purpose, was passed by the House Feb. 16. Hearings have been concluded by the Senate Appropriations Committee, but there is no way of predicting when the bill will be brought up in the Senate.

The House-passed bill contains $400,000 for the purchase of additional Civil War battle grounds to be added to national historical parks.

Half of this amount could be used for the Gettysburg park provided local authorities set up zoning regulations to halt encroachment of commercialism.

Gettysburg lost its chance for funds for land purchases in the current fiscal year ending June 30 because local zoning ordinances were not enacted as stipulated by the House Appropriations Committee.

1-IN-1,000 — Sandra Fisher, 4, was all smiles as she waited for her parents to take her home from Stanford hospital in San Francisco, where she underwent a one-in-a-thousand heart defect operation. She was born with a three-chambered heart. Surgeons "built" an artificial wall inside the child's heart, using a plastic material which was stitched to the heart wall, thereby creating two chambers in the atrium, where previously there had only been one.

Mitchell Opens Safety Meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said Tuesday changing methods of industrial production are pushing on-the-job accident rates up to "sobering" levels.

He told the opening session of the President's Conference on Occupational Safety that the nation's schools should include safety instruction from first grade through college.

The Cabinet officer read a message from Eisenhower in which the President described on-the-job accidents as "a grievous loss of life, family income and productive capacity."

Reporting that two million workers were injured and nearly 14,000 were killed while on the job last year, Mitchell said the nation cannot afford this human loss.

He said increasing mechanization has made factory life more dangerous.

"When split second decisions are required to protect life and limb, when hazards become so subtle they can be detected only by special skill and instruments, he said, "then safety becomes a part of general instruction."

Author of the British national anthem was Dr. Henry Carey, who was born in London about 1696.

Two Workmen Die In Brewery Explosion, Fire

BALTIMORE (AP)—Two workers were killed, a third was burned and six firefighters were injured in an explosion and fire at the Hamm's Brewery here Tuesday.

The three workers were identified as employes of a Cincinnati, Ohio, contracting firm renovating the old Gunther Brewery, which was sold recently to the Hamm's concern of St. Paul, Minn.

Killed were Omar Wolford, 44, and Orville Dillingham, 54, both of Columbia, Ky. Suffering second and third degree burns was Ralph Patton, 27, of Cincinnati.

Three of the firefighters were hurt when knocked down by a back draft as they tried to carry a hose into the burning fermenting cellar.

Firemen said Patton and Wolford were inside a storage tank spraying it with liquid glass. Dillingham was standing near a heating unit used to liquefy the coating compound.

John W. Skipper, 55, of Towson, a plant operating engineer, said he handed a cup of coffee to Dillingham and walked toward the vat to give cups to the other two men when the blast occurred.

Dillingham's clothes burst into flames. Skipper said he ran to the vat to warn the two men inside, and then went out of the cellar to get a fire extinguisher.

He was unable to reenter the fermenting house because of clouds of black smoke coming from burning cork insulation placed in the room to maintain an even temperature.

Workers in other sections of the brewery also tried to rescue the men, but were driven back by the smoke.

Firemen managed to reach Dillingham and remove him from the building. He was dead on arrival at City Hospitals. A few minutes later they found Patton lying on the floor between two vats. They carried him to safety.

It took an hour and a half of searching in the smoke to locate Wolford in the vat. He was dead.

Senate Confirms Paul As West Va. Judge

The 57-year-old Wheeling, W. Va., attorney was nominated by the President Jan. 11. He received prior recommendations and his nomination to the Senate for confirmation had been generally expected.

Paul, a Republican, will succeed Judge Herbert S. Boreman of Parkersburg. Judge Boreman was promoted from the district judgeship last summer to the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — With the help of a mighty robot, the homemaker will rule a mood-conditioned roost by 1980.

The robot's super brain, resting in a closet or in the space once occupied by washtubs, will take orders from a dial manipulated by the housewife.

The mood control will be accomplished through shifting patterns of light coordinated with music.

But that's not all. The electronic marvel making all this possible also will give the homemaker a kind of X-ray vision. By pushing the proper button, she'll be able to see the person ringing the doorbell without opening the door.

The mechanical "slave" also will work while the family is away. If someone calls while the house is empty, the robot's brain will store the message and the picture of the person calling. The information will be "played back" when the family returns.

As the engineers figure it, the homemaker even will be able to leave with the robot a message which a caller, upon identifying himself, will be able to extract from the electronic marvel.

Painting this picture of the future are Dr. Nisson Finklestein and Leon Kinize, a Stromberg-Carlson musician - engineer. Dr. Finklestein is director of the firm's advanced research and development department.

The robot concept, they said in an interview, is far from dream-like or science fiction.

Many of the "bugs" have been worked out of the pioneer robot developed in the firm's laboratories. The dial used by the homemaker to give the robot orders is pocket-size.

Proving that their predictions aren't pie in the sky, the experts also demonstrated how the robot will help to serve the housewife by screening door - bell pushers and taking messages when the family is away.

Labor-Industry Parley Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A labor-management "summit" conference, proposed by AFL - CIO President George Meany, has been temporarily postponed, a Labor Department spokesman said Monday.

The spokesman said it now appears the meeting will not be held in early March as Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell had predicted. But he said the conference is still very much alive and has not been cancelled.

Mitchell and Meany both are actively promoting the conference idea with President Eisenhower's approval.

The National Association of Manufacturers said over the weekend that Meany had not showed up for meetings to discuss plans for the "summit" talks. But Meany has, from the first, said that he prefers to by - pass the NAM and deal instead with firms who bargain with unions.

Both union and non-union companies are represented in the NAM.

Religion Played Important Role In Five Previous U.S. Presidential Campaigns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If religion becomes an issue in the 1960 presidential campaign, it will be the sixth time in U.S. history it has happened.

So says Prof. Robert Michaelsen of Iowa State University, who has been doing some scholarly research on the subject. His findings are reported in a series of articles for Christian Century magazine.

Thomas Jefferson was the first presidential candidate whose religious beliefs became a subject of political controversy. Michaelson notes that Jefferson was a profound believer in God, and his private writings show that he spent much time studying the teachings of Jesus. But he never joined a church and was extremely reticent about discussing his religious convictions in public.

In the campaign of 1796, when Jefferson first opposed John Adams for the presidency, many clergymen publicly denounced him as an agnostic. One called him "a howling atheist." Martin Van Buren wrote that some Americans expected "the burning of Bibles and the prostration of religion" if Jefferson ever occupied the White House. The issue was doubtless a factor in Jefferson's defeat.

When Jefferson ran against Adams a second time, in 1800, the question of his religious unorthodoxy was again raised vociferously. But Jefferson was elected. By ironic coincidence, the nation experienced a major religious revival during his term as president, and in 1804, he was reelected without much talk about "Bible-burning."

The third campaign in which religion played an important role was that of 1884, when Democrat Grover Cleveland faced Republican James B. Blaine. One of Blaine's supporters, a Presbyterian minister named Samuel D. Burchard, threw the fat in the fire by proclaiming at a meeting of clergymen that the Democrats were the party of "rum, Romanism and rebellion."

Blaine promptly repudiated the statement, but the Democrats gave it wide circulation, and used it to win enough Catholic support for Cleveland to carry New York state—and the election.

The religious issue reared its head a fourth time in the 1908 campaign between Republican William Howard Taft and Democrat William Jennings Bryan. Taft was a Unitarian, and this was pointed out and deplored by some conservative Protestants. But it never became a major source of controversy, and Taft was elected.

The last previous campaign in which a candidate's religion figured prominently was that of 1928, in which Republican Herbert Hoover, a Quaker, defeated Democrat Al Smith, a Catholic.

Political historians now believe that Smith's Catholicism was only one of the factors that caused his defeat. He was also an outspoken opponent of prohibition, and this stand as well as his religion may have contributed to his losing several states of the normally Democratic "solid South." But there is no question that many Protestants opposed Smith — both publicly and in private whispering campaigns — primarily on the grounds of his church affiliations.

Filibustering Well Developed In 1st Congress

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Well, here we go again, down into the filibuster pits.

But this time it's a mite different. Usually senators, like starlings, fly away at night to get some sleep.

Now, so the threat goes, the sessions will be continuous, with no letup until one side cries uncle. More likely there will be no letup until a compromise is found. This may satisfy nobody, but at least it will shut the Senate up.

If all goes as advertised, the big moment will come at 6:11 p.m. Wednesday.

At that time the Senate will have been in continuous session for 54 hours and 11 minutes, beating by a minute the previous long-windedness record. This was set in 1915, in a fight over a bill to purchase German ships held in U.S. harbors.

One thing to remember: A lot of bluffing is done in each filibuster. Anyone who reads his filibuster history will note that some of the angriest, unyielding-est talk came just before the end.

No one knows when filibustering began. Probably the first legislature had the first filibuster as someone talked and talked until a proposal was drowned in an ocean of words. But nearly everyone agrees that the filibuster has reached its peak, or depth, with the U.S. Senate where freedom of debate is almost unlimited.

In recent years we have come to think of filibusters as synonymous with civil rights proposals. But filibustering was well developed in the First Congress.

Sen. William Maclay wrote sourly in 1790: "Every endeavor was made to waste time."

Incidentally, as the boys settle down in the pit, it's well to remember that rarely is much said there that is memorable.

Twelve years ago Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan was presiding while Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon was filibustering. Morse asked how long he had talked.

"It seems like a couple of weeks to the chair," Vandenberg replied.

NEW YORK (AP)—Wall Street reached the end of February Monday in considerably better frame of mind than it started the month.

The market was in the midst of a slide when February arrived and reached its low point Feb. 16. Then a rally chopped off about one-third of the losses and now the market is acting stronger again.

"If the recent action of stock prices means anything," says Standard & Poor's Corp., "the market probably has seen its lows for a while.

"Growing awareness of the excessive swing from over-optimism to pessimism regarding business should lend buoyancy. However, the rally is likely to be selective and contained within broad trading limits."

Standard & Poor's considers stocks now much less vulnerable to unfavorable news than at any time in the last two months.

"This," it observes, "is symptomatic of a rather well sold-out market, which may have to form a base in the current area before moving ahead, but should be responsive to favorable developments, such as the prospect of good year-to-year earnings gains to be shown in first-quarter reports."

Investors Research Co. feels that the market already has touched its low point of this year.

It's of the opinion that the current recovery is "more than a technical rebound which it has been so widely labeled."

The Fitch Survey believes that the recent slump has ended.

"Should the market come out of its final reactionary phase," says the analyst, "it will most likely have weathered its most turbulent period this year."

"The worst is behind us," predicts Business Reports Inc.

"We are not quite so sure lower prices may not be seen later this year. But for the time being it is a safe assumption that the precipitate decline has ended. Prices are perhaps nearer the lows of 1960 than their highs."

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — With the help of a mighty robot, the homemaker will rule a mood-conditioned roost by 1980.

The robot's super brain, resting in a closet or in the space once occupied by washtubs, will take orders from a dial manipulated by the housewife.

The mood control will be accomplished through shifting patterns of light coordinated with music.

But that's not all. The electronic marvel making all this possible also will give the homemaker a kind of X-ray vision. By pushing the proper button, she'll be able to see the person ringing the doorbell without opening the door.

The mechanical "slave" also will work while the family is away. If someone calls while the house is empty, the robot's brain will store the message and the picture of the person calling. The information will be "played back" when the family returns.

Suit Is Filed In Limestone Quarry Dispute

A suit has been docketed in Allegany County Circuit Court by a Cumberland man against three firms in a dispute over a limestone quarry property.

The action was brought by Milton Bernstein against A. J. Rost, Pittsburgh, and others, trustees for the Mt. Savage Refractories Company and the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company, city, and the Frye Coal and Stone Company, Corriganville, in a dispute over a limestone quarry property.

The plaintiffs, represented by Thomas B. Finan and Clarence Lippel, state the object of the suit is for a declaratory decree declaring that the fee simple title to the surface of the property which is the subject of the litigation is vested in the plaintiff Bernstein.

It is stated that the defendants have no right to quarry limestone from the property and to stockpile it on the same property. The plaintiff asks for an accounting for royalties improperly paid; that the defendants may be restrained from furthering their operation of quarrying and stockpiling limestone and other materials incident to the operation

The unknown directors of the Mt. Savage Refractories are directed in an order of publication to appear in court in person or by solicitor on or before April 29 to show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed by the plaintiff.

At the suggestion of Commissioner John T. Mason, the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday decided to seek a meeting with the Mayor and Council of Cumberland to discuss the financial aspects of the proposed county library system.

Commissioner Mason said the two bodies could explore all avenues of finances in connection with the proposal and if the county was in a position to appropriate the necessary funds, then the city would be asked what support it could give the program.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said he did not want to be placed in a position of "backing down" from his previously stated opinion in the matter. Rowan said the county can give no consideration to the program for a library unless there are funds available.

Commissioner William A. Wilson said nothing could be lost by meeting with the city officials. He commented that Cumberland has been levying $27,000 annually for several years to operate a library on Washington Street and any financial support it would offer would be much less than that amount.

The library program calls for a budget of $66,500 and $18,500 of this would be in the form of federal and state aid. In addition, there are available approximately 8,000 volumes from the State Division of Library Extension in Baltimore, according to the committee backing the plan.

The meeting of the county board and mayor and council will be for the purpose of discussing what can be done to finance the program. All three county commissioners said they will have to await a compilation of the various budgets before they will know if funds are available.

Melvin Sloan, a resident of Lonaconing, appeared before the board of county commissioners to give his views on the library proposal. Sloan said he favors the library plan as such, but feels that if the money is not available the county should give first consideration to aiding Miners Hospital in Frostburg and Sacred Heart Hospital here.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Jack of ♥

A brilliant defensive maneuver by East, inspired by an accurate visualization of the declarer's holding, led to the defeat of a slam contract today, a slam which mother nature had all but wrapped up for delivery.

South's four no trump opening bid is not Blackwood, but rather a descriptive call designating an evenly balanced hand with a range of 28 to 30 high card points. In other words, it is stronger than a three no trump opening. North had just enough to invite his partner to slam, but South's acceptance is questionable since he has a minimum holding of exactly 28 points.

The opening lead was the jack of hearts and East was immediately able to place every missing high card with the declarer as part of his opening bid. In an effort to confuse his opponent, East signaled with the eight of hearts, and South won the trick.

This play gave declarer the impression that hearts were not going to break, in which case he would require four diamond tricks as well as a successful club finesse to bring his trick total to 12. He therefore proceeded to cash the king of diamonds and lead the jack, permitting it to ride when West played low.

By this time East had planned his own campaign. It was clear to him not only that the club finesse was on, but that hearts or clubs would break if declarer had four of either suit. Furthermore, if East won the diamond finesse, South would be forced to fall into the winning line of play. So, on the jack of diamonds, East played the four without a moment's hesitation.

Declarer now confidently finessed the ten, but, when East produced the queen, the dummy had been retired from the play. The queen of spades was returned and, even though the hearts broke, South eventually went down a two trick set.

Suit Is Filed In Limestone Quarry Dispute

A suit has been docketed in Allegany County Circuit Court by a Cumberland man against three firms in a dispute over a limestone quarry property.

The action was brought by Milton Bernstein against A. J. Rost, Pittsburgh, and others, trustees for the Mt. Savage Refractories Company and the Cumberland Cement and Supply Company, city, and the Frye Coal and Stone Company, Corriganville, in a dispute over a limestone quarry property.

The plaintiffs, represented by Thomas B. Finan and Clarence Lippel, state the object of the suit is for a declaratory decree declaring that the fee simple title to the surface of the property which is the subject of the litigation is vested in the plaintiff Bernstein.

It is stated that the defendants have no right to quarry limestone from the property and to stockpile it on the same property. The plaintiff asks for an accounting for royalties improperly paid; that the defendants may be restrained from furthering their operation of quarrying and stockpiling limestone and other materials incident to the operation

The unknown directors of the Mt. Savage Refractories are directed in an order of publication to appear in court in person or by solicitor on or before April 29 to show cause why a decree should not be passed as prayed by the plaintiff.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Can A Redhead Wear Pink?

Can a redhead wear pink? Of course she can! And orange, too. All the pretty shades on Nature's palette belong to EVERY woman who isn't afraid of color. Color can endow plain clothes with a "costume look" . . . at a fraction of custom-made cost. Color can be adopted as a trademark, much like perfume or a certain coiffure.

Let color do clever things for you this Spring. Test each one personally. You'll discover that most of the hard-and-fast rules about color combinations were broken years ago. Even some skin tones can be adapted to most wardrobe hues with foundation makeup.

Choose your color by its tone, not by its name. Our redhead, for instance, will avoid pink with a purple cast. Daytimes, she'll wear pale pink or yellow-pink. But at night she can go definitely dramatic with downright bright pink!

Fabric texture will tell a great deal about a color. In a shiny-smooth fabric, a color may be too harsh and bold. But the identical shade in a dull, textured cloth will be softer. And mere touches of bright color may be more appealing to you than too much of a good thing.

WHERE you wear your color and WHEN you wear it . . . these play key roles when you are casting yourself as a colorful character.

All the rich hues of the sunny outdoors may startle you indoors. But, if you are going to wear the dresses outdoors against a matching backdrop of scenery, you'll find they blend in perfect harmony. Keep a sharp eye on Nature for many color cues.

Colors worn at night should be gay and dominant, like your makeup and mood. Neutral shades at night (like the daytime greys and beiges) seem to pale into insignificance under artificial light.

When you wear dark shades for day-wear, select fabrics that won't attract lint. And keep in mind that light-colored garments will need more careful maintenance.

Learning your best colors will launch you safely into experimentation with tones and fabrics. If you will send 25c and a stamped, return envelope to me, c/o this newspaper, I will mail you my booklet, "Your Color Type."

After the facts, you can let your fancy soar! With imagination for your brush, color-up for Spring.

Despite Romantic Appeal, Baghdad Is No Fun To Visit, Worse Place To Live

By DAVID DUGAS

BEIRUT (UPI) — "Visit Iraq" proclaim the travel posters, but the lures of fabled Baghdad are more fable than fact.

Awaiting any starry-eyed tourist are red tape, suspicion, desert climate, dirty, over - crowded streets and little to see and do.

But it is a hollow invitation, one accepted these days only by those whose business demands the rigors of a flight to Baghdad.

While surrounding Middle East countries — Egypt, Syria, Jordan and Lebanon — attract increasing numbers of tourists, Iraq draws none. Baghdad's shabby hotels stand all but deserted except for the occasional correspondent drawn by the promise of a government crisis, or the official delegate of a foreign economic or cultural mission.

Month For Visa

Just getting into the country is an ordeal few casual tourists would submit to. Entry visas take a month since every application must pass scrutiny by suspicious ministry underlings in Baghdad. The exit visa needed to leave the country usually can be had in mere hours.

The suspicion so characteristic of today's Baghdad awaits the traveler at the airport, where customs officers paw through baggage and briefcase, flipping slowly through books and magazines.

A women's fashion magazine seized from one recent arrival was returned to its owner 10 minutes later after the customs officer had been assured, "No, there's nothing against Iraq in this."

Inside the city suspicion is a stock commodity. Telephones are tapped. Visitors are tailed. Special permission is needed to drive outside Baghdad. A visit to certain embassies brings a secret policeman in civilian clothes to ask your name and business.

Calls Censored

A cable to or from Baghdad may bring a call from the military censor who wants to know what it means. Telephone calls to such neighboring countries as Syria or Lebanon are forbidden.

Even without customs and visa problems, Baghdad would attract few tourists more than once. Aside from its view of the wide, winding Tigris River and graceful date palms, the 1,200-year-old capital is a flat, dreary place.

As far south as Atlanta and as far east of Stalingrad, the desert metropolis and its million residents simmer through long summers. Shade temperatures around 115 degrees are commonplace. Frequent dust storms descend like London fog. The brief winters are cold and damp and rain submerges even paved streets under a carpet of mud.

The heart of the city is narrow and twisting Rashid St. with its miles of colonnades and balconies, small shops and beggars. Here men in western business suits mingle with baggy-trousered Bedouins and women uniformly shrouded in the flowing black "abbas" of the Moslem faith.

Many Peddlers

On the dirty pavement some men peddle ballpoint pens and two-year-old American cigarets for 50 cents a pack while others offer pungent, steaming parsnips boiled in date syrup and from their garishly painted pushcarts.

The few new buildings completed under the "old regime of corruption and tyranny," as the late King Fusia's government is now called, manage to look as shabby as the old brick and plaster structures that dominate the city. A few beautifully tiled domes and minarets of Moslem mosques look sadly like unpolished gems in a sea of debris.

In between shops and houses, and onto almost any unused land in and around Baghdad, have moved impoverished mud hut dwellers, driven in by unemployment from surrounding farms.

A few fortunate hut dwellers in the city may beg water or even electricity from neighboring houses. But the majority live on vermin-infested acres outside the city's old flood dikes, without water, electricity or sanitation.

Few Diversions Offered

For all its fabled delights, Baghdad offers few diversions. Arab men seldom take women out on the town and the few night clubs going, like the Ali Baba, are filled with men who have come to talk or listen alone to bands that blend popular American songs with moaning Arab ballads.

Belly dancers are still around, but they have to compete these days with Arabic-speaking ventriloquists' dummies who look like Charlie McCarthy.

However, Baghdad's name and the mythical "Arabian Nights" continue to exert their appeal. When an American diplomat en route to Baghdad advertised recently in a London newspaper for a combination housekeeper-baby-sitter, 500 eager women responded.

When the field had been whittled to 75 and the applicants were interviewed, each was warned to expect besides low pay and long hours: sizzling summers, nightly curfews and litter-strewn streets that few foreign women travel alone. Only one of the 75 withdrew her name.

Despite Romantic Appeal, Baghdad Is No Fun To Visit, Worse Place To Live

By DAVID DUGAS

BEIRUT (UPI) — "Visit Iraq" proclaim the travel posters, but the lures of fabled Baghdad are more fable than fact.

Awaiting any starry-eyed tourist are red tape, suspicion, desert climate, dirty, over - crowded streets and little to see and do.

But it is a hollow invitation, one accepted these days only by those whose business demands the rigors of a flight to Baghdad.

While surrounding Middle East countries — Egypt, Syria, Jordan and Lebanon — attract increasing numbers of tourists, Iraq draws none. Baghdad's shabby hotels stand all but deserted except for the occasional correspondent drawn by the promise of a government crisis, or the official delegate of a foreign economic or cultural mission.

Month For Visa

Just getting into the country is an ordeal few casual tourists would submit to. Entry visas take a month since every application must pass scrutiny by suspicious ministry underlings in Baghdad. The exit visa needed to leave the country usually can be had in mere hours.

The suspicion so characteristic of today's Baghdad awaits the traveler at the airport, where customs officers paw through baggage and briefcase, flipping slowly through books and magazines.

A women's fashion magazine seized from one recent arrival was returned to its owner 10 minutes later after the customs officer had been assured, "No, there's nothing against Iraq in this."

Inside the city suspicion is a stock commodity. Telephones are tapped. Visitors are tailed. Special permission is needed to drive outside Baghdad. A visit to certain embassies brings a secret policeman in civilian clothes to ask your name and business.

Calls Censored

A cable to or from Baghdad may bring a call from the military censor who wants to know what it means. Telephone calls to such neighboring countries as Syria or Lebanon are forbidden.

Even without customs and visa problems, Baghdad would attract few tourists more than once. Aside from its view of the wide, winding Tigris River and graceful date palms, the 1,200-year-old capital is a flat, dreary place.

As far south as Atlanta and as far east of Stalingrad, the desert metropolis and its million residents simmer through long summers. Shade temperatures around 115 degrees are commonplace. Frequent dust storms descend like London fog. The brief winters are cold and damp and rain submerges even paved streets under a carpet of mud.

The heart of the city is narrow and twisting Rashid St. with its miles of colonnades and balconies, small shops and beggars. Here men in western business suits mingle with baggy-trousered Bedouins and women uniformly shrouded in the flowing black "abbas" of the Moslem faith.

Many Peddlers

On the dirty pavement some men peddle ballpoint pens and two-year-old American cigarets for 50 cents a pack while others offer pungent, steaming parsnips boiled in date syrup and from their garishly painted pushcarts.

The combination of cars, taxis, donkeys, pedestrians and bright red double-decker buses daily results in seemingly insoluble traffic jams.

The few new buildings completed under the "old regime of corruption and tyranny," as the late King Fusia's government is now called, manage to look as shabby as the old brick and plaster structures that dominate the city. A few beautifully tiled domes and minarets of Moslem mosques look sadly like unpolished gems in a sea of debris.

In between shops and houses, and onto almost any unused land in and around Baghdad, have moved impoverished mud hut dwellers, driven in by unemployment from surrounding farms.

A few fortunate hut dwellers in the city may beg water or even electricity from neighboring houses. But the majority live on vermin-infested acres outside the city's old flood dikes, without water, electricity or sanitation.

Few Diversions Offered

For all its fabled delights, Baghdad offers few diversions. Arab men seldom take women out on the town and the few night clubs going, like the Ali Baba, are filled with men who have come to talk or listen alone to bands that blend popular American songs with moaning Arab ballads.

Belly dancers are still around, but they have to compete these days with Arabic-speaking ventriloquists' dummies who look like Charlie McCarthy.

However, Baghdad's name and the mythical "Arabian Nights" continue to exert their appeal. When an American diplomat en route to Baghdad advertised recently in a London newspaper for a combination housekeeper-baby-sitter, 500 eager women responded.

When the field had been whittled to 75 and the applicants were interviewed, each was warned to expect besides low pay and long hours: sizzling summers, nightly curfews and litter-strewn streets that few foreign women travel alone. Only one of the 75 withdrew her name.

Will Admitted To Probate

The will of Frank Joseph Ruppert, city, who died February 23 was admitted to probate yesterday in Orphans Court. Charles E. Ruppert, a son, and Margaret R. Bittinger, a daughter, were named executors. The widow and seven children were named beneficiaries.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our next door neighbors could easily win your award for "Lousiest Neighbor of the Year."

They've done so many mean and underhanded things that it would take the whole paper to list them. We're writing about the latest stunt because we need advice.

Our 10-year-old son left his bicycle in their driveway. I admit he should have put it in our garage, but you know how kids are. The neighbor woman is a miserable witch to begin with and pretended not to see the bike. For spite she drove right over it. It's so badly broken up that no shop would attempt to repair it.

Now she has the gall to complain because her car is scratched up. When I told her she should replace the bike she said, "Don't make me laugh."

We say she failed to exercise the normal amount of caution and therefore we are entitled to a new bike. Don't tell us about the law. Decide on the basis of common sense — N. N. N.

DEAR N. N. N.: The law is based on common sense. Buy your son a new bike when you think he has learned how to take care of it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A certain boy I will call John is nice but dull dull dull. He keeps calling me for dates but I would never go out with him again. Once is enough. I was never so bored in all my life.

Honestly, I was exhausted when I got home. I not only had to work my head off making conversation but my face was stiff from smiling.

John calls at least twice a week to "talk" and never has anything to say. He has asked me out five times since that first date and I am plum out of excuses.

I hate to hurt his feelings by telling him there's no chance and to please stop calling, but I'm tired of trying to think of legitimate reasons why I can't go with him. Please help me.—NO HOPE HERE

DEAR NO HOPE: You just CAN'T destroy the poor guy by telling him he's dull and to stop calling. The best out is to say you're busy but you hope he will call Suzie, Mary, Dottie or Lee. Name some gals who don't get asked out much. It will not only take him off your neck but you may be able to spark up a romance and make two people happy.

DEAR ANN: Normally I'm amused at the way you put people in their place, but recently I was incensed at your insulting remark to a student who inquired about learning in his sleep, using the tape recorder method.

I'm in third year pre-med and well acquainted with the midnight oil. The writer who signed himself No Phi Beta Kappa was looking for help to relieve the pressure of studying. Your answer implied that all college students are lazy louts.—J. H. PRE-MED

DEAR J. H. (John Hopkins I'll bet): Far be it from me to suggest that the serious student is as rare as the whooping crane. If I insulted you midnight oilburners, I offer my humble apologies.

I wanted to make it abundantly clear to No Phi Beta Kappa that there's no substitute for old fashioned study. This learning in your sleep jazz will never replace studying while awake.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—An added surprise awaited Joanne Woodward at her surprise birthday party at the home of Barbara Rush and Warren Cowan other than the 80 guests waiting to sing "happy birthday" to her. The second surprise was the offer Buddy Adler made Joanne to play the lead in the life story of "Jean Harlow" for 20th-Century-Fox. Just goes to prove what I've been telling you that, Mrs. Paul newman has developed into one of our top glamour girls—she's so beautiful these days. Of course, all movie plans are contingent on the actors strike.

Getting back to the surprise party—Paul told me he asked Joanne to dress up by buying her a new beige dress the color of her hair to be worn on her birthday. He got her to the Cowan house by saying a friend's car had broken down and they had to pick him up there.

A bright young man, John D. Dilger, an executive with the Shannon Airport, had dinner with his uncle, Monsignor Thomas English, William Randolph Hearst Jr., and me at Chasen's.

Dilger, who is manager of the commercial department, said his purpose in coming to the United States is to show American industrialists the advantages of using Ireland as a supply base for goods going to the Middle East, African and European commonwealth markets. He said the Irish government is prepared to grant American industrialists some fabulous concessions to produce goods in Ireland. Ten companies, including one Japanese which sells and manufactures transistor radios, are doing very well in the Shannon Airport area.

Young Dilger was very interested, as we all were, in Mr. Hearst's account of his recent visit to the South American countries. He left next day to speak in Seattle.

"Can you imagine being paid to be Rossano Brazzi's wife?" Is the way Virginia Grey broke the news to me that she's been signed to play Rossano's bride in "Slip of the tongue," a June Allyson TV chapter. Next to Liddia Brazzi, (the legal Mrs. B.) Virginia is just about the Italian charmer's best fan and has been ever since she saw him in "Summertime" with Katharine Hepburn.

Virginia and Rossano start shooting next week at Republic Studio in this mystery drama authored by F. Hugh Herbert. In addition to the proximity to Mr. Brazzi, the yarn gives Virginia her best emoting role in some time.

I had a long talk with Dean Martin at Joanne Woodward's birthday party. Dean, more serious than usual, said that neither he nor Frank Sinatra received ballots to vote on the actors strike.

Dean said he feels that if players can't get work today they must be without any talent whatsoever (or are lazy). What with TV, films, nightclubs and personal appearances, "why, there's just more work than talented people can possibly accept," he said.

Dean, and the rest of the "Oceans 11" company are working day and night to finish in case the strike comes off—which he hopes won't happen.

Statuesque Belgian actress Monique Van Vooren raised her right hand on Monday and swore to uphold the Constitution of the United States as an American citizen. Monique telephoned this good news and to tell me after she finished a four weeks engagement at the Palmer House in Chicago she was signed for two years more.

She came here to talk about "Where the Boys Are," a movie she is doing for Joe Pasternak, but she says until the strike is settled one way or the other there isn't much to discuss. She leaves soon for Milwaukee to open in "Born Yesterday" at the Fred Miller Theatre.

Couldn't happen to a nicer guy. Buster Keaton is getting more offers than he could fill if he were triplets. In addition to the TV commercials he's been making for some time, and the movie he's just completed "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," Buster has a bid to star on Broadway in "Once Upon a Mattress."

The dead-pan comic attributes a lot of this revived interest in his career (he admits it was slim pickings for a while) to his book, "My Wonderful World of Slapstick." He says some producers read the book who had forgotten he was around. I'm always glad when things break right for one of the old-timers and Buster was one of the biggest stars in his day.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

No Songs For Lonely Lovers

What's with Frank Sinatra? Sinatra, who is the hottest thing in show business, has not made a record since last August 1 when he recorded a single record called "Talk to Me." He has not made an album since July 20 when he recorded "No One Cares"—despite the fact that his albums sell more than those of any other entertainer.

On New York radio stations—and probably around the rest of the country—the playing of Sinatra records has dropped off sharply because his admirers have got a little tired of listening to the old records. Actually, there are plenty of Sinatra records around — but none recorded recently. RCA and Columbia are still releasing records Sinatra made years ago. Currently, Sinatra is tied by contract to Capitol Records—but Capitol has no Sinatra records it has not released except "Can Can," which it cribbed off the sound track of the picture.

The word from pretty high up in Sinatra's clan is that the singer wants to break his contract with Capitol and concentrate his efforts in his own company, Essex Productions. However, Capitol has Sinatra tied hand and foot for "a couple of years," according to David Cavanaugh of Capitol.

At Capitol, the mention of their top recording star brought forth little except nervousness. No one in the New York office knew when Sinatra had recorded last or would record again (as if these dates were not writ in letters of fire in every skull). Tracked down in Las Vegas, where Sinatra is currently shooting a picture "Oceans 11" with a lot of his buddies in the cast, Mr. Cavanaugh said: "There's been a lot of talk about this in the trade—but I don't know what to say. I'm a friend of Frank's and I work for Capitol—what can I say?"

As the situation stands, Sinatra can't make records for anyone but Capitol and he won't make them for Capitol. This deadlock could go on for years. At local record shops, if you ask for the latest recording by Sinatra the clerks are likely to tell you a new one is expected momentarily. Even in the trade it's not generally realized Sinatra hasn't recorded a song for seven months.

"Four for Tonight" on NBC the other night had a bright sparkle to it; the like of which hasn't been seen on television since the old Sid Caesar shows. This is the show that brought together Beatrice Lillie, Cyril Ritchard, Tony Randall, and Tammy Grimes. Well, brought together is not quite the word since each of the four performed—except for one brief wacky madrigal and a parody on "Moon and Sixpence" as a single.

I especially liked the opening, a "Mad Revue" with Tony Randall. This had some hilarious blackout sketches. The opening of a J. Arthur Rank picture—a guy swinging that big hammer and crashing right through the gong. Gads, when was the last time I saw blackouts? These were explosively funny.

Beatrice Lillie did two of her old standbys. It's been years since I saw her do that bit as a world-weary actress besieged by admirers. "What's the matter"—"Nothing! Everything!" Cyril Ritchard contributed a parody of "Around the World in 80 days," that was intermittently very funny—again with that sort of explosive humor that is so rare nowadays.

Tammy Grimes sang a garland of songs intended to show the emergence of the American woman since 1700 — everything from "I Don't Want To Play in Your Yard If You Can't Be Good to Me" to "I've Never Been in Love Before." It was delicious.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our next door neighbors could easily win your award for "Lousiest Neighbor of the Year."

They've done so many mean and underhanded things that it would take the whole paper to list them. We're writing about the latest stunt because we need advice.

Our 10-year-old son left his bicycle in their driveway. I admit he should have put it in our garage, but you know how kids are. The neighbor woman is a miserable witch to begin with and pretended not to see the bike. For spite she drove right over it. It's so badly broken up that no shop would attempt to repair it.

Now she has the gall to complain because her car is scratched up. When I told her she should replace the bike she said, "Don't make me laugh."

We say she failed to exercise the normal amount of caution and therefore we are entitled to a new bike. Don't tell us about the law. Decide on the basis of common sense — N. N. N.

DEAR N. N. N.: The law is based on common sense. Buy your son a new bike when you think he has learned how to take care of it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A certain boy I will call John is nice but dull dull dull. He keeps calling me for dates but I would never go out with him again. Once is enough. I was never so bored in all my life.

Honestly, I was exhausted when I got home. I not only had to work my head off making conversation but my face was stiff from smiling.

John calls at least twice a week to "talk" and never has anything to say. He has asked me out five times since that first date and I am plum out of excuses.

I hate to hurt his feelings by telling him there's no chance and to please stop calling, but I'm tired of trying to think of legitimate reasons why I can't go with him. Please help me.—NO HOPE HERE

DEAR NO HOPE: You just CAN'T destroy the poor guy by telling him he's dull and to stop calling. The best out is to say you're busy but you hope he will call Suzie, Mary, Dottie or Lee. Name some gals who don't get asked out much. It will not only take him off your neck but you may be able to spark up a romance and make two people happy.

DEAR ANN: Normally I'm amused at the way you put people in their place, but recently I was incensed at your insulting remark to a student who inquired about learning in his sleep, using the tape recorder method.

I'm in third year pre-med and well acquainted with the midnight oil. The writer who signed himself No Phi Beta Kappa was looking for help to relieve the pressure of studying. Your answer implied that all college students are lazy louts.—J. H. PRE-MED

DEAR J. H. (John Hopkins I'll bet): Far be it from me to suggest that the serious student is as rare as the whooping crane. If I insulted you midnight oilburners, I offer my humble apologies.

I wanted to make it abundantly clear to No Phi Beta Kappa that there's no substitute for old fashioned study. This learning in your sleep jazz will never replace studying while awake.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Television and Radio

No Songs For Lonely Lovers

What's with Frank Sinatra? Sinatra, who is the hottest thing in show business, has not made a record since last August 1 when he recorded a single record called "Talk to Me." He has not made an album since July 20 when he recorded "No One Cares"—despite the fact that his albums sell more than those of any other entertainer.

On New York radio stations—and probably around the rest of the country—the playing of Sinatra records has dropped off sharply because his admirers have got a little tired of listening to the old records. Actually, there are plenty of Sinatra records around — but none recorded recently. RCA and Columbia are still releasing records Sinatra made years ago. Currently, Sinatra is tied by contract to Capitol Records—but Capitol has no Sinatra records it has not released except "Can Can," which it cribbed off the sound track of the picture.

The word from pretty high up in Sinatra's clan is that the singer wants to break his contract with Capitol and concentrate his efforts in his own company, Essex Productions. However, Capitol has Sinatra tied hand and foot for "a couple of years," according to David Cavanaugh of Capitol.

At Capitol, the mention of their top recording star brought forth little except nervousness. No one in the New York office knew when Sinatra had recorded last or would record again (as if these dates were not writ in letters of fire in every skull). Tracked down in Las Vegas, where Sinatra is currently shooting a picture "Oceans 11" with a lot of his buddies in the cast, Mr. Cavanaugh said: "There's been a lot of talk about this in the trade—but I don't know what to say. I'm a friend of Frank's and I work for Capitol—what can I say?"

As the situation stands, Sinatra can't make records for anyone but Capitol and he won't make them for Capitol. This deadlock could go on for years. At local record shops, if you ask for the latest recording by Sinatra the clerks are likely to tell you a new one is expected momentarily. Even in the trade it's not generally realized Sinatra hasn't recorded a song for seven months.

"Four for Tonight" on NBC the other night had a bright sparkle to it; the like of which hasn't been seen on television since the old Sid Caesar shows. This is the show that brought together Beatrice Lillie, Cyril Ritchard, Tony Randall, and Tammy Grimes. Well, brought together is not quite the word since each of the four performed—except for one brief wacky madrigal and a parody on "Moon and Sixpence" as a single.

I especially liked the opening, a "Mad Revue" with Tony Randall. This had some hilarious blackout sketches. The opening of a J. Arthur Rank picture—a guy swinging that big hammer and crashing right through the gong. Gads, when was the last time I saw blackouts? These were explosively funny.

Beatrice Lillie did two of her old standbys. It's been years since I saw her do that bit as a world-weary actress besieged by admirers. "What's the matter"—"Nothing! Everything!" Cyril Ritchard contributed a parody of "Around the World in 80 days," that was intermittently very funny—again with that sort of explosive humor that is so rare nowadays.

Tammy Grimes sang a garland of songs intended to show the emergence of the American woman since 1700 — everything from "I Don't Want To Play in Your Yard If You Can't Be Good to Me" to "I've Never Been in Love Before." It was delicious.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—An added surprise awaited Joanne Woodward at her surprise birthday party at the home of Barbara Rush and Warren Cowan other than the 80 guests waiting to sing "happy birthday" to her. The second surprise was the offer Buddy Adler made Joanne to play the lead in the life story of "Jean Harlow" for 20th-Century-Fox. Just goes to prove what I've been telling you that, Mrs. Paul newman has developed into one of our top glamour girls—she's so beautiful these days. Of course, all movie plans are contingent on the actors strike.

Getting back to the surprise party—Paul told me he asked Joanne to dress up by buying her a new beige dress the color of her hair to be worn on her birthday. He got her to the Cowan house by saying a friend's car had broken down and they had to pick him up there.

Dilger, who is manager of the commercial department, said his purpose in coming to the United States is to show American industrialists the advantages of using Ireland as a supply base for goods going to the Middle East, African and European commonwealth markets. He said the Irish government is prepared to grant American industrialists some fabulous concessions to produce goods in Ireland. Ten companies, including one Japanese which sells and manufactures transistor radios, are doing very well in the Shannon Airport area.

Young Dilger was very interested, as we all were, in Mr. Hearst's account of his recent visit to the South American countries. He left next day to speak in Seattle.

"Can you imagine being paid to be Rossano Brazzi's wife?" Is the way Virginia Grey broke the news to me that she's been signed to play Rossano's bride in "Slip of the tongue," a June Allyson TV chapter. Next to Liddia Brazzi, (the legal Mrs. B.) Virginia is just about the Italian charmer's best fan and has been ever since she saw him in "Summertime" with Katharine Hepburn.

Virginia and Rossano start shooting next week at Republic Studio in this mystery drama authored by F. Hugh Herbert. In addition to the proximity to Mr. Brazzi, the yarn gives Virginia her best emoting role in some time.

I had a long talk with Dean Martin at Joanne Woodward's birthday party. Dean, more serious than usual, said that neither he nor Frank Sinatra received ballots to vote on the actors strike.

Dean said he feels that if players can't get work today they must be without any talent whatsoever (or are lazy). What with TV, films, nightclubs and personal appearances, "why, there's just more work than talented people can possibly accept," he said.

Dean, and the rest of the "Oceans 11" company are working day and night to finish in case the strike comes off—which he hopes won't happen.

Statuesque Belgian actress Monique Van Vooren raised her right hand on Monday and swore to uphold the Constitution of the United States as an American citizen. Monique telephoned this good news and to tell me after she finished a four weeks engagement at the Palmer House in Chicago she was signed for two years more.

She came here to talk about "Where the Boys Are," a movie she is doing for Joe Pasternak, but she says until the strike is settled one way or the other there isn't much to discuss. She leaves soon for Milwaukee to open in "Born Yesterday" at the Fred Miller Theatre.

Couldn't happen to a nicer guy. Buster Keaton is getting more offers than he could fill if he were triplets. In addition to the TV commercials he's been making for some time, and the movie he's just completed "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," Buster has a bid to star on Broadway in "Once Upon a Mattress."

The dead-pan comic attributes a lot of this revived interest in his career (he admits it was slim pickings for a while) to his book, "My Wonderful World of Slapstick." He says some producers read the book who had forgotten he was around. I'm always glad when things break right for one of the old-timers and Buster was one of the biggest stars in his day.

Democrats Are Blamed For W.Va. Highway Lag

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Road Commissioner Pat C. Graney charged Tuesday that the administration of former Gov. William C. Marland is to blame for West Virginia's lag in Interstate highway construction.

Graney made the charge on the heels of a statement by federal Highway Administrator Ellis Armstrong who said West Virginia's federal allocation was reduced by $45,800,000 because of the state's inability to match available money during the period 1957-59.

The road commissioner said the gap between West Virginia and other states "was caused by the lack of foresight, effort, and planning on the part of the road commission under the Marland administration during the two years between 1954 and 1956."

Graney said that when the first money was apportioned in 1954, most states started planning and designing the new superhighways.

By the time Congress approved the new Federal Highway Act in 1956, the states "had shelves of engineering surveys and plans waiting to be let to construction contract as soon as the federal matching funds became available," he said.

But in West Virginia, it was a different story," Graney said. "There was little advance planning done to take advantage of the coming interstate program."

"In fact, the road commission, under the previous administration didn't even make a start toward designing its first section of Interstate highway until August, 1956, when it awarded its first preliminary engineering and design contract for a portion of Interstate 70 in the Northern Panhandle," Graney said.

The commissioner said since an average of 21 months elapses between preliminary engineering and construction, the SRC could not let its first Interstate construction contract until 1958.

Graney said under the present administration only one preliminary engineering contract for Interstate 70 and one design contract for two sections of Interstate 81 in the Eastern Panhandle had been awarded.

Graney said that since West Virginia already was behind many other states by 1956, "we cannot see how any reasonable person can arrive at the conclusion that the existence of the gap was the fault of the present administration, effort, and planning by the previous administration."

West Virginia Democratic Sens. Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd announced last week they could find "no substantial evidence that West Virginia had been unjustly treated." They said a cutback in funds being made available in fiscal 1960 were a result of the state road building agency's performance over the past three years.

Records in the federal agency disclosed West Virginia was at the bottom of the states on Dec. 31, 1957 in Interstate highway building, 26 per cent below the national average in 1958 and still 20 per cent below average on Dec. 31, 1959.

The state also was far down the list in the use of regular 50-50 matching funds. Agency records showed the state ranked sixth from the bottom at the end of 1957, fifth in 1958 and seventh by the end of last year.

A spokesman for the federal highway bureau explained that in arriving at the 1960 allocation for states the agency struck a three-year average of funds used. This was done for all states, not just West Virginia, he said.

"The Bureau of Public Roads found, and we confirm, that if states like West Virginia with unspent backlogs from prior fiscal years were to be permitted to claim their total backlog of unspent allotments this fiscal year, there would be no funds for Ohio and other states which have kept on schedule.

"We agree that it would have been most unfair for our neighbor, Ohio, to have been forced to go entirely without federal aid reimbursement in fiscal 1960 to permit states with below average performance records to catch up."

In another comparison, Byrd and Randolph said it would have had the same effect as stopping production in West Virginia coal mines so that mines in other states might catch up.

Police Identify Girl Hitchhiker As Canadian

A teen-age girl who was picked up by State Police Sunday night at Cresaptown has been tentatively identified as a Canadian and was returned to Baltimore last night by U. S. Immigration Bureau officials.

The girl was spotted hitchhiking by Trooper John Sweitzer while he was patrolling U. S. 220 about 6:30 p. m. Sunday. She at first identified herself as "Stella Andruski" and said she was "from nowhere and was going nowhere."

Police held the girl in Allegany County Jail where authorities said she was very uncooperative. She told them she spent Saturday night at a girl's house in Somerset, but residents there could not identify her.

Yesterday she said her name is "Jennie Negubianka" and police said she is believed to be from Manitoba, Canada.

U. S. Immigration officials yesterday picked up the girl and returned her to Baltimore where additional checking of her story will be made.

The sheriff's office here said Inspector Francis N. Curry and a police matron took the girl into custody for the federal authorities.

Council To Study Tax Exemptions For Labor Unions

A bill to provide tax exemptions for property owned by labor unions has been referred to the Legislative Council for study, according to Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation.

All six Allegany County delegates, along with Garrett County Delegates Bray and Savage, were among the 16 sponsors of House Bill 153.

It was designed to exempt from taxes "property, real and personal, owned directly or indirectly by any bona fide labor union or unions, or any corporation whose capital stock is exclusively owned by any bona fide labor union or unions, provided that such property is used solely for the mutual benefit of its or their members and not for profit."

The state-wide legislation was backed by the Western Maryland Central Labor Council, AFL-CIO, here, which cited that property owned by fraternal organizations in Allegany County is exempt from taxes as a result of local legislation and that unions are just as much fraternal organizations as those which are tax exempt.

Ohio Democrat Is Critical Of Adoption Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Ohio congressman, who has an adopted child himself, was highly critical Tuesday of the action of Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia in a child adoption case.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) said the child may suffer the rest of her life from the experience of having been taken away from foster parents.

Hays, in a House speech Monday, referred to the case of Rosemary Johnston, 3½ years old.

West Virginia child welfare officials recently took the child away from Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Isner of Parsons, W. Va., and turned her over to another couple for permanent adoption.

All children, he said, require tender and understanding care—and adopted children a little bit more. Hays said he and his wife adopted a child, now 5½, when the child was about a year old.

The West Virginia director of public assistance, Hays said, is an appointee of the governor "and the job can be, and apparently has been, used to pay off a political obligation."

"What manner of men are this governor and this director," Hays demanded, "who will order their lackeys, according to an Associated Press story, to snatch an innocent child out of her bed at midnight and to cart her off in the snow from the only home she has known since she was a week old?"

"Who gave this political accident of a heartless governor the right to play god?" he added. "I think the people of West Virginia, a state very near to my heart because it was my mother's birthplace, will answer this question come next November, when this politician asks them to make him a U.S. senator."

State welfare officials listed ages and finances among reasons they said the Isners should not be permitted to adopt Rosemary.

At Huntington, W. Va., where he was making a talk, Underwood replied:

"This case is not a political matter, and I don't propose to turn such decisions over to demagogues like Hays. He knows nothing about this problem. He has a full-time job representing the people of his district, who would be better served if he looked after his own problems."

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Gov. Cecil H. Underwood said Thursday Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio) would better represent his constitutents by looking after their problems instead of entering those which are of no concern to him.

Underwood, here to address a civic club luncheon told newsmen, that Hays knew nothing of the facts about a child custody case about which he spoke Monday.

Hays accused the governor of trying to "play God" in the unsuccessful battle of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Isner, Parsons, Tucker County, to keep three - year - old Rosemary Johnston.

Said Underwood:

"This case is not a political matter and I do not propose to turn such a decision to a demagogue like Hays. He knows nothing of the problem. He has a full-time job representing the people of his district who would be better served if he looked after his own problems."

Democrats Are Blamed For W.Va. Highway Lag

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Road Commissioner Pat C. Graney charged Tuesday that the administration of former Gov. William C. Marland is to blame for West Virginia's lag in Interstate highway construction.

Graney made the charge on the heels of a statement by federal Highway Administrator Ellis Armstrong who said West Virginia's federal allocation was reduced by $45,800,000 because of the state's inability to match available money during the period 1957-59.

The road commissioner said the gap between West Virginia and other states "was caused by the lack of foresight, effort, and planning on the part of the road commission under the Marland administration during the two years between 1954 and 1956."

Graney said that when the first money was apportioned in 1954, most states started planning and designing the new superhighways.

By the time Congress approved the new Federal Highway Act in 1956, the states "had shelves of engineering surveys and plans waiting to be let to construction contract as soon as the federal matching funds became available," he said.

But in West Virginia, it was a different story," Graney said. "There was little advance planning done to take advantage of the coming interstate program."

"In fact, the road commission, under the previous administration didn't even make a start toward designing its first section of Interstate highway until August, 1956, when it awarded its first preliminary engineering and design contract for a portion of Interstate 70 in the Northern Panhandle," Graney said.

The commissioner said since an average of 21 months elapses between preliminary engineering and construction, the SRC could not let its first Interstate construction contract until 1958.

Graney said under the present administration only one preliminary engineering contract for Interstate 70 and one design contract for two sections of Interstate 81 in the Eastern Panhandle had been awarded.

Graney said that since West Virginia already was behind many other states by 1956, "we cannot see how any reasonable person can arrive at the conclusion that the existence of the gap was the fault of the present administration, effort, and planning by the previous administration."

West Virginia Democratic Sens. Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd announced last week they could find "no substantial evidence that West Virginia had been unjustly treated." They said a cutback in funds being made available in fiscal 1960 were a result of the state road building agency's performance over the past three years.

Records in the federal agency disclosed West Virginia was at the bottom of the states on Dec. 31, 1957 in Interstate highway building, 26 per cent below the national average in 1958 and still 20 per cent below average on Dec. 31, 1959.

The state also was far down the list in the use of regular 50-50 matching funds. Agency records showed the state ranked sixth from the bottom at the end of 1957, fifth in 1958 and seventh by the end of last year.

A spokesman for the federal highway bureau explained that in arriving at the 1960 allocation for states the agency struck a three-year average of funds used. This was done for all states, not just West Virginia, he said.

"The Bureau of Public Roads found, and we confirm, that if states like West Virginia with unspent backlogs from prior fiscal years were to be permitted to claim their total backlog of unspent allotments this fiscal year, there would be no funds for Ohio and other states which have kept on schedule.

"We agree that it would have been most unfair for our neighbor, Ohio, to have been forced to go entirely without federal aid reimbursement in fiscal 1960 to permit states with below average performance records to catch up."

In another comparison, Byrd and Randolph said it would have had the same effect as stopping production in West Virginia coal mines so that mines in other states might catch up.

A Training Lag In Education

Educators are often forced to defend themselves against criticism, but it does not usually come from their own profession. Thus the charges made by the American Association of School Administrators in New York are surprising.

The AASA issued a yearbook in which it was charged that most colleges and universities preparing the nation's public school administrators admit students without any standards of selection. The AASA said the colleges offer a "provincial chow," consisting of much outmoded theory and little useful practice.

The master's degree is often a "tasteless potpourri," the AASA said. A study found that, in the absence of a selection system, practically all who start their studies toward school administration get their certificate—without culling of even obvious misfits.

The charges are based on a survey of 293 of the 302 colleges and universities training school administrators. Drastic overhauling of training procedures was proposed.

Usually a school administrator is an individual who has been a good teacher but wants to earn more money. Therefore he is boosted upstairs to administrative work, despite the fact that teaching and school administration have little in common.

The public has a right to careful and good administration of its school system, just as it has the same right in other governmental fields. And colleges and universities betray the public when they allow incompetents to earn degrees presumably qualifying them for filling school administrative positions.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Upper Crust

Society, spelled with a capital S, is that element in the social structure which declares itself to be superior to others by birth and position. In Europe, Society is established by the status of birth; that is, royalty and the nobility are remnants of feudalism and are recognized as such. Many European countries have rid themselves of kings and queens and the nobility which persists often has neither legal nor social status. A Russian prince, for instance, is an anomaly. Most Russian princes, dukes, etc., etc., are no longer Russian and none of them are titled, as Russia only recognizes one distinction, Tovarish. In other European countries, former legal titles continue to have social if not economic value. A prince, duke or count might have married a show-girl or a manicurist, but she regards herself as a princess and gives herself feudal airs.

In the United States we are free of feudalism and therefore of titles of nobility. Our Society was composed by the children of the older families marrying the new rich. Thus, the Vanderbilts, who descend from a Staten Island Dutch ferryman who went in for railroading, married into very old and social New York families and became themselves leaders of Society. The Rockefellers, who descend from a Cleveland bookkeeper, never bothered about Society and have done very well without it.

The Income Tax and the Inheritance Tax have done much damage to Society because money is hard to keep. All that those who claim to be Society have left is status, but even in this respect, Society is being challenged by Cafe Society, a vulgarization of status. Cafe Society is made up neither of scions of the old families nor the new rich. Anyone can manage to get in if he knows the man at the door. As everybody in Cafe Society calls everybody else by his first name, friendships are formed, persons become intimate, and are readily forgotten. As those in Cafe Society wish to be noticed more actively than the older families, they get into the gossip columns more often. A dozen mentions and one is made. But what does such making really mean? It involves little more than being invited to a few parties.

What makes me think of all this is a television program, supervised by David Susskind, dealing with the "Upper Crust." By the Upper Crust was meant those who possess the status of being in Society. Ward McAllister, who created "the 400" of a former generation, would not have accepted anyone on Susskind's program as among the 400, except one guest, Colonel Serge Obolensky who was once an authentic prince.

Certainly if McAllister could manufacture a "400," Susskind can recognize an "Upper Crust." But what is the basis for selection? McAllister chose the rich of his day, the famous, the well-bred, those of ancient lineage in this country. It was a snobbish, exclusive Society designed to keep itself such. Parents in it aspired that their children should marry within its ranks and every device of discrimination and segregation was set up to maintain its exclusiveness. Despite its obviously undemocratic nature, Americans, of the time, relished its existence and paid it tribute by being shocked when one of its members married out of caste.

Susskind's Upper Crust is nothing like that. With the exception of Serge Obolensky, none of his subjects were particularly notable as members of either the old or the new Society.

It is all very amusing because it only proves that even in the most egalitarian of societies, there are always men and women who try to set themselves up as superior and even look ridiculous in the attempt. Today, two factors enter into status—one, the willingness to spend night after night in better saloons being seen—just being seen and noticed. The other factor is association with an aggressive clique that pushes into publicity. These cliques are better for women than for men, particularly women who are willing to accept patrons. The men in such cliques usually are pushed along by their women.

The enterprise is meaningless and does no harm, except that it reflects the weakness of our country which still bothers with Society with a capital S, which went out of existence during World War I.

Grave Test Of Will Building Up At Berlin

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

A grave test of will already seems to be building up at Berlin, two months and a half before the scheduled discussion of Nikita S. Khrushchev's Berlin demands at the summit conference. The test has two major elements.

First, the Western Allies have now decided to resume air supply flights to Berlin above the 10,000-foot level at an early date. With the President's approval, the Soviets have been given advance notice. The decision's great importance is indicated by its background.

In brief, modern cargo aircraft (such as the West will use for massive air supply of Berlin) need to fly above 10,000 feet for reasonable efficiency. There is no altitude limitation, either, on the Soviet-guaranteed Western rights on Berlin's air approaches. But when high-altitude flights to Berlin were previously attempted, in the early stages of the present crisis, the Soviets violently charged that East Germany's air space was being trespassed upon.

At that time, the Soviets fairly crudely hinted they would use force, if need be, to put a stop to such flights. Soviet fighter planes also made threatening passes at the Western supply aircraft. The Western Allies flatly rejected the Soviet charge of air-trespass; and they strongly insisted on their unlimited rights. But at that time, the high-altitude flights were also stopped.

Hence there is no sure way to predict the Soviet reaction to the message that high-altitude flights will shortly be resumed. However, the betting favors an extremely sharp response.

The second and less vital element in the Berlin test of will derives from the affair of the Potsdam passes. This affair began some weeks ago, when the Soviets slyly changed the wording of the official passes of the Western military liaison group at the Soviet High Command's headquarters in Potsdam, beyond Free Berlin's borders.

Previously, these passes were simple, unadorned Soviet military documents. The new passes, which have now replaced the old, conscipuously refer to the "territory" of the East German Republic. They also carry the note that they have been "registered" with the Ministry of the Interior of the Kremlin's East German puppets.

The new passes, in short, are obviously designed as first steps towards Western de facto recognition of the East German Government. This the Kremlin much desires. Hence the wording of the passes was angrily protested by the Western Allies. Members of the Western liaison group at Potsdam were immuned in their quarters there. All use of the new passes was forbidden, except by vehicles needed to supply the liaison group from West Berlin. Nonetheless, no satisfactory answer to the Western protest has been received from the Soviets.

In these circumstances, an order was very nearly issued this weekend, confining to their quarters all members of the Soviet military liaison group in Western Germany. This is the opposite number of the Western group at Pottsdam; and the purpose of the order was to put the Soviet officers in the same situation as the Western officers.

The reprisal against the Soviet liaison group in Western Germany would be in force already, in fact, if the American, French and Germany policy-makers had had their way. The order of confinement to quarters was deferred for one week, only in deference to the views of the British. But if the Soviets continue to refuse satisfaction in the matter of the passes, positive Western action will soon ensue.

The role of the British in the matter of the passes deserves a special note. It reveals a British attitude which is almost certain to become the subject of controversy in the test of will that seems to lie ahead. To speak bluntly, the British have repeatedly pleaded for a do-nothing policy, at turn after turn of the unfolding Berlin crisis.

For instance, when the first high-altitude flights to Berlin were ordered many months ago, the British Government opposed and condemned this assertion of undoubted Western rights on the air approaches. The British press gave vent to extreme indignation because the American Government had asserted this Western right, and showed little indignation over the Soviet Government's swashbuckling denial of the same right. The decision to halt the first series of high-altitude tests was also taken, in large part, in deference to the British.

Again, the British Government urged the other Western Allies to take no notice whatever, when the new Potsdam passes were first issued some weeks ago. The stated ground to British objection to protest against the new passes was the argument that this measure must lead, in the end, to withdrawal of the Western military liaison group.

The liaison group undeniably has some value as an observation post. Yet it was widely suspected that the real ground of the Brtisih objection to the protest was a strong inclination towards de facto recognition of East Germany. Having this inclination, the British no doubt felt little distaste for the thin end of the wedge.

In the end, British agreements to the protest against the new passes was secured by a united Franco-German-American front. But the subsequent British objection to any follow-up of the protest still indicates an unchanged underlying attitude in London. The same attitude was evinced in the strong British opposition to the far more serious decision to resume high-altitude flights. Once more, in this latter case, the British yielded to a united front of the other allies, but they only yielded with great reluctance.

For the present, therefore, it must be assumed that the unity of the West is more apparent than real. This is a disturbing assumption to have to make, as the preliminary test of will at Berlin gets underway.

There is no reason to suppose that this test, though preliminary, will be mild or picnic-like. Unless President Eisenhower leads a retreat from the positions he has taken, this test can be very unpleasant indeed. And if the unpleasantness shatters the unity of the West, there will be a strong feedback effect; the unpleasantness will thereby be triply compounded.

NEW CENSUS—As the United States prepares for its decennial nose count, most people are unaware that the world is about half way through the greatest census-taking effort in history.

About 75 other countries are also involved in the census taking operation this year, and another 25 to 30 either have already conducted a census or are making plans to do so. Russia took hers last year.

The United States program is required by federal law, but many other countries are conducting theirs because of a United Nations sponsored effort to obtain reliable statistics on world population.

The U.N. effort began five years ago and will continue for another five. It has been urging all countries of the world—even those who are not members of the U.N. organization, to count their people and obtain other demographic statistics.

It is hoped that by 1965 there will be in existence for the first time sets of figures on which to base such important conclusions as food consumption and requirements, health and medical needs, and the numbers of children and older people.

For many years, census-taking in the United States has been called "door-bell ringing." Heavy Smoking, Drinking Can Impair Vision

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many organs of the body are affected by excessive smoking and drinking. The toxic effects on the optic nerves may lead to dimness of vision or partial loss of sight. Abstinence or a marked reduction in tobacco and alcohol is a must should this occur.

Toxic, or tobacco amblyopia, is more common in middle-aged men or women who have gone overboard with their smoking, chewing, or use of snuff. The majority prefer the stronger cigar or pipe tobaccos. Many are addicted to liquor also. Some are in poor general health or have a vitamin B deficiency, due to a faulty diet. All this adds to the gradual poisoning of the optic nerves.

This type of blindness increased in France and Belgium during the German occupation of 1940-45. Malnutrition was blamed until it was discovered that many persons were growing their own tobacco in back gardens, particularly in France. These uncured leaves were extremely toxic.

Most victims of toxic amblyopia complain of foggy vision. Diminution of sight is gradual and is more marked during the day, especially in bright light. Vision is better in the evening. These individuals cannot see objects directly ahead whereas those to the right or left can be perceived. These blind spots vary in size and shape and are easily demonstrated through eye tests.

Tobacco may cause poisoning without alcohol, and vice versa. As a rule, both are culprits. This type of blindness develops also in men who drink wood alcohol in the form of cheap whiskies, cordials, and essences adulterated with menthyl alcohol (Columbian spirits).

Cases of amblyopia have been reported from inhaling the fumes of old beer casks. Along with the eye symptoms, other signs of severe poisoning develop, such as vomiting, diarrhea, headache, dizziness, and coma.

Somerset Maugham recalls his elation when Sir Edmund Gosse, dean of English critics, wrote an enthusiastice review of Maugham's first novel, "Liza of Lambeth," in 1897. Until he died some 30 years later, however, Sir Edmund never saw Maugham, who by now had written "Of Human Bondage," "The Moon and Sixpence," and a half dozen great play hits, without patting him on the shoulder and murmuring, "Capital piece of work, that "Liza of Lambeth." How smart you were never to write anything else!"

Lyndon Johnson Once Indicated He Would Oppose Civil Rights

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—In politics, as in other walks of life, people change. Sometimes they change for the worse, usually for the better. But nothing is static. Here are some scenes in the drama of people's change:

SCENE 1 — The Democratic Convention in Chicago in 1956. A committee of prominent Negro leaders call upon Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas. They include: Earl Brown, New York city councilman; Howard Bennett, former Minneapolis municipal judge; and D. M. Grant, member of the St. Louis Board of Aldermen.

They ask Johnson to help put a forceful civil rights plank in the Democratic platform. He replies: "I am not now and never have been an advocate of civil rights. I don't think I ever will be. However, I am a reasonable man. I hope this convention will write a plank that is acceptable to the North and that the South can live with."

SCENE 2 —Four years have passed. The time is the present. The place is the Senate floor. It is almost empty. Southern leaders dissect the Civil Rights Bill. They speak also on any other problem that comes to mind. There are brilliant flashes of oratory, but most of the time dull monologue.

In the Majority Leader's chair sits Sen. Lyndon Johnson. He sits slumped over, listening, keeping watch on the drive for a Civil Rights Bill—almost alone.

Northern liberals who demanded civil rights bills n years past are not there. They bounce in to answer quorum calls, then bounce out. Most of the time Johnson is alone, standing guard over the Civil Rights Bill he once said he didn't want but which he hopes will be acceptable to the North and which the South can live with.

Times change.

Texas—South Or West?

SCENE 3—The time is also the present. Again the scene is the Senate floor. Olin Johnston of South Carolina, a kindly Senator with no visible sense of humor, holds forth on the subject of whether Texas belongs to the South or to the West.

"I know one thing," says Olin Johnston, "I know nobody will ever doubt that South Carolina is in the South. We are in the South. I am glad we stood up for states rights, because we were the first state that started the War Between the States.

"I do not know why there is all this talk about the East and the West unless it is beginning to enter into the political scheme," continued Johnston, obviously hinting at Lyndon Johnson. "Probably some people are running for office, and they want to say they are not from the South, that they are from the West, instead of the South, in order to be nominated.

"It has been impossible for almost 100 years for a person to be nominated from the South. I do not blame someone if he tries to get on the borderline and then slips across in order to receive this high honor, and things of that kind. I guess that is the reason for all this talk about South and West and all of that."

Sen. Olin Johnston was speaking as one of the foremost opponents of the Civil Rights Bill which would help guarantee the voting rights of Negroes.

FLASHBACK SCENE: Time—1937. Place — The Governor's Mansion in Columbia, S. C. Olin Johnston, then Governor of South Carolina, was giving a luncheon for this writer.

"We've made some remarkable progress in South Carolina," he said. "We've made great progress in South Carolina," he said. "We've made great progress with the Negro. For the first time in history we're enrolling them in the Democratic Party. We're charging them 10 cents each to enroll so they can be good Democrats and vote."

Yes, times and people do change.

Mailbag

JOE DE SILVA, LOS ANGELES—There have been numerous cases where Senators have tacked important legislation on relatively minor bills as riders. The current case of tacking the Civil Rights Bill onto a bill giving the Rolla, Mo., schools unused Army buildings at Fort Crowder, Mo., is not new.

Quite recently, Sen. Spessard Holland of Florida tacked an anti-poll tax bill onto the Kefauver bill giving governors the right to appoint Congressmen in case the Congress is wiped out by an atomic bomb. It passed the Senate. There was also Sen. Styles Bridges' (R-NH) rider to an appropriations bill specifying that no money could be used for the recognition of Red China. This is a problem entirely up on the Foreign Relations Committee, but Bridges could not get an O. K. from foreign relations, so he tacked it on an appropriations bill. It passed.

Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana also tacked his bill liberalizing old age pensions onto an excise bill. He was unable to get it out of committee so he used the strategy of making it a rider.

The most notorious case of a rider is that of HR-3, which Senator McClellan of Arkansas tacked onto the Steve Nelson bill in order to upset Supreme Court decisions in the South. It would have wiped out all of the court's desegregation decisions. However, McClellan couldn't get it through the Judiciary Committee, so he introduced it as a rider. It didn't pass.

Lyndon Johnson did the same thing when the Judiciary Committee would not report out the Civil Rights Bill. He used the Fort Crowder School Bill. Most of these riders, incidentally, have been introduced by Southern Senators.

Mr. Jack Paar,
Studio 6-A, N.B.C.
Radio City, N.Y.

Dear Jack:

In a few days, you will be back. Welcome. We've missed you. In our house, we've been reduced to watching the Charlie Chan movies. Hugh Downs is a good man, but too much intelligence after midnight is not good for me. Nor you. After midnight is fun time or it's nothing.

Be bright and be funny; be moved, be untouched, weep if you must. We love all of it in this house and I think I speak for millions of people who watch you in such diverse places as Salem, Savannah, Sacramento, Seattle, San Diego and Salt Lake City. Sea Bright, too?

What makes your show great, in my estimation, is the nightly potential for fireworks. It isn't so much what happens; it's what might happen if I miss it. Whenever this happens, millions of phones are lifted off the hooks the following morning at 9 a.m. and voices prattle: "Did you catch the Paar Show last night? Well, dear you missed half your life. Everything was going smoothly when all of a sudden . . ."

This also applies to your running battle with the press. It makes your show the most publicized since Nero first started to play with matches. You are fortunate indeed, my friend, that the columnists regard you as a foe worthy of their fire. Many who try to tilt lances with them are buried in silence. Have you ever tried to fight in a vacuum?

You and I have been friends for a few years. If I'm not mistaken, I was the first writer to do a nationally-syndicated series on you. I knew then, as I know now, that you are a hypersensitive human being easily moved to tears and laughter and all the emotions between. As long as you plan to open your heart to millions of people, you must expect criticism, because some people do not think with their hearts — they use their heads.

Another item that gets you into trouble with the press is your long-term loyalties. I was with you on your first trip to Cuba when you interviewed Senor Castro, and I know that you sincerely admire this man. I do not. You think he saved his country from a murderer named Batista. This is your right. If all of us had the same political beliefs, only one candidate would run for office.

You and I disagreed on other matters besides Castro. It made no difference to our friendship. I keep telling what I think is the truth in this column and you keep telling what you think is the truth on your show. One thing I know: you are not a Communist and not a pinko. If there is any subject about which you know less than politics, it must be public relations.

My advice to you is to keep going in your battle with the press. You won't win it, my friend, but you'll get more free space than a monkey in a missile. Don't sulk when they call you a bum. Defend their right to do it so long as you can stare coldly into the lens of a camera and heap invective on them. Criticism, in your case, is a two-way street.

Some of the press — notably Editor & Publisher — still think that when you walked off the show that it was a planned publicity trick. I know better. I phoned you that day and Miriam told me that you had not slept all night because NBC had cut a small part of your program without telling you about it. I phoned at 2 p. m. and Mitzi, your assistant, told me that you were so upset that you didn't know whether you could go on that night.

It is possible that I knew that this thing was coming before you did. When we were at the Key Biscayne Hotel over the holidays, we spent a little time chatting at the golf course and you said that you were so keyed up and nervous that you couldn't rest. An hour and forty-five minutes a night is a lot of show.

The impulse to quit will come again. It comes to all of us. It's like the impulse to jump when looking out a high window. The human being is at his best when he can kick his impulse in the pants. I have an impulse to drop-kick Zsa Zsa Gabor, and look how many years I've resisted it.

Good luck, my friend. . .

A Training Lag In Education

Educators are often forced to defend themselves against criticism, but it does not usually come from their own profession. Thus the charges made by the American Association of School Administrators in New York are surprising.

The AASA issued a yearbook in which it was charged that most colleges and universities preparing the nation's public school administrators admit students without any standards of selection. The AASA said the colleges offer a "provincial chow," consisting of much outmoded theory and little useful practice.

The master's degree is often a "tasteless potpourri," the AASA said. A study found that, in the absence of a selection system, practically all who start their studies toward school administration get their certificate—without culling of even obvious misfits.

The charges are based on a survey of 293 of the 302 colleges and universities training school administrators. Drastic overhauling of training procedures was proposed.

Usually a school administrator is an individual who has been a good teacher but wants to earn more money. Therefore he is boosted upstairs to administrative work, despite the fact that teaching and school administration have little in common.

The public has a right to careful and good administration of its school system, just as it has the same right in other governmental fields. And colleges and universities betray the public when they allow incompetents to earn degrees presumably qualifying them for filling school administrative positions.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Upper Crust

Society, spelled with a capital S, is that element in the social structure which declares itself to be superior to others by birth and position. In Europe, Society is established by the status of birth; that is, royalty and the nobility are remnants of feudalism and are recognized as such. Many European countries have rid themselves of kings and queens and the nobility which persists often has neither legal nor social status. A Russian prince, for instance, is an anomaly. Most Russian princes, dukes, etc., etc., are no longer Russian and none of them are titled, as Russia only recognizes one distinction, Tovarish. In other European countries, former legal titles continue to have social if not economic value. A prince, duke or count might have married a show-girl or a manicurist, but she regards herself as a princess and gives herself feudal airs.

In the United States we are free of feudalism and therefore of titles of nobility. Our Society was composed by the children of the older families marrying the new rich. Thus, the Vanderbilts, who descend from a Staten Island Dutch ferryman who went in for railroading, married into very old and social New York families and became themselves leaders of Society. The Rockefellers, who descend from a Cleveland bookkeeper, never bothered about Society and have done very well without it.

The Income Tax and the Inheritance Tax have done much damage to Society because money is hard to keep. All that those who claim to be Society have left is status, but even in this respect, Society is being challenged by Cafe Society, a vulgarization of status. Cafe Society is made up neither of scions of the old families nor the new rich. Anyone can manage to get in if he knows the man at the door. As everybody in Cafe Society calls everybody else by his first name, friendships are formed, persons become intimate, and are readily forgotten. As those in Cafe Society wish to be noticed more actively than the older families, they get into the gossip columns more often. A dozen mentions and one is made. But what does such making really mean? It involves little more than being invited to a few parties.

What makes me think of all this is a television program, supervised by David Susskind, dealing with the "Upper Crust." By the Upper Crust was meant those who possess the status of being in Society. Ward McAllister, who created "the 400" of a former generation, would not have accepted anyone on Susskind's program as among the 400, except one guest, Colonel Serge Obolensky who was once an authentic prince.

Certainly if McAllister could manufacture a "400," Susskind can recognize an "Upper Crust." But what is the basis for selection? McAllister chose the rich of his day, the famous, the well-bred, those of ancient lineage in this country. It was a snobbish, exclusive Society designed to keep itself such. Parents in it aspired that their children should marry within its ranks and every device of discrimination and segregation was set up to maintain its exclusiveness. Despite its obviously undemocratic nature, Americans, of the time, relished its existence and paid it tribute by being shocked when one of its members married out of caste.

Susskind's Upper Crust is nothing like that. With the exception of Serge Obolensky, none of his subjects were particularly notable as members of either the old or the new Society.

It is all very amusing because it only proves that even in the most egalitarian of societies, there are always men and women who try to set themselves up as superior and even look ridiculous in the attempt. Today, two factors enter into status—one, the willingness to spend night after night in better saloons being seen—just being seen and noticed. The other factor is association with an aggressive clique that pushes into publicity. These cliques are better for women than for men, particularly women who are willing to accept patrons. The men in such cliques usually are pushed along by their women.

The enterprise is meaningless and does no harm, except that it reflects the weakness of our country which still bothers with Society with a capital S, which went out of existence during World War I.

Grave Test Of Will Building Up At Berlin

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

A grave test of will already seems to be building up at Berlin, two months and a half before the scheduled discussion of Nikita S. Khrushchev's Berlin demands at the summit conference. The test has two major elements.

First, the Western Allies have now decided to resume air supply flights to Berlin above the 10,000-foot level at an early date. With the President's approval, the Soviets have been given advance notice. The decision's great importance is indicated by its background.

In brief, modern cargo aircraft (such as the West will use for massive air supply of Berlin) need to fly above 10,000 feet for reasonable efficiency. There is no altitude limitation, either, on the Soviet-guaranteed Western rights on Berlin's air approaches. But when high-altitude flights to Berlin were previously attempted, in the early stages of the present crisis, the Soviets violently charged that East Germany's air space was being trespassed upon.

At that time, the Soviets fairly crudely hinted they would use force, if need be, to put a stop to such flights. Soviet fighter planes also made threatening passes at the Western supply aircraft. The Western Allies flatly rejected the Soviet charge of air-trespass; and they strongly insisted on their unlimited rights. But at that time, the high-altitude flights were also stopped.

Hence there is no sure way to predict the Soviet reaction to the message that high-altitude flights will shortly be resumed. However, the betting favors an extremely sharp response.

The second and less vital element in the Berlin test of will derives from the affair of the Potsdam passes. This affair began some weeks ago, when the Soviets slyly changed the wording of the official passes of the Western military liaison group at the Soviet High Command's headquarters in Potsdam, beyond Free Berlin's borders.

Previously, these passes were simple, unadorned Soviet military documents. The new passes, which have now replaced the old, conscipuously refer to the "territory" of the East German Republic. They also carry the note that they have been "registered" with the Ministry of the Interior of the Kremlin's East German puppets.

The new passes, in short, are obviously designed as first steps towards Western de facto recognition of the East German Government. This the Kremlin much desires. Hence the wording of the passes was angrily protested by the Western Allies. Members of the Western liaison group at Potsdam were immuned in their quarters there. All use of the new passes was forbidden, except by vehicles needed to supply the liaison group from West Berlin. Nonetheless, no satisfactory answer to the Western protest has been received from the Soviets.

In these circumstances, an order was very nearly issued this weekend, confining to their quarters all members of the Soviet military liaison group in Western Germany. This is the opposite number of the Western group at Pottsdam; and the purpose of the order was to put the Soviet officers in the same situation as the Western officers.

The reprisal against the Soviet liaison group in Western Germany would be in force already, in fact, if the American, French and Germany policy-makers had had their way. The order of confinement to quarters was deferred for one week, only in deference to the views of the British. But if the Soviets continue to refuse satisfaction in the matter of the passes, positive Western action will soon ensue.

The role of the British in the matter of the passes deserves a special note. It reveals a British attitude which is almost certain to become the subject of controversy in the test of will that seems to lie ahead. To speak bluntly, the British have repeatedly pleaded for a do-nothing policy, at turn after turn of the unfolding Berlin crisis.

For instance, when the first high-altitude flights to Berlin were ordered many months ago, the British Government opposed and condemned this assertion of undoubted Western rights on the air approaches. The British press gave vent to extreme indignation because the American Government had asserted this Western right, and showed little indignation over the Soviet Government's swashbuckling denial of the same right. The decision to halt the first series of high-altitude tests was also taken, in large part, in deference to the British.

Again, the British Government urged the other Western Allies to take no notice whatever, when the new Potsdam passes were first issued some weeks ago. The stated ground to British objection to protest against the new passes was the argument that this measure must lead, in the end, to withdrawal of the Western military liaison group.

The liaison group undeniably has some value as an observation post. Yet it was widely suspected that the real ground of the Brtisih objection to the protest was a strong inclination towards de facto recognition of East Germany. Having this inclination, the British no doubt felt little distaste for the thin end of the wedge.

In the end, British agreements to the protest against the new passes was secured by a united Franco-German-American front. But the subsequent British objection to any follow-up of the protest still indicates an unchanged underlying attitude in London. The same attitude was evinced in the strong British opposition to the far more serious decision to resume high-altitude flights. Once more, in this latter case, the British yielded to a united front of the other allies, but they only yielded with great reluctance.

For the present, therefore, it must be assumed that the unity of the West is more apparent than real. This is a disturbing assumption to have to make, as the preliminary test of will at Berlin gets underway.

There is no reason to suppose that this test, though preliminary, will be mild or picnic-like. Unless President Eisenhower leads a retreat from the positions he has taken, this test can be very unpleasant indeed. And if the unpleasantness shatters the unity of the West, there will be a strong feedback effect; the unpleasantness will thereby be triply compounded.

WASHINGTON—In politics, as in other walks of life, people change. Sometimes they change for the worse, usually for the better. But nothing is static. Here are some scenes in the drama of people's change:

SCENE 1 — The Democratic Convention in Chicago in 1956. A committee of prominent Negro leaders call upon Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas. They include: Earl Brown, New York city councilman; Howard Bennett, former Minneapolis municipal judge; and D. M. Grant, member of the St. Louis Board of Aldermen.

They ask Johnson to help put a forceful civil rights plank in the Democratic platform. He replies: "I am not now and never have been an advocate of civil rights. I don't think I ever will be. However, I am a reasonable man. I hope this convention will write a plank that is acceptable to the North and that the South can live with."

SCENE 2 —Four years have passed. The time is the present. The place is the Senate floor. It is almost empty. Southern leaders dissect the Civil Rights Bill. They speak also on any other problem that comes to mind. There are brilliant flashes of oratory, but most of the time dull monologue.

In the Majority Leader's chair sits Sen. Lyndon Johnson. He sits slumped over, listening, keeping watch on the drive for a Civil Rights Bill—almost alone.

Northern liberals who demanded civil rights bills n years past are not there. They bounce in to answer quorum calls, then bounce out. Most of the time Johnson is alone, standing guard over the Civil Rights Bill he once said he didn't want but which he hopes will be acceptable to the North and which the South can live with.

Times change.

Texas—South Or West?

SCENE 3—The time is also the present. Again the scene is the Senate floor. Olin Johnston of South Carolina, a kindly Senator with no visible sense of humor, holds forth on the subject of whether Texas belongs to the South or to the West.

"I know one thing," says Olin Johnston, "I know nobody will ever doubt that South Carolina is in the South. We are in the South. I am glad we stood up for states rights, because we were the first state that started the War Between the States.

"I do not know why there is all this talk about the East and the West unless it is beginning to enter into the political scheme," continued Johnston, obviously hinting at Lyndon Johnson. "Probably some people are running for office, and they want to say they are not from the South, that they are from the West, instead of the South, in order to be nominated.

"It has been impossible for almost 100 years for a person to be nominated from the South. I do not blame someone if he tries to get on the borderline and then slips across in order to receive this high honor, and things of that kind. I guess that is the reason for all this talk about South and West and all of that."

Sen. Olin Johnston was speaking as one of the foremost opponents of the Civil Rights Bill which would help guarantee the voting rights of Negroes.

FLASHBACK SCENE: Time—1937. Place — The Governor's Mansion in Columbia, S. C. Olin Johnston, then Governor of South Carolina, was giving a luncheon for this writer.

"We've made some remarkable progress in South Carolina," he said. "We've made great progress in South Carolina," he said. "We've made great progress with the Negro. For the first time in history we're enrolling them in the Democratic Party. We're charging them 10 cents each to enroll so they can be good Democrats and vote."

Yes, times and people do change.

Mailbag

JOE DE SILVA, LOS ANGELES—There have been numerous cases where Senators have tacked important legislation on relatively minor bills as riders. The current case of tacking the Civil Rights Bill onto a bill giving the Rolla, Mo., schools unused Army buildings at Fort Crowder, Mo., is not new.

Quite recently, Sen. Spessard Holland of Florida tacked an anti-poll tax bill onto the Kefauver bill giving governors the right to appoint Congressmen in case the Congress is wiped out by an atomic bomb. It passed the Senate. There was also Sen. Styles Bridges' (R-NH) rider to an appropriations bill specifying that no money could be used for the recognition of Red China. This is a problem entirely up on the Foreign Relations Committee, but Bridges could not get an O. K. from foreign relations, so he tacked it on an appropriations bill. It passed.

Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana also tacked his bill liberalizing old age pensions onto an excise bill. He was unable to get it out of committee so he used the strategy of making it a rider.

The most notorious case of a rider is that of HR-3, which Senator McClellan of Arkansas tacked onto the Steve Nelson bill in order to upset Supreme Court decisions in the South. It would have wiped out all of the court's desegregation decisions. However, McClellan couldn't get it through the Judiciary Committee, so he introduced it as a rider. It didn't pass.

Lyndon Johnson did the same thing when the Judiciary Committee would not report out the Civil Rights Bill. He used the Fort Crowder School Bill. Most of these riders, incidentally, have been introduced by Southern Senators.

Mr. Jack Paar,
Studio 6-A, N.B.C.
Radio City, N.Y.

Dear Jack:

In a few days, you will be back. Welcome. We've missed you. In our house, we've been reduced to watching the Charlie Chan movies. Hugh Downs is a good man, but too much intelligence after midnight is not good for me. Nor you. After midnight is fun time or it's nothing.

Be bright and be funny; be moved, be untouched, weep if you must. We love all of it in this house and I think I speak for millions of people who watch you in such diverse places as Salem, Savannah, Sacramento, Seattle, San Diego and Salt Lake City. Sea Bright, too?

What makes your show great, in my estimation, is the nightly potential for fireworks. It isn't so much what happens; it's what might happen if I miss it. Whenever this happens, millions of phones are lifted off the hooks the following morning at 9 a.m. and voices prattle: "Did you catch the Paar Show last night? Well, dear you missed half your life. Everything was going smoothly when all of a sudden . . ."

This also applies to your running battle with the press. It makes your show the most publicized since Nero first started to play with matches. You are fortunate indeed, my friend, that the columnists regard you as a foe worthy of their fire. Many who try to tilt lances with them are buried in silence. Have you ever tried to fight in a vacuum?

You and I have been friends for a few years. If I'm not mistaken, I was the first writer to do a nationally-syndicated series on you. I knew then, as I know now, that you are a hypersensitive human being easily moved to tears and laughter and all the emotions between. As long as you plan to open your heart to millions of people, you must expect criticism, because some people do not think with their hearts — they use their heads.

Another item that gets you into trouble with the press is your long-term loyalties. I was with you on your first trip to Cuba when you interviewed Senor Castro, and I know that you sincerely admire this man. I do not. You think he saved his country from a murderer named Batista. This is your right. If all of us had the same political beliefs, only one candidate would run for office.

You and I disagreed on other matters besides Castro. It made no difference to our friendship. I keep telling what I think is the truth in this column and you keep telling what you think is the truth on your show. One thing I know: you are not a Communist and not a pinko. If there is any subject about which you know less than politics, it must be public relations.

My advice to you is to keep going in your battle with the press. You won't win it, my friend, but you'll get more free space than a monkey in a missile. Don't sulk when they call you a bum. Defend their right to do it so long as you can stare coldly into the lens of a camera and heap invective on them. Criticism, in your case, is a two-way street.

Some of the press — notably Editor & Publisher — still think that when you walked off the show that it was a planned publicity trick. I know better. I phoned you that day and Miriam told me that you had not slept all night because NBC had cut a small part of your program without telling you about it. I phoned at 2 p. m. and Mitzi, your assistant, told me that you were so upset that you didn't know whether you could go on that night.

It is possible that I knew that this thing was coming before you did. When we were at the Key Biscayne Hotel over the holidays, we spent a little time chatting at the golf course and you said that you were so keyed up and nervous that you couldn't rest. An hour and forty-five minutes a night is a lot of show.

The impulse to quit will come again. It comes to all of us. It's like the impulse to jump when looking out a high window. The human being is at his best when he can kick his impulse in the pants. I have an impulse to drop-kick Zsa Zsa Gabor, and look how many years I've resisted it.

Good luck, my friend. . .

Highlanders Whip Cadets At Allegany

By TED TROXELL

Southern High School's high flying Highlanders took advantage of a sluggish Frederick defense to easily defeat the Cadets, 74-53, and a spirited Hancock High quint rallied in the final period to upset Bruce, 64-61, in first round action of the Maryland District One tournament last night at Allegany High School.

The Highlanders will play Howard County High School of Ellicott City on Friday at 7:30 in the Class A semi-finals at Campobello. The Howard County five edged Westminster by a 48-45 score last night on the Western Maryland College floor. Hancock moves into the Class B finals on Saturday against the winner of Friday's contest between Northern of Accident and Middletown.

Frederick stayed within reach of Southern for the better part of three quarters, but the Oakland team put its offense in high gear in the final period and ripped off 26 points while holding the opposition to 12.

First Half Close

The first half was closely contested as the Cadets, hitting with some degree of consistency from outside, matched the fast moving Highlanders point for point. The lead changed hands eight times and the score was tied on nine occasions.

A foul conversion by the Cadets' Ronnie Hartsock broke the last tie, 28-all, but Terry Colaw came right back with a pair of free throws that gave Southern a lead it never relinquished.

Successive field goals by Hartsock and Bill Brooks and penalty pitches by Harold Blank and Pete Nelson cut Southern's margin to five points (46-41) with 29 seconds to go in the third period, after the Highlanders had built up an advantage of 11 points, 46-35, with less than two minutes remaining in the quarter.

This was the last semblance of a threat made by Frederick, as the Garrett Countians completely dominated play in the final frame.

Three Foul Out

Three Frederick cagers fouled out, with Wayne Rinehart being the first to leave. Rinehart committed his fourth personal with 2:20 left in the first half, and was benched until the 1:35 mark of the third quarter. When he did return to the lineup, it was for a brief spell, as he fouled out just 20 seconds later. Blank departed with only 21 seconds gone in the last quarter, and John Kreissig went out with 4:52 remaining in the game.

Terry Colaw made seven field goals in 20 attempts and came through with a 10-13 foul line effort to wind up as high scorer with 24 points. Ron Colaw and Jerry Wine tallied 20 and 16, respectively, to aid the winning cause.

Hartsock collected 20 points for the Cadets, Rinehart had 12 (all of them in the first half), and Brooks contributed 11.

Kenny Shives proved to be the undoing of Bruce in the thrilling nightcap of the doubleheader, scoring 26 points for Hancock, and being particularly effective in the clutch.

Bruce led by five points, 45-40, as the fourth quarter got under way, and held the lead for nearly three minutes before two free throws by Harold McCarty and a pair of jump shots from the side by Ray Keefer put the Panthers in front, 55-51.

Bulldogs Come Back

Field goals by Bill Wright and Bill Wiltison and a foul shot by the latter pulled the Bulldogs back from a five-point deficit to tie it up, 59-59, with 40 seconds to go. After Stan Smith converted a foul for Hancock, Wright followed teammate Roy Beard's missed foul try for a field goal that regained the lead for Bruce, 62-61.

At this point, Shives took over. He tossed in his most effective shot, a jumper from about 15 feet out, with 20 seconds left, then nailed down the decision when he calmly sank a pair of free throw attempts with four seconds showing on the clock.

Shives wound up with eight field goals and clicked on 10 of 18 fouls, nine of them in the last period, to account for his 26-point total. Keefer, who with Shives was the other sparkplug in the Panther rally, grabbed 20 points. Bob Wilson was the Bulldogs' leading point producer with 20 tallies, and was followed by Wright, who chalked up 14.

Pocomoke City Bows To Pittsville, 54-46

SALISBURY (AP) — Easton defated Stephen Decatur of Berlin, Md., 61-48 in Class B and Pittsville took a close Class C decision from Pocomoke City 54-46 Tuesday night in district playoffs of the State High School Basketball Tournament.

The Class C game was very close and tied five times until Russell Combs scored with about four minutes left to put Pittsville ahead of the Warriors to stay at 44-42. Pittsville had led 22-21 at the half.

Combs led the Wildcats with 16 points and Dennis Brittingham had 14. Wayne Dryden and Ed Godwin netted 13 apiece for the losers.

Pocomoke City had a dismal 4-12 record for the regular season and Pittsville was 13-3.

The Class B meeting was no contest. Easton's Warriors scored the first basket to make it 2-0 and were never headed. Their halftime margin was 38-21.

Denny Sanger's 18 points were high for Easton, which went to the District 5 finals last year only to lose to Cambridge. Stephen Decatur, eliminated by Easton in the opening round a year ago, too, was paced by Joe Kelly with 13 points.

Becomes 9th Team In Garden Event

NEW YORK (UPI) — The St. Louis University Billikens became the ninth team Tuesday to accept a bid to play in the 12-team National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden, March 10-19.

The Billikens, trailing Cincinnati and Bradley in the tough Missouri Valley Conference for the third consecutive season, accepted an NIT invitation for the second year in a row. It will be their ninth appearance in the New York tournament, which they won in 1948.

Coach John Bennington's Billikens (18-6) have two more regular season games. They entertain Bradley Saturday night and visit Louisville next Monday night.

Dayton, Detroit, Villanova, Memphis State, Providence, St. Bonaventure, St. John's, and Holy Cross previously accepted NIT invitations.

German Agrees To Fight Moore

NEW YORK (AP) — German lightheavyweight contender Erich Schoeppner has accepted a $50,000 offer to meet veteran Archie Moore, Jack Fugazy, managing director of Feature Sports Inc., said Tuesday.

Feature Sports is seeking to put the bout on this summer on the same night as the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title bout. Fugazy is scheduled to discuss the projected double attraction with Johansson later this week.

Syracuse Whips Knicks, 124-121

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Syracuse Nationals gained an uphill 124-121 victory over the New York Knickerbockers Tuesday night before 2,976 fans, the smallest pro basketball turnout in the history of Madison Square Garden.

New York scored only one point in the last four minutes of play, permitting the Nationals to grind out a hard-fought victory behind the shooting of Dolph Schayes, who scored 27 points.

Sign For Bout

NEW YORK (UPI) — Welterweights Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore., and Emile Griffith of New York, each of whom has been beaten only once as a pro, were signed Tuesday for a 10-round nationally-televised match at Madison Square Garden, March 11.

Ted Williams Is Uncertain About Playing

Arrives At Camp With Sore Neck

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Ted Williams reported to the Boston Red Sox training camp Tuesday with a sore neck and the dour prediction he may be through with baseball.

"There is considerable doubt I can play," said the 41-year-old outfielder who was six times batting champion of the American League.

"Sometimes the neck gets tired and I have to drop my head. I'm taking pills, got them from a Miami doctor. They help me but make me drowsy."

Williams' doubtful status is a blow to the Red Sox outfield plans. Jackie Jensen, the most valuable player in the league in 1958, quit baseball in January to devote more time to his family.

The neck ailment is not a new one. Williams sufferd a pinched nerve last spring before the season opened and the injury plagued him most of the year. He appeared in 103 games, many times as a pinch-hitter, and batted only .254.

On Jan. 23 Williams underwent a thorough examination and was pronounced in good physical shape.

Williams, reporting a day before the infielders and outfielders were scheduled to check in, acknowledged that he was tired from a rough 12-hour plane ride from Miami.

Yanks Sign Maris, Lopez And Hadley

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla (UPI) —Outfielder Roger Maris of the New York Yankees, reached a compromise salary agreement on Tuesday with Assistant General Manager Roy Hamey and signed for an estimated $18,000.

Hector Lopez and Kent Hadley, two other Kansas City alumni, had reported to camp earlier in the day and promptly came to terms. Their signing reduced the Yankee holdout list to five, including Mickey Mantle who was the only player not in camp.

Collarbone Heals

Lary Inks Pact

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) —Harvey Kuenn and Charley Maxwell officially became holdouts Tuesday but pitcher Frank Lary "beat the deadline" when he unexpectedly arrived in the Detroit Tigers' camp and signed for an estimated $22,000.

Talk Trade

BRADENTON, Fla. (UPI)—Repulsed all winter in their efforts to make a deal, the Milwaukee Braves have resumed talks with the St. Louis Cardinals in the hope of landing a catcher and-or an infielder, it was announced Tuesday.

Rocky Is Holdout

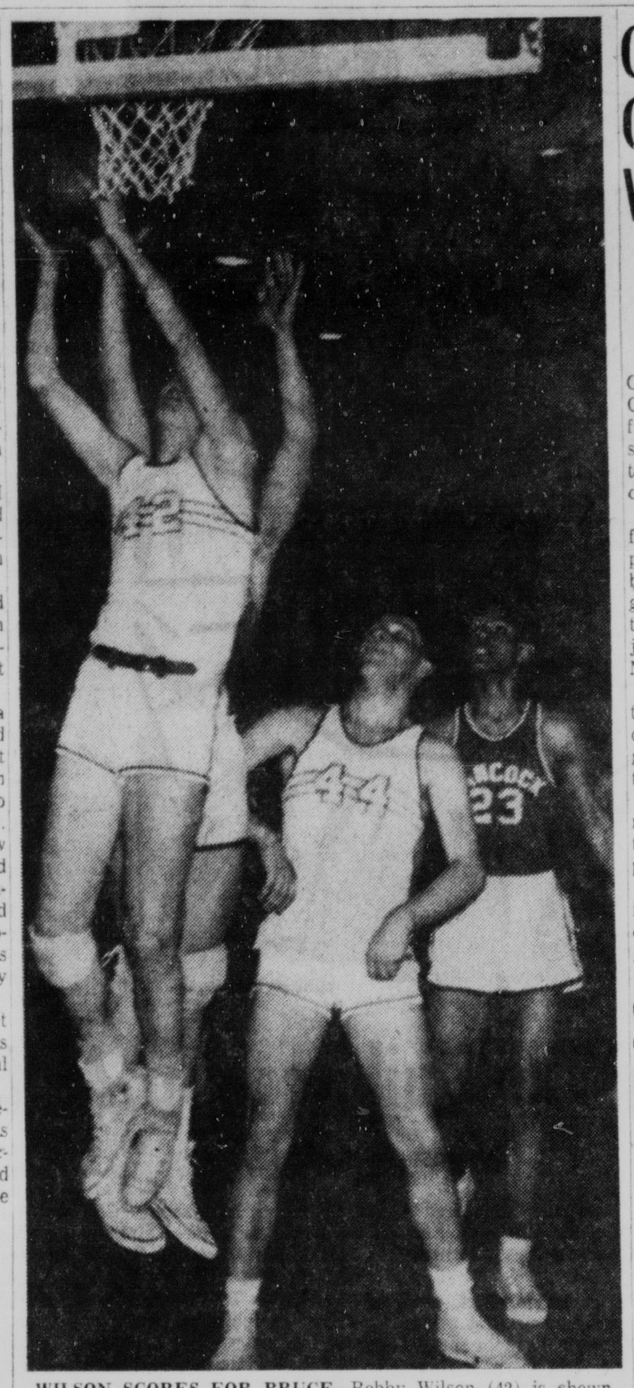

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Rocky Colavito, heavy-hitting outfielder, was listed officially Tuesday as a holdout by the Cleveland Indians.

Manager Joe Gordon expressed himself as pleased with the new Tribe infield of Vic Power at first, Johnny Temple at second, Woodie Held at shortstop and Bubba Phillips at third.

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI)—Leo Cahill, assistant football coach at the University of South Carolina for the past two years, resigned Tuesday to become line coach for the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Professional League.

Mickey Nears City Record; Explorers Ring Up 21st Win

Mickey Scaletta racked up a total of 36 points as LaSalle High School's Explorers crushed Beall High School last night at Frostburg by the score of 86-69 and moved within two points of the all-time record number of points scored by a Cumberland high school player in one season.

Scaletta dumped in 15 goals and 6-6 fouls for his biggest scoring spree of the current campaign as Coach George Geatz's Explorers reeled off their sixth consecutive victory and made their season record 21 victories against two losses.

LaSalle's scoring ace made nine points in the first period, four in the second, 10 in the third and 13 in the final stanza. Mickey's 36 points was a season high for a Cumberland schoolboy player. He upped his season total to 493 points in 23 games for an average of 21.4 with one game left to play with Hyndman High School here Friday night. The most points credited to a Cumberland varsity player was 495 credited to Tommy Smith of Carver High School in 1955. His average of 23.5 is also a city high.

The score was knotted at 1-1 and 3-3 and the lead changed hands seven times in the first period before Carroll Wilt's basket broke an 11-11 tie and put LaSalle ahead to stay. The quarter scores were 19-13, 36-31, and 60-41.

Trailing Scaletta in the scoring column was Mike Long who collected 23 tallies on 10 field goals and 3-out-of-5 at the charity line.

Jim Evans was Beall's high scorer with 24 points. He garnered 11 field goals and converted 2 of 7 free throws. Chester Carter was runner-up with 16 markers.

Bill McLuckie of Beall fouled out in the third period with six minutes remaining.

It was Beall's final game of the season and the Mountaineers lowered the curtain with an 11-10 record.

Carol Heiss Cops Lead In World Event

Sjoukje Dijkstra Cops Second Place

Miss Heiss drew top marks from nearly all nine judges. Of a possible 6 points, her lowest mark by any judge was 4.5. Two judges gave her 5.2. The only other entrant scored as high as 5 by any judge was Sjoukje Dijkstra of The Netherlands.

Originally scheduled to begin the 1960 world figure skating championships at 8 a.m., the 24 girls were not called for competition until 1 p.m.

Eighty-three skaters are entered in the five-day event, seeking crowns in men's and women's singles, pairs and the dance.

Senators Have Four Holdouts

Lemon Returns 4th Unsigned Contract

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The Washington Senators opened full-squad training sessions Tuesday, with four major holdouts — outfielders Bob Allison and Jim Lemon, and pitchers Pedro Ramos and Hal Griggs.

The unsigned ranks were reduced when rookie second baseman John Schaive signed.

President Calvin Griffith said he received Lemon's fourth unsigned contract Monday and said it was followed Tuesday by a letter from the slugger in Roanoke, Va., in which Lemon modified his original demands for a raise from a reported $14,000 last year to $30,000 in 1960.

"I'm not budging in my offer to Lemon or to Allison," said Griffith. Allison, reportedly seeking a boost from $9,000 to $20,000, has been offered $12,500. Lemon was offered $20,000.

Howard County Defeats Owls

Westminster Loses District Tilt, 48-45

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — Howard County High School Tuesday night managed to overcome a one-point deficit with four minutes left to play to defeat Westminster High School 48-45 in the first round of the district playoffs of the State High School Basketball Tournament.

High scorers for the game were Howard's Skip Whorton with 19 points and Westminster's Bernard Bayline with 15 points.

COACH Joe Stanislawszyk's Keyser High School wrestling team has completed its most successful season in five years with a 10-3 record.

Ronald Shaffer, 138-pounder, was undefeated this season and four other grapplers on the Keyser squad lost only one match each. They were Floyd Wilt 145, Richard Dawson 133, Victor Raigner 127 and Robert Cook 105.

THE ELECTION of Eldon E. Shipman as president of the Potomac Valley Conference Monday night came as welcome news to those who know the principal of the West Virginia School for the Deaf.

Mr. Shipman is one of the best public relations men we have known during the many years we have been in contact with the Romney school.

A very pleasant person, Mr. Shipman has done much to keep the West Virginia School for the Deaf in the public eye and has done a fine job since taking over there in the fall of 1956 as successor to Paul Bird who moved to Florida.

A native of Fulton, Mo., Mr. Shipman took an interest in teaching the deaf because his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest O. Shipman were deaf and his father was associated with the Missouri School for the Deaf for 54 years. At one time his parents, his brother John and himself were employed at the Missouri school in Fulton. John is now coaching at the Louisiana School for the Deaf in Baton Rouge.

Mr. Shipman received his M. Ed. degree at Mississippi College, Clinton, and his MA at Gallaudet College, Washington, D. C., and after graduating from the latter school came to Romney as teacher for the 1952-53 and 1953-54 terms. He served as principal at the Mississippi School for the Deaf at Jackson and then returned to the WVSD as principal four years ago.

KYLE WILSON'S Northwood High School quint was nosed out by Bethesda-Chevy Chase for the Montgomery County Class A title this year.

Since Wilson moved from Southern High in Oakland to Northwood four years ago none of his teams have lost more than four games a season and twice Northwood has been edged out of county honors.

Northwood High's address is Silver Spring and is the third largest school in the county with an enrollment of 1,900 in four grades. Bethesda-Chevy Chase and Montgomery Blair rank 1-2 in enrollment.

THE VOICE of Joe Boland has been stilled by death.

You may not know who Joe Boland was but followers of Notre Dame football teams will miss him because he was the topnotch announcer and broadcast sports for all the networks—ABC, CBS, NBC and Mutual—over the years and founded the original "Irish Network."

Joe died last weekend of a heart attack at his home in South Bend. He was 55.

Boland was one of the famous "Seven Mules" at Notre Dame under Knute Rockne. He turned to coaching after his college days, serving at Santa Clara, Purdue and Notre Dame before joining the sports staff of the South Bend Tribune in 1934.

He returned to Notre Dame as assistant coach under Elmer Layden in 1934 and remained on the Irish staff until 1941 when he joined Purdue's coaching staff.

ESTLE "Eck" Miers, Keyser High School's basketball coach, was a well known professional boxer and appeared here in a number of shows that were promoted by Vic Ricer but did you now that Jerry Calhoun, Beall High grid and track mentor, used to throw leather as an amateur with Moorefield as his home base.

DORMONT, one of Pittsburgh's outstanding sandlot baseball teams for many years will not operate in 1960 because of poor attendance in recent years and financial difficulties.

Many former Mid-Atlantic League stars got their start in the Greater Pittsburgh League with Dormont and other teams before they graduated into organized ball. Jack Cummings, Dave Black, "Dutch" Haber, Charley Rohleder, Tommy Ray, Art and Dan Rooney, Eddie Siegal, Eddie Conley and Joe Vitelli were among the products from the Pittsburgh circuit.

Vejar To Test Luis Rodriguez

Bout Set Tonight At Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Luis Rodriguez, who has yet to meet a welterweight he can't beat, will see what he can do against a middleweight when he takes on the veteran Chico Vejar in the 10-round main event at the Miami Beach Auditorium Wednesday night.

The bout will be televised nationally over the ABC network at 10 (EST).

Rodriguez, from Camaguey, Cuba, is undefeated in his 27 pro fights, is rated the No. 1 welterweight challenger, and in his last start knocked out the previously unbeaten Carl Hubbard here in four rounds. He had won only seven of his previous 26 fights by kayo.

In Vejar he is meeting a rugged, aggressive battler who has had 110 fights in his 10-year career. His record shows 89 victories, 41 by knockouts, 16 lost decisions and 2 draws. He has been stopped three times. In his last start he lost to Vince Martinez by decision.

Despite his weight advantage, Vejar will be the underdog.

The bout will be Rodriguez' fourth straight TV appearance. In addition to Hubbard, he defeated Sugar Hart and Izaac Logart before the cameras.

Highlanders Whip Cadets At Allegany

By TED TROXELL

Southern High School's high flying Highlanders took advantage of a sluggish Frederick defense to easily defeat the Cadets, 74-53, and a spirited Hancock High quint rallied in the final period to upset Bruce, 64-61, in first round action of the Maryland District One tournament last night at Allegany High School.

The Highlanders will play Howard County High School of Ellicott City on Friday at 7:30 in the Class A semi-finals at Campobello. The Howard County five edged Westminster by a 48-45 score last night on the Western Maryland College floor. Hancock moves into the Class B finals on Saturday against the winner of Friday's contest between Northern of Accident and Middletown.

Frederick stayed within reach of Southern for the better part of three quarters, but the Oakland team put its offense in high gear in the final period and ripped off 26 points while holding the opposition to 12.

First Half Close

The first half was closely contested as the Cadets, hitting with some degree of consistency from outside, matched the fast moving Highlanders point for point. The lead changed hands eight times and the score was tied on nine occasions.

A foul conversion by the Cadets' Ronnie Hartsock broke the last tie, 28-all, but Terry Colaw came right back with a pair of free throws that gave Southern a lead it never relinquished.

Successive field goals by Hartsock and Bill Brooks and penalty pitches by Harold Blank and Pete Nelson cut Southern's margin to five points (46-41) with 29 seconds to go in the third period, after the Highlanders had built up an advantage of 11 points, 46-35, with less than two minutes remaining in the quarter.

This was the last semblance of a threat made by Frederick, as the Garrett Counlians completely dominated play in the final frame.

Three Foul Out

Three Frederick cagers fouled out, with Wayne Rinehart being the first to leave. Rinehart committed his fourth personal with 2:20 left in the first half, and was benched until the 1:35 mark of the third quarter. When he did return to the lineup, it was for a brief spell, as he fouled out just 20 seconds later. Blank departed with only 21 seconds gone in the last quarter, and John Kreissig went out with 4:52 remaining in the game.

Terry Colaw made seven field goals in 20 attempts and came through with a 10-13 foul line effort to wind up as high scorer with 24 points. Ron Colaw and Jerry Wine tallied 20 and 16, respectively, to aid the winning cause.

Hartsock collected 20 points for the Cadets, Rinehart had 12 (all of them in the first half), and Brooks contributed 11.

Kenny Shives proved to be the undoing of Bruce in the thrilling nightcap of the doubleheader, scoring 26 points for Hancock, and being particularly effective in the clutch.

Bruce led by five points, 45-40, as the fourth quarter got under way, and held the lead for nearly three minutes before two free throws by Harold McCarty and a pair of jump shots from the side by Ray Keefer put the Panthers in front, 55-51.

Bulldogs Come Back

Field goals by Bill Wright and Bill Wiltison and a foul shot by the latter pulled the Bulldogs back from a five-point deficit to tie it up, 59-59, with 40 seconds to go. After Stan Smith converted a foul for Hancock, Wright followed teammate Roy Beard's missed foul try for a field goal that regained the lead for Bruce, 62-61.

At this point, Shives took over. He tossed in his most effective shot, a jumper from about 15 feet out, with 20 seconds left, then nailed down the decision when he calmly sank a pair of free throw attempts with four seconds showing on the clock.

Shives wound up with eight field goals and clicked on 10 of 18 fouls, nine of them in the last period, to account for his 26-point total. Keefer, who with Shives was the other sparkplug in the Panther rally, grabbed 20 points. Bob Wilson was the Bulldogs' leading point producer with 20 tallies, and was followed by Wright, who chalked up 14.

Pocomoke City Bows To Pittsville, 54-46

SALISBURY (AP) — Easton defated Stephen Decatur of Berlin, Md., 61-48 in Class B and Pittsville took a close Class C decision from Pocomoke City 54-46 Tuesday night in district playoffs of the State High School Basketball Tournament.

The Class C game was very close and tied five times until Russell Combs scored with about four minutes left to put Pittsville ahead of the Warriors to stay at 44-42. Pittsville had led 22-21 at the half.

Combs led the Wildcats with 16 points and Dennis Brittingham had 14. Wayne Dryden and Ed Godwin netted 13 apiece for the losers.

Pocomoke City had a dismal 4-12 record for the regular season and Pittsville was 13-3.

The Class B meeting was no contest. Easton's Warriors scored the first basket to make it 2-0 and were never headed. Their halftime margin was 38-21.

Denny Sanger's 18 points were high for Easton, which went to the District 5 finals last year only to lose to Cambridge. Stephen Decatur, eliminated by Easton in the opening round a year ago, too, was paced by Joe Kelly with 13 points.

St. Louis U. Enters NIT

Becomes 9th Team In Garden Event

NEW YORK (UPI) — The St. Louis University Billikens became the ninth team Tuesday to accept a bid to play in the 12-team National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden, March 10-19.

The Billikens, trailing Cincinnati and Bradley in the tough Missouri Valley Conference for the third consecutive season, accepted an NIT invitation for the second year in a row. It will be their ninth appearance in the New York tournament, which they won in 1948.

Coach John Bennington's Billikens (18-6) have two more regular season games. They entertain Bradley Saturday night and visit Louisville next Monday night.

Dayton, Detroit, Villanova, Memphis State, Providence, St. Bonaventure, St. John's, and Holy Cross previously accepted NIT invitations.

German Agrees To Fight Moore

NEW YORK (AP) — German lightheavyweight contender Erich Schoeppner has accepted a $50,000 offer to meet veteran Archie Moore, Jack Fugazy, managing director of Feature Sports Inc., said Tuesday.

Feature Sports is seeking to put the bout on this summer on the same night as the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title bout. Fugazy is scheduled to discuss the projected double attraction with Johansson later this week.

Syracuse Whips Knicks, 124-121

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Syracuse Nationals gained an uphill 124-121 victory over the New York Knickerbockers Tuesday night before 2,976 fans, the smallest pro basketball turnout in the history of Madison Square Garden.

New York scored only one point in the last four minutes of play, permitting the Nationals to grind out a hard-fought victory behind the shooting of Dolph Schayes, who scored 27 points.

Sign For Bout

NEW YORK (UPI) — Welterweights Denny Moyer of Portland, Ore., and Emile Griffith of New York, each of whom has been beaten only once as a pro, were signed Tuesday for a 10-round nationally-televised match at Madison Square Garden, March 11.

Ted Williams Is Uncertain About Playing

Arrives At Camp With Sore Neck

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—Ted Williams reported to the Boston Red Sox training camp Tuesday with a sore neck and the dour prediction he may be through with baseball.

"There is considerable doubt I can play," said the 41-year-old outfielder who was six times batting champion of the American League.

"Sometimes the neck gets tired and I have to drop my head. I'm taking pills, got them from a Miami doctor. They help me but make me drowsy."

Williams' doubtful status is a blow to the Red Sox outfield plans. Jackie Jensen, the most valuable player in the league in 1958, quit baseball in January to devote more time to his family.

The neck ailment is not a new one. Williams sufferd a pinched nerve last spring before the season opened and the injury plagued him most of the year. He appeared in 103 games, many times as a pinch-hitter, and batted only .254.

On Jan. 23 Williams underwent a thorough examination and was pronounced in good physical shape.

Bucs May Use Vernon As Part-Time Player

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UPI) — Mickey Vernon, 42-year-old American Leaguer who signed as a Pittsburgh Pirates coach this spring, may become a pinch-hitter and part-time first baseman with the Bucs.

Yanks Sign Maris, Lopez And Hadley

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla (UPI) —Outfielder Roger Maris of the New York Yankees, reached a compromise salary agreement on Tuesday with Assistant General Manager Roy Hamey and signed for an estimated $18,000.

Hector Lopez and Kent Hadley, two other Kansas City alumni, had reported to camp earlier in the day and promptly came to terms. Their signing reduced the Yankee holdout list to five, including Mickey Mantle who was the only player not in camp.

Collarbone Heals

Lary Inks Pact

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) —Harvey Kuenn and Charley Maxwell officially became holdouts Tuesday but pitcher Frank Lary "beat the deadline" when he unexpectedly arrived in the Detroit Tigers' camp and signed for an estimated $22,000.

Talk Trade

BRADENTON, Fla. (UPI)—Repulsed all winter in their efforts to make a deal, the Milwaukee Braves have resumed talks with the St. Louis Cardinals in the hope of landing a catcher and-or an infielder, it was announced Tuesday.

Rocky Is Holdout

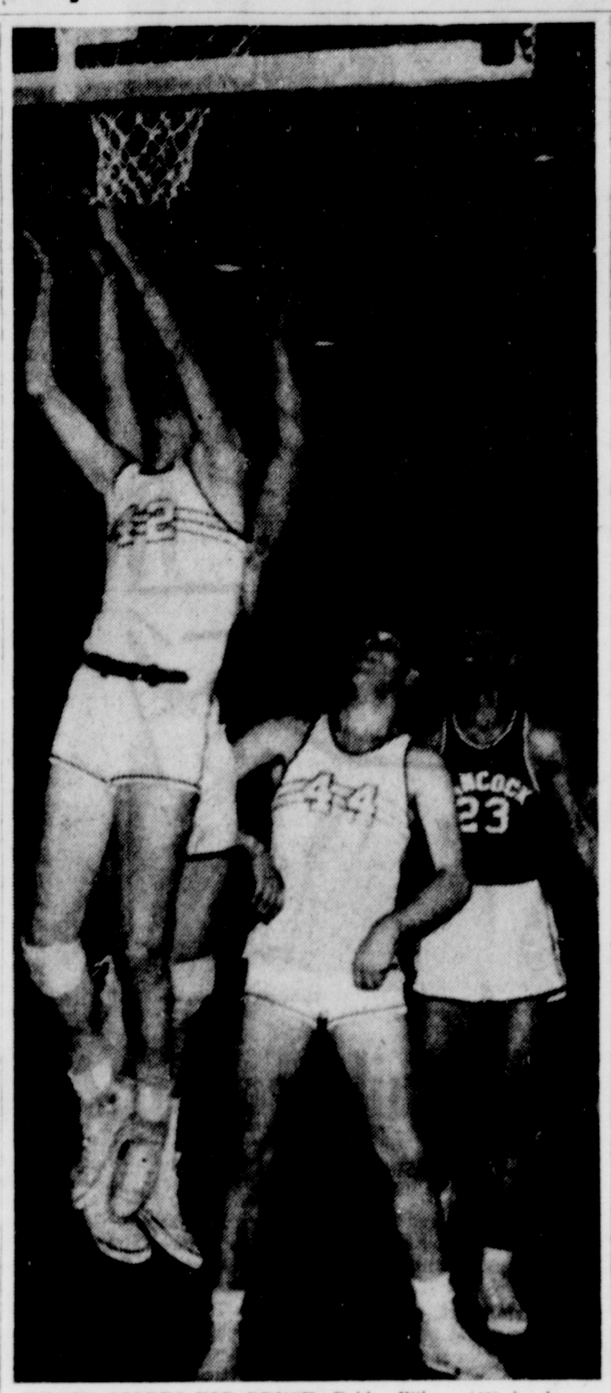

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Rocky Colavito, heavy-hitting outfielder, was listed officially Tuesday as a holdout by the Cleveland Indians.

Manager Joe Gordon expressed himself as pleased with the new Tribe infield of Vic Power at first, Johnny Temple at second, Woodie Held at shortstop and Bubba Phillips at third.

Quits Gamecocks

COLUMBIA, S. C. (UPI)—Leo Cahill, assistant football coach at the University of South Carolina for the past two years, resigned Tuesday to become line coach for the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Professional League.

Mickey Nears City Record; Explorers Ring Up 21st Win

Mickey Scaletta racked up a total of 36 points as LaSalle High School's Explorers crushed Beall High School last night at Frostburg by the score of 86-69 and moved within two points of the all-time record number of points scored by a Cumberland high school player in one season.

Scaletta dumped in 15 goals and 6-6 fouls for his biggest scoring spree of the current campaign as Coach George Geatz's Explorers reeled off their sixth consecutive victory and made their season record 21 victories against two losses.

LaSalle's scoring ace made nine points in the first period, four in the second, 10 in the third and 13 in the final stanza. Mickey's 36 points was a season high for a Cumberland schoolboy player. He upped his season total to 493 points in 23 games for an average of 21.4 with one game left to play with Hyndman High School here Friday night. The most points credited to a Cumberland varsity player was 495 credited to Tommy Smith of Carver High School in 1955. His average of 23.5 is also a city high.

The score was knotted at 1-1 and 3-3 and the lead changed hands seven times in the first period before Carroll Wilt's basket broke an 11-11 tie and put LaSalle ahead to stay. The quarter scores were 19-13, 36-31, and 60-41.

Trailing Scaletta in the scoring column was Mike Long who collected 23 tallies on 10 field goals and 3-out-of-5 at the charity line.

Jim Evans was Beall's high scorer with 24 points. He garnered 11 field goals and converted 2 of 7 free throws. Chester Carter was runner-up with 16 markers.

Bill McLuckie of Beall fouled out in the third period with six minutes remaining.

It was Beall's final game of the season and the Mountaineers lowered the curtain with an 11-10 record.

Carol Heiss Cops Lead In World Event

Sjoukje Dijkstra Cops Second Place

Miss Heiss drew top marks from nearly all nine judges. Of a possible 6 points, her lowest mark by any judge was 4.5. Two judges gave her 5.2. The only other entrant scored as high as 5 by any judge was Sjoukje Dijkstra of The Netherlands.

Originally scheduled to begin the 1960 world figure skating championships at 8 a.m., the 24 girls were not called for competition until 1 p.m.

Eighty-three skaters are entered in the five-day event, seeking crowns in men's and women's singles, pairs and the dance.

Senators Have Four Holdouts

Lemon Returns 4th Unsigned Contract

The unsigned ranks were reduced when rookie second baseman John Schaive signed.

President Calvin Griffith said he received Lemon's fourth unsigned contract Monday and said it was followed Tuesday by a letter from the slugger in Roanoke, Va., in which Lemon modified his original demands for a raise from a reported $14,000 last year to $30,000 in 1960.

"I'm not budging in my offer to Lemon or to Allison," said Griffith. Allison, reportedly seeking a boost from $9,000 to $20,000, has been offered $12,500. Lemon was offered $20,000.

Howard County Defeats Owls

Westminster Loses District Tilt, 48-45

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — Howard County High School Tuesday night managed to overcome a one-point deficit with four minutes left to play to defeat Westminster High School 48-45 in the first round of the district playoffs of the State High School Basketball Tournament.

COACH Joe Stanislawszyk's Keyser High School wrestling team has completed its most successful season in five years with a 10-3 record.

Ronald Shaffer, 138-pounder, was undefeated this season and four other grapplers on the Keyser squad lost only one match each. They were Floyd Wilt 145, Richard Dawson 133, Victor Raigner 127 and Robert Cook 105.

Shipman were deaf and his father was associated with the Missouri School for the Deaf for 54 years. At one time his parents, his brother John and himself were employed at the Missouri school in Fulton. John is now coaching at the Louisiana School for the Deaf in Baton Rouge.

Mr. Shipman received his M. Ed. degree at Mississippi College, Clinton, and his MA at Gallaudet College, Washington, D. C., and after graduating from the latter school came to Romney as teacher for the 1952-53 and 1953-54 terms. He served as principal at the Mississippi School for the Deaf at Jackson and then returned to the WVSD as principal four years ago.

Since Wilson moved from Southern High in Oakland to Northwood four years ago none of his teams have lost more than four games a season and twice Northwood has been edged out of county honors.

Northwood High's address is Silver Spring and is the third largest school in the county with an enrollment of 1,900 in four grades. Bethesda-Chevy Chase and Montgomery Blair rank 1-2 in enrollment.

ESTLE "Eck" Miers, Keyser High School's basketball coach, was a well known professional boxer and appeared here in a number of shows that were promoted by Vic Ricer but did you now that Jerry Calhoun, Beall High grid and track mentor, used to throw leather as an amateur with Moorefield as his home base.

DORMONT, one of Pittsburgh's outstanding sandlot baseball teams for many years will not operate in 1960 because of poor attendance in recent years and financial difficulties.

Many former Mid-Atlantic League stars got their start in the Greater Pittsburgh League with Dormont and other teams before they graduated into organized ball. Jack Cummings, Dave Black, "Dutch" Haber, Charley Rohleder, Tommy Ray, Art and Dan Rooney, Eddie Siegal, Eddie Conley and Joe Vitelli were among the products from the Pittsburgh circuit.

Vejar To Test Luis Rodriguez

Bout Set Tonight At Miami Beach

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Luis Rodriguez, who has yet to meet a welterweight he can't beat, will see what he can do against a middleweight when he takes on the veteran Chico Vejar in the 10-round main event at the Miami Beach Auditorium Wednesday night.

The bout will be televised nationally over the ABC network at 10 (EST).

Rodriguez, from Camaguey, Cuba, is undefeated in his 27 pro fights, is rated the No. 1 welterweight challenger, and in his last start knocked out the previously unbeaten Carl Hubbard here in four rounds. He had won only seven of his previous 26 fights by kayo.

In Vejar he is meeting a rugged, aggressive battler who has had 110 fights in his 10-year career. His record shows 89 victories, 41 by knockouts, 16 lost decisions and 2 draws. He has been stopped three times. In his last start he lost to Vince Martinez by decision.

Despite his weight advantage, Vejar will be the underdog.

The bout will be Rodriguez' fourth straight TV appearance. In addition to Hubbard, he defeated Sugar Hart and Izaac Logart before the cameras.

Maphis' Record 31.4 Tops PVC Averages 3d Season

Romney Star Posted .750 At Foul Line

Bill's 534 Points New High; 4-Year Total Hits 1,839

Bill Maphis wound up his four-year career in the Potomac Valley Conference by posting an all-time record of 534 points, a new average of 31.4 and the season's best foul shooting mark of .750.

His 534 points in 17 games bettered his previous record of 509 in 17 games a year ago when his 29.9 average also was a new high for the cage circuit.

The scoring ace of Romney High's undefeated PVC quint (17-0) collected 31 or more points in nine of the 17 games. His season high was 41 and he never went below 25.

Tops Average 3rd Year

This was the third straight year the Pioneers' star had the highest average in the league. He was tops in 1958 with 27.3 after finishing 6th with an 18.9 in his freshman year.

Among the other records he hung up this season were 213 field goals, which bettered his 198 of 1959, and a 4-year total of 1,839 points, a mark for future PVC players to shoot at. Bill's four-year average is 26.7 for 69 games.

Hooped 75% Of Fouls

His foul shooting average in 1960 was .750 for 108 conversions in 144 attempts and that's equivalent to sinking 3 out of every 4 shots at the 15-foot line.

Bill accounted for 36 per cent of the 1,474 points scored by Romney in the 19-school league this year.

Here's Maphis' complete PVC record:

Year	G.	FG.	F.	Total
1960	17	213	108	534
1959	17	198	113	509
1958	16	169	99	437
1957	19	148	63	359

Edmonson's 25.7 Second

Kevin Edmonson, of Paw Paw, copped second place in the PVC averages this year with a 25.7 mark for 360 points in 14 games. He wound up a 4-year career with 1,002 points in 53 league games for 18.9.

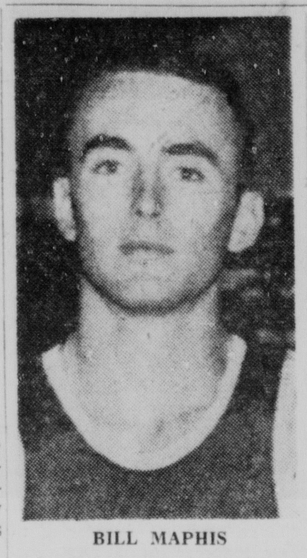

Gary Keedy of Keyser was third with 23.6 on 378 tallies in 16 contests. He has scored 745 points in 44 PVC games over three seasons for an average of 16.9.

Keedy was the runner-up to Maphis in foul shooting with an average of .739 for 88 out of 119. Edmonson finished in 3rd place with 60-out-of-82 for .732.

Other players with notable foul shooting records were Virgil Heishman, of Wardensville, with .829 for 34-41; Tommy Jividen, West Virginia School for the Deaf, with .707 for 53-75 and Dave Burdock, Elk Garden, with .706 for 36-51.

Bennett's 53 Is High

Richard Bennett of Franklin scored 53 points (21 goals and 11-13 fouls) for the season's top single game performance. Keedy and Edmonson each hit for 44. The all-time high of 62 was established by Carl Hartman of Ridgeley High in 1951.

Hockey Owner Fined $2,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eddie Shore, owner of the Springfield Indians, Tuesday drew the largest fine in American Hockey League history—$2,000.

It was believed the fine also was larger than any ever levied in the National League, the senior professional hockey circuit.

Pony League May Increase To 8 Teams

2 New Clubs Join; Sloan Re-Elected

The Bi-State Pony Baseball League may operate with eight instead of six clubs during the 1960 season.

At a meeting held Sunday in Frostburg, representatives of six teams were present and the league was advised that Mt. Savage and LaVale will retain their franchise although they were absent from the session.

Four of the holdover teams represented were: Cresaptown, Dale Broadwater; Lonaconing, Melvin Sloan; Frostburg Little Moes, Robert Goldsworthy, and Ellerslie, Don Emerick. The new clubs admitted were Midlothian (Charles Ware) and Corriganville (Albert "Nip" Rice).

Barton had indicated it was interested in entering a team in the circuit for boys aged 13 to 15 but was not represented at Sunday's session.

The deadline for applications from teams seeking berths in the league is Sunday, March 27 when the league holds its next meeting at 2 p. m. in Frostburg City hall. Any other teams interested in joining the league are requested to contact Secretary Bob Goldsworthy at OV 9-8964 before the next meeting date.

Melvin Sloan was re-elected president of the league which is preparing for its seventh season. Dale Broadwater of Cresaptown was named vice president; Harry Eisel, treasurer, and Robert Goldsworthy will serve as secretary for the third season.

Northwestern Votes Against Renewal Of Rose Bowl Contract

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern University Tuesday voted against Big Ten renewal of the Rose Bowl contract, virtually killing any chance of a conference pact with the new Athletic Assn. of Western Universities.

Now five Big Ten schools will cast formal votes against the bowl contract when the conference opens a business meeting in Columbus, Ohio, Thursday. A majority is needed for approval.

Pearson Signs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Albie Pearson, the little outfielder with the big effort, signed his 1960 contract with the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday. He agreed for about $11,000.

Maphis' Record 31.4 Tops PVC Averages 3d Season

Romney Star Posted .750 At Foul Line

Bill Maphis wound up his four-year career in the Potomac Valley Conference by posting an all-time record of 534 points, a new average of 31.4 and the season's best foul shooting mark of .750.

His 534 points in 17 games bettered his previous record of 509 in 17 games a year ago when his 29.9 average also was a new high for the cage circuit.

The scoring ace of Romney High's undefeated PVC quint (17-0) collected 31 or more points in nine of the 17 games. His season high was 41 and he never went below 25.

Tops Average 3rd Year

This was the third straight year the Pioneers' star had the highest average in the league. He was tops in 1958 with 27.3 after finishing 6th with an 18.9 in his freshman year.

Among the other records he hung up this season were 213 field goals, which bettered his 198 of 1959, and a 4-year total of 1,839 points, a mark for future PVC players to shoot at. Bill's four-year average is 26.7 for 69 games.

Hooped 75% Of Fouls

His foul shooting average in 1960 was .750 for 108 conversions in 144 attempts and that's equivalent to sinking 3 out of every 4 shots at the 15-foot line.

Bill accounted for 36 per cent of the 1,474 points scored by Romney in the 19-school league this year.

Here's Maphis' complete PVC record:

Year	G.	FG.	F.	Total
1960	17	213	108	534
1959	17	198	113	509
1958	16	169	99	437
1957	19	148	63	359
Totals	69	728	383	1,839

Edmonson's 25.7 Second

Kevin Edmonson, of Paw Paw, copped second place in the PVC averages this year with a 25.7 mark for 360 points in 14 games. He wound up a 4-year career with 1,002 points in 53 league games for 18.9.

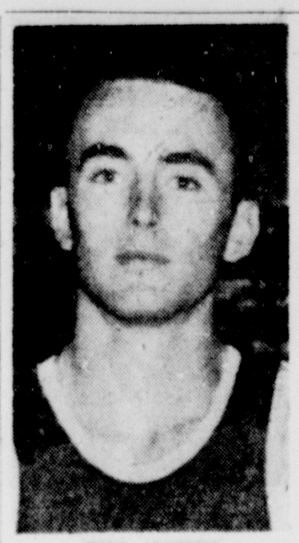

Gary Keedy of Keyser was third with 23.6 on 378 tallies in 16 contests. He has scored 745 points in 44 PVC games over three seasons for an average of 16.9.

Keedy was the runner-up to Maphis in foul shooting with an average of .739 for 88 out of 119. Edmonson finished in 3rd place with 60-out-of-82 for .732.

Other players with notable foul shooting records were Virgil Heishman, of Wardensville, with .829 for 34-41; Tommy Jividen, West Virginia School for the Deaf, with .707 for 53-75 and Dave Burdock, Elk Garden, with .706 for 36-51.

Bennett's 53 Is High

Richard Bennett of Franklin scored 53 points (21 goals and 11-13 fouls) for the season's top single game performance. Keedy and Edmonson each hit for 44. The all-time high of 62 was established by Carl Hartman of Ridgeley High in 1951.

Hockey Owner Fined $2,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eddie Shore, owner of the Springfield Indians, Tuesday drew the largest fine in American Hockey League history—$2,000.

It was believed the fine also was larger than any ever levied in the National League, the senior professional hockey circuit.

Pony League May Increase To 8 Teams

2 New Clubs Join; Sloan Re-Elected

The Bi-State Pony Baseball League may operate with eight instead of six clubs during the 1960 season.

At a meeting held Sunday in Frostburg, representatives of six teams were present and the league was advised that Mt. Savage and LaVale will retain their franchise although they were absent from the session.

Four of the holdover teams represented were: Cresaptown, Dale Broadwater; Lonaconing, Melvin Sloan; Frostburg Little Moes, Robert Goldsworthy, and Ellerslie, Don Emerick. The new clubs admitted were Midlothian (Charles Ware) and Corriganville (Albert "Nip" Rice).

Barton had indicated it was interested in entering a team in the circuit for boys aged 13 to 15 but was not represented at Sunday's session.

The deadline for applications from teams seeking berths in the league is Sunday, March 27 when the league holds its next meeting at 2 p. m. in Frostburg City hall. Any other teams interested in joining the league are requested to contact Secretary Bob Goldsworthy at OV 9-8964 before the next meeting date.

Melvin Sloan was re-elected president of the league which is preparing for its seventh season. Dale Broadwater of Cresaptown was named vice president; Harry Eisel, treasurer, and Robert Goldsworthy will serve as secretary for the third season.

Northwestern Votes Against Renewal Of Rose Bowl Contract

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern University Tuesday voted against Big Ten renewal of the Rose Bowl contract, virtually killing any chance of a conference pact with the new Athletic Assn. of Western Universities.

Now five Big Ten schools will cast formal votes against the bowl contract when the conference opens a business meeting in Columbus, Ohio, Thursday. A majority is needed for approval.

Schools still in favor of the Pasadena football classic include Indiana, Michigan, Michigan State, Iowa and Purdue.

Pearson Signs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Albie Pearson, the little outfielder with the big effort, signed his 1960 contract with the Baltimore Orioles Tuesday. He agreed for about $11,000.

Garrett County Gets Highest Forestry Fund

OAKLAND—Garrett County has received $5,450.71 as its 15 per cent share of state income from sales and use fees from state forests and parks during the July-December half-year, director Joseph F. Kaylor of the Department of Forests and Parks has announced. It was the most received by any county.

A total of nearly $15,000 is currently being distributed to 15 Maryland counties as their share in the 15 per cent return.

Allegany County will receive $110.21; Frederick County is to ge $659.45, and Washington County will be given $350.52.

The 15 per cent return is required by state law and represents a pro rata portion of the income derived from forestry operations and recreation use fees on improved and partially improved forest and park lands within each county.

Principal income sources are sales of timber and other forest products, and approximately one-third of the income fees from camping, picnicking, swimming, boating and hunting campsites accounting for about two-thirds.

Sources in Garrett are Savage River, Swallow Falls, Potomac State Forests and Deep Creek State Park. Allegany County sites are Green Ridge State Forest and Dan's Mountain State Park.

WVU To Host Summer Meet

MORGANTOWN—County school superintendents will be invited to recommend 30 students to participate in a National Defense Counseling and Guidance Institute next summer at West Virginia University, President Elvis J Stahr Jr. announced.

To be held under provisions of the National Defense Education Act, the institute is scheduled for July 18-August 26. It is one of 84 programs which will serve potential or present high school counselors in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

Dr. Walter H. Jarecke, university professor of education and director of guidance, will direct the program here. Dr. Jarecke said the institute will serve beginning guidance counselors who are studying toward master's degrees in that field. Participants will receive training which will prepare them for positions as guidance directors on high school and county levels.

The six-week program will consist of an overall view of guidance work, together with a basic course in test administration and interpretation. These two courses will furnish students with enough material to begin their careers in guidance counseling, Dr. Jarecke said.

University educators and state education officials will present lectures as a part of the program. Public school personnel attending will receive stipends of $75 a week, plus $15 a week for each dependent.

Spring Forest Fire Season In West Va. Begins

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The 90-day statutory spring forest fire season began in West Virginia Tuesday. Restrictions on outdoor burning of trash and brush are automatically in effect during the period.

Outside burning is prohibited from 5 a.m. to 5 p.m. without special or industrial permits. Fires started after 5 p.m. must be attended and must be put out before 5 a.m.

Forestry officials are hopeful that the fire hazard will be low because of moisture from snow that has blanketed most of the state in recent weeks.

A total of 1,530 fires burned 58,800 acres in the 90-day period last year and made it the state's worst spring fire season since 1942. Thirty per cent of the blazes were blamed on trash or brush fires which got out of control.

Fels Planetarium Director To Visit State College

DR. I. M. LEVITT

FROSTBURG—Dr. I. M. Levitt, widely-known scientist - astronomer and director of the famous Fels Planetarium in Philadelphia, will appear at Frostburg State Teachers College Saturday at 8:15 p. m.

For many years Dr. Levitt has been known, both in this country and abroad, not only as an astronomer and inventor, but also as a scientist with the rare ability to translate into lay terms the most complex scientific subjects. He has gained a large public audience by explaining the mysteries of the universe and newly-made discoveries about the world we live in through his newspaper columns, lectures, and radio and television appearances.

A native Philadelphian, Dr. Levitt was graduated from Drexel Institute of Technology and earned his PHD in astronomy from the University of Pennsylvania. In 1933 he joined the staff of the Franklin Institute as an astronomical assistant and was appointed assistant director of the Fels Planetarium in 1939.

During the war he also served on the staff of the Franklin Institute Laboratories for research and development.

WVU School Of Music, Art To Sponsor April Festival

MORGANTOWN—West Virginia University will spotlight music, drama and art Tuesday through April 3 with its first annual Festival of the Fine and Lively Arts.

A combined effort by the School of Music, departments of art and speech, and people of Morgantown, the program will be coordinated by Dean Richard E. Duncan of the School of Music.

"In this period of scientific revolution, such festivals seem particularly important. For in a gadget infested, chrome-plated, ballistically-haunted world, these arts have the energy of a disintegrating atom . . . to thrust man into a spiritual orbit," Dean Duncan said.

All events will be free to the public except the University Players' production of "South Pacific" and a series of eight foreign films, each of which will carry a nominal admission charge, the dean said.

Highlights of the festival include: Saturday, first annual West Virginia High School Ensemble Festival; March 9-15, University Players' production of "South Pacific;" March 13, recital, American Arts Trio of West Virginia University; March 24-26, high school drama festival and forensic tournament; April 3, concert by the University Concert Band and Wind Symphony.

Dr. Thomas Monroe, head of the graduate program at Western Reserve University, and Robert LeRoy, University graduate and former student at the Philadelphia Art Academy, will be featured lecturers.

Mt. Savage Methodists Honor Miss Lola Lewis

MT. SAVAGE — Miss Lola E. Lewis, organist and assistant organist at Mt. Savage Methodist Church for 55 years, was honored with a program Sunday night in the church. She retired in January due to ill health.

The program opened with a processional hymn chosen by Miss Lewis, "Love Divine," followed by the reading of Psalm 150 and prayer by Rev. William C. Harpold, pastor.

Miss Janet Pressman, Miss Dawna Jean Huff and Mrs. Faye LeMasters, of the Senior Choir, sang "All Shall Be Well With Thee." The Junior Choir, under the direction of the pastor, offered "Christ Is King." After Mrs. Lillyan Merchant presented "Just For Today," the Senior Choir with Mrs. Margaret Haus directing sang "All the Way."

After recounting many of the interesting, amusing and serious events during her years as organist, Rev. Harpold read a telegram from John Charles Thomas, congratulating Miss Lewis on her long service.

Mrs. Mary Best and Miss Myrtle Lewis sang "Tis Done for Thee" and then the combined Junior Choir and Senior Choir, numbering almost 60 voices, sang, "The Friendship of Jesus."

Shortly after the departure of Rev. and Mrs. Thomas in 1905, Dora Thomas Circle honoring Mrs. Thomas was formed. In the name of the circle, Mrs. Mary Best presented a merchandise gift certificate for $10. The altar had been decorated with a large vase of red carnations which Mrs. Rose Dennisear presented for the Woman's Society of Christian Service in honor of Miss Lewis.

Mrs. Thelma Hess, representing the Young Adult Fellowship, gave Miss Lewis a matching pin and earring set. Rev. Harpold next presented a personal Methodist hymnal bearing Miss Lewis' name and the dates of her service stamped in gold. Lawrence T. Stowell, president of the choir, gave her a corsage of pink roses and dollar bills.

As the choirs and congregation sang Miss Lewis' choice for the recessional hymn, "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee," the Senior Choir filed past Miss Lewis and each member presented her with a card of appreciation and a handkerchief.

Miss Rebecca House, who has been appointed to replace Miss Lewis, was assisted at the organ by Mrs. Margaret Haus and Miss Dawna Jean Huff.

Garrett County Gets Highest Forestry Fund

OAKLAND—Garrett County has received $5,450.71 as its 15 per cent share of state income from sales and use fees from state forests and parks during the July-December half-year, director Joseph F. Kaylor of the Department of Forests and Parks has announced. It was the most received by any county.

A total of nearly $15,000 is currently being distributed to 15 Maryland counties as their share in the 15 per cent return.

Allegany County will receive $110.21; Frederick County is to ge $659.45, and Washington County will be given $350.52.

The 15 per cent return is required by state law and represents a pro rata portion of the income derived from forestry operations and recreation use fees on improved and partially improved forest and park lands within each county.

Principal income sources are sales of timber and other forest products, and approximately one-third of the income fees from camping, picnicking, swimming, boating and hunting campsites accounting for about two-thirds.

Sources in Garrett are Savage River, Swallow Falls, Potomac State Forests and Deep Creek State Park. Allegany County sites are Green Ridge State Forest and Dan's Mountain State Park.

WVU To Host Summer Meet

MORGANTOWN—County school superintendents will be invited to recommend 30 students to participate in a National Defense Counseling and Guidance Institute next summer at West Virginia University, President Elvis J Stahr Jr. announced.

To be held under provisions of the National Defense Education Act, the institute is scheduled for July 18-August 26. It is one of 84 programs which will serve potential or present high school counselors in all 50 states, Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia.

Dr. Walter H. Jarecke, university professor of education and director of guidance, will direct the program here. Dr. Jarecke said the institute will serve beginning guidance counselors who are studying toward master's degrees in that field. Participants will receive training which will prepare them for positions as guidance directors on high school and county levels.

The six-week program will consist of an overall view of guidance work, together with a basic course in test administration and interpretation. These two courses will furnish students with enough material to begin their careers in guidance counseling, Dr. Jarecke said.

University educators and state education officials will present lectures as a part of the program. Public school personnel attending will receive stipends of $75 a week, plus $15 a week for each dependent.

Spring Forest Fire Season In West Va. Begins

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—The 90-day statutory spring forest fire season began in West Virginia Tuesday. Restrictions on outdoor burning of trash and brush are automatically in effect during the period.

Outside burning is prohibited from 5 a.m. to 5 p.m. without special or industrial permits. Fires started after 5 p.m. must be attended and must be put out before 5 a.m.

Forestry officials are hopeful that the fire hazard will be low because of moisture from snow that has blanketed most of the state in recent weeks.

A total of 1,530 fires burned 58,800 acres in the 90-day period last year and made it the state's worst spring fire season since 1942. Thirty per cent of the blazes were blamed on trash or brush fires which got out of control.

WVU School Gets Loan Fund

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.—Establishment of a loan fund by the Fayette County Medical Society to aid students in the West Virginia University School of Medicine was announced today by President Elvis J. Stahr Jr. The fund was established with an initial gift of $2,390.86 by the society to the West Virginia University Foundation, Inc.

The money, raised by the society from the proceeds of a series of polio clinics held throughout Fayette County during the past few months, will be used to help finance the education of sophomore, junior and senior students in the School of Medicine.

Medical Dean E. J. VanLiere said first preference for loans will be given students from Fayette County. All recipients must be residents of West Virginia, have good scholastic records, and be able to show financial need.

In making the announcement, President Stahr praised the Fayette County Medical Society for setting up the fund and pointed out that additional loan and scholarship funds are needed in all branches of the University.

Fels Planetarium Director To Visit State College

DR. I. M. LEVITT

FROSTBURG—Dr. I. M. Levitt, widely-known scientist - astronomer and director of the famous Fels Planetarium in Philadelphia, will appear at Frostburg State Teachers College Saturday at 8:15 p. m.

For many years Dr. Levitt has been known, both in this country and abroad, not only as an astronomer and inventor, but also as a scientist with the rare ability to translate into lay terms the most complex scientific subjects. He has gained a large public audience by explaining the mysteries of the universe and newly-made discoveries about the world we live in through his newspaper columns, lectures, and radio and television appearances.

A native Philadelphian, Dr. Levitt was graduated from Drexel Institute of Technology and earned his PHD in astronomy from the University of Pennsylvania. In 1933 he joined the staff of the Franklin Institute as an astronomical assistant and was appointed assistant director of the Fels Planetarium in 1939.

During the war he also served on the staff of the Franklin Institute Laboratories for research and development.

WVU School Of Music, Art To Sponsor April Festival

MORGANTOWN—West Virginia University will spotlight music, drama and art Tuesday through April 3 with its first annual Festival of the Fine and Lively Arts.

The festival will feature 34 days of concerts, recitals, opera, theater, art films, lectures, gallery talks and exhibitions.

A combined effort by the School of Music, departments of art and speech, and people of Morgantown, the program will be coordinated by Dean Richard E. Duncan of the School of Music.

"In this period of scientific revolution, such festivals seem particularly important. For in a gadget infested, chrome-plated, ballistically-haunted world, these arts have the energy of a disintegrating atom . . . to thrust man into a spiritual orbit," Dean Duncan said.

All events will be free to the public except the University Players' production of "South Pacific" and a series of eight foreign films, each of which will carry a nominal admission charge, the dean said.

Highlights of the festival include: Saturday, first annual West Virginia High School Ensemble Festival; March 9-15, University Players' production of "South Pacific;" March 13, recital, American Arts Trio of West Virginia University; March 24-26, high school drama festival and forensic tournament; April 3, concert by the University Concert Band and Wind Symphony.

Dr. Thomas Monroe, head of the graduate program at Western Reserve University, and Robert LeRoy, University graduate and former student at the Philadelphia Art Academy, will be featured lecturers.

Mt. Savage Methodists Honor Miss Lola Lewis

MT. SAVAGE — Miss Lola E. Lewis, organist and assistant organist at Mt. Savage Methodist Church for 55 years, was honored with a program Sunday night in the church. She retired in January due to ill health.

The program opened with a processional hymn chosen by Miss Lewis, "Love Divine," followed by the reading of Psalm 150 and prayer by Rev. William C. Harpold, pastor.

Miss Janet Pressman, Miss Dawna Jean Huff and Mrs. Faye LeMasters, of the Senior Choir, sang "All Shall Be Well With Thee." The Junior Choir, under the direction of the pastor, offered "Christ Is King." After Mrs. Lillyan Merchant presented "Just For Today," the Senior Choir with Mrs. Margaret Haus directing sang "All the Way."

Rev. Harpold gave a sketch of the musical career of Miss Lewis, starting with her first public playing for Sunday School and the Junior Epworth League about 1900. She became assistant organist in 1904 during the ministry of Rev. Milson Thomas, father of the noted baritone, John Charles Thomas, who sang alto in the choir at that time.

After recounting many of the interesting, amusing and serious events during her years as organist, Rev. Harpold read a telegram from John Charles Thomas, congratulating Miss Lewis on her long service.

Mrs. Mary Best and Miss Myrtle Lewis sang "Tis Done for Thee" and then the combined Junior Choir and Senior Choir, numbering almost 60 voices, sang, "The Friendship of Jesus."

Following the musical program, Rev. Harpold presented a wall plaque engraved with words of appreciation for Miss Lewis' service. Wilbert Paul, on behalf of the official board, presented a certificate for a wrist watch.

Shortly after the departure of Rev. and Mrs. Thomas in 1905, Dora Thomas Circle honoring Mrs. Thomas was formed. In the name of the circle, Mrs. Mary Best presented a merchandise gift certificate for $10. The altar had been decorated with a large vase of red carnations which Mrs. Rose Dennisear presented for the Woman's Society of Christian Service in honor of Miss Lewis.

Mrs. Thelma Hess, representing the Young Adult Fellowship, gave Miss Lewis a matching pin and earring set. Rev. Harpold next presented a personal Methodist hymnal bearing Miss Lewis' name and the dates of her service stamped in gold. Lawrence T. Stowell, president of the choir, gave her a corsage of pink roses and dollar bills.

As the choirs and congregation sang Miss Lewis' choice for the recessional hymn, "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee," the Senior Choir filed past Miss Lewis and each member presented her with a card of appreciation and a handkerchief.

Miss Rebecca House, who has been appointed to replace Miss Lewis, was assisted at the organ by Mrs. Margaret Haus and Miss Dawna Jean Huff.

Metals, Steels, Chemicals Pace Market Downturn

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market closed lower Tuesday with easier trends in metal, steel and chemical shares pacing the downturn.

The list showed signs of bouncing back after the third hour, as buying enabled some stocks to rise above their lows and others to extend their gains.

But the selling tempo increased thereafter with pressure concentrated on those issues used to compile the averages.

The industrial stock average closed at 626.87 off 3.25 chiefly because of declines of 4 points in Alcoa, more than 2 in General Foods and a point or more in Anaconda, Texaco, Eastman Kodak, DuPont. The average has dropped a total of 5.13 points below Friday's close.

There was nothing in the news to stimulate investor sentiment, and brokers look for continued irregularity over the near-term as the list plots its upward course.

Rails finished with a bigger percentage decline than the industrials. Technically, some market analysts say, the most significant feature of recent sessions has been the failure of the railroad group to confirm the upward move of the industrials.

Electronics were among the better perfomers, as on Monday. Gains here included a rise of more than 6 in Collins Radio, 3 in International Business Machines and more than a point each in Beckman, Litton and Raytheon. The latter benefited from a big Army contract, while the overall section was helped by an advisory service recommendation for the industry as a whole.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Weather Test

BONN (UPI)—Forty West German army volunteers found in a recent survival test that a week in a U. S.-designed fallout shelter did not materially impair their health or agility, is was announced Tuesday.

The soldiers, who lived on canned or bottled water and similarly-protected food, lost an average of five pounds each but suffered no other untoward effects. All scored high in a firing test on a rifle range immediately after leaving the shelter.

Each man was rationed to a half-gallon of water a day. Fresh water in metal containers proved preferable to bottled mineral water, both as a thirst-quencher and as a mixer for powdered beverages.

Ask Death Penalty

MADRID (UPI)—The Spanish government brought two accused "terrorists" to trial Tuesday on charges of helping carry out a wave of bombings here last month. It called on the military court to sentence them to death by garroting.

The government, moving with rare speed, began trying bomb plotters Antonio Abad Donoso and Justiniano Alvarez Montero less than two weeks after they were arrested.

They were charged with "plotting against the internal security of the state," under a seldom-used special law dealing with "banditry and terrorism."

Chicago Grains

At the final bell, wheat was off ¾ to up ⅛; corn up ⅛ to ¾; oats up ¼ to ⅜; rye off ⅛ to ⅞; and soybeans up ¼ to ¾.

Trade in wheat consisted mainly of spreading after an early rally died down. Nearby contracts closed steady, but the distant months were weak. Buying came early in the session on repors of substantial export sales and talk that more business was pending with Poland and Turkey.

Corn was irregular higher in a quiet trade. Commercial houses were buyers. Local traders who had bought early sold out later in the ay. Export subsidies were granted on 225,000 bushels of oats, but rejected on 3,155,000 bushels of corn.

Outside markets were mixed.

Metals, Steels, Chemicals Pace Market Downturn

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market closed lower Tuesday with easier trends in metal, steel and chemical shares pacing the downturn.

The list showed signs of bouncing back after the third hour, as buying enabled some stocks to rise above their lows and others to extend their gains.

But the selling tempo increased thereafter with pressure concentrated on those issues used to compile the averages.

The industrial stock average closed at 626.87 off 3.25 chiefly because of declines of 4 points in Alcoa, more than 2 in General Foods and a point or more in Anaconda, Texaco, Eastman Kodak and DuPont. The average has dropped a total of 5.13 points below Friday's close.

There was nothing in the news to stimulate investor sentiment, and brokers look for continued irregularity over the near-term as the list plots its upward course.

Rails finished with a bigger percentage decline than the industrials. Technically, some market analysts say, the most significant feature of recent sessions has been the failure of the railroad group to confirm the upward move of the industrials.

Electronics were among the better perfomers, as on Monday. Gains here included a rise of more than 6 in Collins Radio, 3 in International Business Machines and more than a point each in Beckman, Litton and Raytheon. The latter benefited from a big Army contract, while the overall section was helped by an advisory service recommendation for the industry as a whole.

Weather Test

BONN (UPI)—Forty West German army volunteers found in a recent survival test that a week in a U. S.-designed fallout shelter did not materially impair their health or agility, is was announced Tuesday.

The soldiers, who lived on canned or bottled water and similarly-protected food, lost an average of five pounds each but suffered no other untoward effects. All scored high in a firing test on a rifle range immediately after leaving the shelter.

Each man was rationed to a half-gallon of water a day. Fresh water in metal containers proved preferable to bottled mineral water, both as a thirst-quencher and as a mixer for powdered beverages.

Ask Death Penalty

MADRID (UPI)—The Spanish government brought two accused "terrorists" to trial Tuesday on charges of helping carry out a wave of bombings here last month. It called on the military court to sentence them to death by garroting.

The government, moving with rare speed, began trying bomb plotters Antonio Abad Donoso and Justiniano Alvarez Montero less than two weeks after they were arrested.

They were charged with "plotting against the internal security of the state," under a seldom-used special law dealing with "banditry and terrorism."

Chicago Grains

At the final bell, wheat was off ¾ to up ⅛; corn up ⅛ to ⅜; oats up ¼ to ⅜; rye off ⅛ to ⅛; and soybeans up ¼ to ¾.

Trade in wheat consisted mainly of spreading after an early rally died down. Nearby contracts closed steady, but the distant months were weak. Buying came early in the session on repors of substantial export sales and talk that more business was pending with Poland and Turkey.

Corn was irregular higher in a quiet trade. Commercial houses were buyers. Local traders who had bought early sold out later in the ay. Export subsidies were granted on 225,000 bushels of oats, but rejected on 3,155,000 bushels of corn.

Oats were firm. The September contract attracted an increased investment interest.

Rye was irregularly lower in a mixed trade.

Soybeans declined after the start, but prices were firm at the session's close. A local trader led the selling, and commission houses were early buyers.

Exporters said Israel bought 750,000 bushels of hard wheat and France took 1,000 tons of white corn.

Outside markets were mixed.

College Hopes To Speed Work On New Dorm

Will Be Duplicate Of Allen Hall

Plans to expedite the construction of a new residence hall at Frostburg State Teachers College by advertising for bids during the month of June were discussed at meetings at the college Monday and yesterday at which various plans for renovation of college property during the summer months were discussed.

James L. Reid, state supervisor of school plant planning for the State Department of Education, participated in the discussions for two days with R. Bowen Hardesty, college president.

Construction of the new residence hall, which can be accomplished through a $425,000 item included in Governor J. Millard Tawes' supplemental budget, will be expedited by making the new building a duplicate of the existing Allen Hall. That will remove the need for preparation of plans and specifications.

By accepting bids in June, the State Department of Public Improvement will be able to authorize the start of work shortly after Governor Tawes' new budget becomes effective July 1. Even with this fast start, construction is not expected to be complete until September 1, 1961.

Thanks Tawes, Assembly

"The faculty, administration, students and people of Western Maryland deeply appreciate the action of Governor Tawes in placing the $425,000 in his supplemental budget and the action of the General Assembly in accepting this addition to the budget, Mr. Hardesty stressed.

Mr. Hardesty emphasized that he wished to express appreciation to Governor Tawes, Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan, former Judge William C. Walsh, Delegates Lester B. Reed and Leslie Savage, both members of the House ways and means committee; Senator Charles M. See, member of the Senate finance committee, the full Delegation from both Allegany and Garrett counties, civic organizations and many friends for their support in getting this new residence hall.

The new residence hall will be built on Park Avenue, where 13 residences have been purchased by the State of Maryland.

Other Projects

One of the summer renovation projects involves Allegany Hall, formerly the campus school but now used for college classrooms. This job will include rearrangement of classrooms and offices, repair of window sashes, reconditioning of floors. This project, which will have to be done by a contractor, will provide six additional classrooms.

The laboratory school for children from kindergarten through sixth grade has been conducted in the new Thomas G. Pullen School since last September.

Other work will be done in Frost Hall, where the first floor facilities now include the dining hall and kitchen. The dining hall will be partitioned into two sections. One half will be for quiet study and overflow from the nearby library, which is overcrowded. The other half will be used for a living room for the 136 girls who are housed on the second and third floor dormitory spaces. A year hence the current kitchen will be renovated into an infirmary.

Dining Hall To Move

Beginning in September, the dining hall will function in the new William A. Gunter Hall now nearing completion. It will accommodate 350 students for meals. The present Varsity Shop, a snack bar and book shop, also will be moved to Gunter Hall. Then the old Varsity Shop will be converted into a day room for 500 commuting students. They now have only a very small room.

Mr. Hardesty said he and Mr. Reid also discussed utilization of four basement rooms under Old Main and Allegany Hall. They will be arranged for use by maintenance men and staff.

Even with these improvements, the college still will have to find rooms in Frostburg next year for about 150 students. The anticipated enrollment September 1 is 1,000 compared with 844 last September and 785 for the current semester.

Valentine was charged with the burglary of $205 from McCoole Elementary School last October 28. He was arrested last month in Ohio, and was returned here on a warrant obtained by Sgt William F. Baker and Tfc. Milton G. Hart.

Hazelwood Bids Low On Army Reserve Center

Officials of the Washington District, Corps of Engineers, told The Associated Press that the Hazelwood basic bid was $267,300.

Other bids, both entered by Cumberland firms, included the George Construction Company, $269,307, and O. R. Sensabaugh, $309,450.

There may be a hitch, however, in awarding the contract.

An official of the Corps of Engineers said there may not be sufficient funds available to meet the low bid. If enough money is not available, he said, the Army Engineers may throw out all three bids.

The spokesman for the Army Engineers said there was no indication when a decision will be reached.

The main structure will be 156 by 46 feet, with an attached 70 by 50-foot assembly wing and a 47 by 50-foot maintenance shop.

Improvements to the site were also included in the contract.

The indictments for breaking and entering were brought against Samuel A. Hott, 44; his wife, Virginia Lee Hott, 42; their son, George Hott, 19; and Donald L. Poland, 23, a son of Mrs. Hott. Charges of contributing to the delinquency of minor children also were returned against the four, and two younger children of the Hotts were charged with being juvenile delinquents.

Hampshire County authorities said a series of breaking and enterings extended over the past two years in the South Branch area were cleared up by the arrest of the family, which lives about three miles south of Romney. Police said the two younger Hott children participated in the thefts with their parents.

Elmer Lee Mayhew, Romney, was indicted for feloniously stabbing James D. Likens, 25, also of Romney, during a fight on December 12 near the Fountain Inn, three miles west of Romney on U. S. Route 50. The first workshop session will be conducted from 7:30 until 9:30 p. m. Thursday at Northeast Elementary School in Bowman's Addition. The second session will be on March 10 from 7:30 until 9:30 p. m.

Papier mache, with masks, figures and ornaments, will be led by Thomas L. Murphy, Fort Hill High School art teacher. There also will be two groups on drawing and painting with a variety of techniques and materials. Mrs. Cecile H. Mady 'Speaks' On Senate Floor, Gets Nowhere

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A brisk debate in the Maryland Senate suddenly went to the dogs Tuesday, thanks to Mady.

As See and a colleague vigorously debated a bill on state employes' salaries, Mady lounged beside her master's desk and impatiently thumped her tail. The debate grew hotter.

"I move that this bill be recommitted to the Finance Committee," shouted See's adversary, Sen. John - Clarence North (D-Talbot).

"Warf! Warf!" protested Mady.

"Let's hope she can't vote," retorted North.

She couldn't, and the bill was recommitted. As soon as the laughter died down, Mady resumed her tail thumping.

LaVale A&P Market Will Open March 9

A new Early American style A&P Super Market will be opened in LaVale March 9 at 10 a.m.

The new store is located on Route 40 and is surrounded by ample parking space. It gives the area four A&P outlets with stores on Wineow Street and Greene Street in Cumberland and one at Frostburg.

Described as a combination of Old Williamsburg charm and modern convenience, the supermarket has pitched roof, topped by an ornamental railing and a snow-white cupola with a wrought iron weathervane. Scroll lettering across the face of the store identifies it as an A&P establishment.

Constitutional Convention Bill Passes House

Opponents Hope For Delay In Senate

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A proposal for a constitutional convention, that small counties fear will lead to a decrease in their representation in the Maryland Legislature, finally passed the House of Delegates Tuesday.

The favorable vote of 67-55, five more than needed, came after another delaying motion was beaten 69-51. Opponents had stalled off a decision since last Thursday and now hope there will not be time for one in the Senate before adjournment scheduled Wednesday night.

Clearance of the controversial convention issue along with the annual capital improvements bill and state property tax just about wound up important business remaining in the House.

The state is authorized to borrow 20 million dollars for capital improvements. The property tax to pay for such construction will be 13¼ cents per 100 on property assessments.

The House gave a whopping 74-29 defeat to a bill that would have legally sanctioned all charges and interest on loans insured by the FHA or VA. Lenders have expressed fear about sending money into Maryland because some of the charges raise the interest over the state's legal maximum of 6 per cent.

The blow killing the bill was delivered when Speaker Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges) admitted under questioning by Del. Cannon (D-Wicomico) that the final version of the bill was printed before the House even voted on amendments Monday night.

The bill was sent to Baltimore for printing and returned to Annapolis in a matter of four hours Monday. Normally, it takes 24 hours.

Among bills enacted by the Senate in its afternoon session was a measure to permit the state superintendent of schools to enter in reciprocity agreements with officials of other states on certifying the qualifications of teachers.

The measure is designed to grant certain incoming teachers full qualification and pay, despite minor differences in the training required by Maryland and their former states.

Also enacted was a measure to authorize local subdivisions and counties to appropriate money for local industrial development corporations to attract new or strengthen existing industry or businesses essential to the economy of an area.

The Senate killed a bill to provide 10 per cent increases for about 1,000 hourly paid employes, most of them members of the State Roads Commission highway crews. Opponents said such employes are included in the recently enacted bill to give raises to veteran state employes.

Passed and sent to the House were bills to prohibit the advertising of slot machines and other games of chance and to increase the license fees of plumbers from $3 to $15 a year or from $1 to $25 for such license renewals.

Earlier Gov. Tawes signed into law the first legislation from the 1960 session. Chief among the 10 bills and two joint resolutions was an emergency act permitting the State Roads Commission to start immediately a step-up of major highway construction.

Accelerated projects to be advertised first include modernization of 3.8 miles of U. S. 40 from Martin's Mountain toward Cumberland.

Second Street Traffic Study Begins Today

Hill Top Drive Change Possible

Plans for beginning a traffic study of West Second Street were announced yesterday by Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming, who added the Police Department contemplates designating Hill Top Drive for one-way traffic.

The study will be made on West Second Street, from Thomas Street to Virginia Avenue, and the first traffic count will begin today at Second and Springdale streets. Other counts will be made at Springdale and Cedar streets and Cedar and Thomas streets.

Study Requested

Mr. Fleming said various South Cumberland business men have requested a study of the traffic situation on the stretch, which police reports show is hazardous.

He said there are no plans to change the present two-way traffic pattern on the street. Parking is allowed on both sides of the street.

Mr. Fleming said the department contemplates making Hill Top Drive, from Louisiana Avenue to Oldtown Road, a one-way street going south.

He said the plans call for restricting parking to the right side in accordance with the parking pattern authorized by the State Roads Commission.

May Change Pattern

The commissioner said the West Second Street traffic study is one of many needed. He pointed out, however, that it may be necessary to delay action on a number of suggested changes until it is clear how the area's traffic pattern will be affected by the opening of the first section of the Industrial Boulevard this year.

It was learned yesterday that the Cumberland Contracting Company, which is building the stretch for the SRC, plans to resume work about March 15, weather permitting.

All of the blacktop surface for the project was laid last fall but work on shoulders and guard rails had to be deferred when winter set in.

Miners Hospital Staff Pension Bill Enacted

Voluntary Payments Will Be Possible

The General Assembly yesterday enacted a bill which would allow employes of Miners Hospital, under certain conditions, to remain in the state retirement system after the State of Maryland ceases operation of the Frostburg institution.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, reported that the delegation-sponsored bill was sent to Governor Tawes for signing after the House concurred in a Senate amendment.

The Senate, he said, amended the bill Monday to specify that the state would have no financial obligation in the matter.

Introduced as House Bill 141, the measure would permit persons regularly employed at Miners Hospital to remain in the state retirement system after it is transferred to other ownership—if the required contributions are made by both the employes and the new corporation which takes over.

Del. Driscoll stressed that the contributions would have to be made on a purely voluntary basis, as the state cannot obligate the new operating unit to continue such payments.

May Speed Bridge

Also sent to the Governor was House Bill 40, in which Cumberland area legislators were interested.

The bill repeals an agreement between Maryland and West Virginia to share equally in the cost of bridges across the Potomac River.

The legislation was sought to pave the way for 90-per cent federal participation in a new toll bridge near Williamsport.

Del. Driscoll said the bill may help to get a new bridge built across the Potomac River at Wiley Ford and possibly the Pinto Bridge. West Virginia has said it does not have the money to pay half the cost of the Wiley Ford span.

He said the removal of the 50-50 requirement may make it possible for the Maryland State Roads Commission to negotiate on the cost of interstate spans.

The supplementary budget, he said, includes $425,000 for the errection of a women's dormitory at Frostburg State Teachers College.

Authorizes Grant

The House, Monday night approved after long debate, by a 62-58 vote a grant of $1,250,000 to Johns Hopkins University for a physics building and by the same vote rejected $600,000 for a science building at Mount St. Mary's College.

It sent to the Senate a bill to require registration of all motor boats and those with sails over 15 feet at a fee of $6 for three years.

The state's first regulation of building and loan associations also was approved 80-31 and a tax on closed circuit telecasts of prizefighters unanimously.

Leaders of the House evidently retreated from an attempt to raise the salaries of legislators from $1,800 to $3,600. The bill was withdrawn from final reading and sent back to committee where it probably will remain.

Illegitimacy Bill Killed, 24-5

ANNAPOLIS (AP) —The House Judiciary Committee killed a bill Tuesday that would have penalized unwed mothers of more than two illegitimate children.

The committee gave the bill an unfavorable report 24-5. It was doomed to defeat anyway since Baltimore delegates had decided to exempt the city from the bill which would have made it unconstitutional for this 30-day session.

It would have subjected mothers of three or more illegitimate children to a $1,000 fine, imprisonment up to three years, made the children ineligible for welfare benefits and in the discretion of a judge they could have been placed in foster homes.

As originally drafted the bill would also have submitted such mothers to an operation making them incapable of bearing any more children. This provision was stricken out by the Senate which also toned down some of the other features.

College Hopes To Speed Work On New Dorm

Will Be Duplicate Of Allen Hall

Plans to expedite the construction of a new residence hall at Frostburg State Teachers College by advertising for bids during the month of June were discussed at meetings at the college Monday and yesterday at which various plans for renovation of college property during the summer months were discussed.

James L. Reid, state supervisor of school plant planning for the State Department of Education, participated in the discussions for two days with R. Bowen Hardesty, college president.

Construction of the new residence hall, which can be accomplished through a $425,000 item included in Governor J. Millard Tawes' supplemental budget, will be expedited by making the new building a duplicate of the existing Allen Hall. That will remove the need for preparation of plans and specifications.

By accepting bids in June, the State Department of Public Improvement will be able to authorize the start of work shortly after Governor Tawes' new budget becomes effective July 1. Even with this fast start, construction is not expected to be complete until September 1, 1961.

Thanks Tawes, Assembly

"The faculty, administration, students and people of Western Maryland deeply appreciate the action of Governor Tawes in placing the $425,000 in his supplemental budget and the action of the General Assembly in accepting this addition to the budget, Mr. Hardesty stressed.

Mr. Hardesty emphasized that he wished to express appreciation to Governor Tawes, Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan, former Judge William C. Walsh, Delegates Lester B. Reed and Leslie Savage, both members of the House ways and means committee; Senator Charles M. See, member of the Senate finance committee, the full Delegation from both Allegany and Garrett counties, civic organizations and many friends for their support in getting this new residence hall.

The new residence hall will be built on Park Avenue, where 13 residences have been purchased by the State of Maryland.

Other Projects

One of the summer renovation projects involves Allegany Hall, formerly the campus school but now used for college classrooms. This job will include rearrangement of classrooms and offices, repair of window sashes, reconditioning of floors. This project, which will have to be done by a contractor, will provide six additional classrooms.

The laboratory school for children from kindergarten through sixth grade has been conducted in the new Thomas G. Pullen School since last September.

Other work will be done in Frost Hall, where the first floor facilities now include the dining hall and kitchen. The dining hall will be partitioned into two sections. One half will be for quiet study and overflow from the nearby library, which is overcrowded. The other half will be used for a living room for the 136 girls who are housed on the second and third floor dormitory spaces. A year hence the current kitchen will be renovated into an infirmary.

Dining Hall To Move

Beginning in September, the dining hall will function in the new William A. Gunter Hall now nearing completion. It will accommodate 350 students for meals. The present Varsity Shop, a snack bar and book shop, also will be moved to Gunter Hall. Then the old Varsity Shop will be converted into a day room for 500 commuting students. They now have only a very small room.

Mr. Hardesty said he and Mr. Reid also discussed utilization of four basement rooms under Old Main and Allegany Hall. They will be arranged for use by maintenance men and staff.

Even with these improvements, the college still will have to find rooms in Frostburg next year for about 150 students. The anticipated enrollment September 1 is 1,000 compared with 844 last September and 785 for the current semester.

Dedication ceremonies for Pullen School and Gunter Hall have been scheduled for June 5 during the commencement ceremonies.

Hazelwood Bids Low On Army Reserve Center

Officials of the Washington District, Corps of Engineers, told The Associated Press that the Hazelwood basic bid was $267,300.

Other bids, both entered by Cumberland firms, included the George Construction Company, $269,307, and O. R. Sensabaugh, $309,450.

There may be a hitch, however, in awarding the contract.

An official of the Corps of Engineers said there may not be sufficient funds available to meet the low bid. If enough money is not available, he said, the Army Engineers may throw out all three bids.

The spokesman for the Army Engineers said there was no indication when a decision will be reached.

The Washington District recently advertised for bids for the training center which will be located on a 6.11-acre site on Route 220 adjoining the Amcelle plant.

The main structure will be 156 by 46 feet, with an attached 70 by 50-foot assembly wing and a 47 by 50-foot maintenance shop.

Improvements to the site were also included in the contract.

Hampshire County authorities said a series of breaking and enterings extended over the past two years in the South Branch area were cleared up by the arrest of the family, which lives about three miles south of Romney. Police said the two younger Hott children participated in the thefts with their parents.

Mady 'Speaks' On Senate Floor, Gets Nowhere

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A brisk debate in the Maryland Senate suddenly went to the dogs Tuesday, thanks to Mady.

As See and a colleague vigorously debated a bill on state employes' salaries, Mady lounged beside her master's desk and impatiently thumped her tail. The debate grew hotter.

"I move that this bill be recommitted to the Finance Committee," shouted See's adversary, Sen. John - Clarence North (D-Talbot).

"Warf! Warf!" protested Mady.

"Let's hope she can't vote," retorted North.

She couldn't, and the bill was recommitted. As soon as the laughter died down, Mady resumed her tail thumping.

Opponents Hope For Delay In Senate

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — A proposal for a constitutional convention, that small counties fear will lead to a decrease in their representation in the Maryland Legislature, finally passed the House of Delegates Tuesday.

The favorable vote of 67-55, five more than needed, came after another delaying motion was beaten 69-51. Opponents had stalled off a decision since last Thursday and now hope there will not be time for one in the Senate before adjournment scheduled Wednesday night.

Clearance of the controversial convention issue along with the annual capital improvements bill and state property tax just about wound up important business remaining in the House.

The state is authorized to borrow 20 million dollars for capital improvements. The property tax to pay for such construction will be 13¼ cents per 100 on property assessments.

The House gave a whopping 74-29 defeat to a bill that would have legally sanctioned all charges and interest on loans insured by the FHA or VA. Lenders have expressed fear about sending money into Maryland because some of the charges raise the interest over the state's legal maximum of 6 per cent.

The blow killing the bill was delivered when Speaker Wilkinson (D-Prince Georges) admitted under questioning by Del. Cannon (D-Wicomico) that the final version of the bill was printed before the House even voted on amendments Monday night.

The bill was sent to Baltimore for printing and returned to Annapolis in a matter of four hours Monday. Normally, it takes 24 hours.

Among bills enacted by the Senate in its afternoon session was a measure to permit the state superintendent of schools to enter in reciprocity agreements with officials of other states on certifying the qualifications of teachers.

The measure is designed to grant certain incoming teachers full qualification and pay, despite minor differences in the training required by Maryland and their former states.

Also enacted was a measure to authorize local subdivisions and counties to appropriate money for local industrial development corporations to attract new or strengthen existing industry or businesses essential to the economy of an area.

The Senate killed a bill to provide 10 per cent increases for about 1,000 hourly paid employes, most of them members of the State Roads Commission highway crews. Opponents said such employes are included in the recently enacted bill to give raises to veteran state employes.

Valentine was charged with the burglary of $205 from McCoole Elementary School last October 28. He was arrested last month in Ohio, and was returned here on a warrant obtained by Sgt. William F. Baker and Tfc. Milton G. Hart.
